Sky pirates 'deranged,' victims say

MIAMI (AP) — Their 28-hour 3,800-mile flight of terror ended, passengers aboard a hijacked jetliner have returned from Cuba with bizarre tales of three "deranged" sky pirates.

They also had words of praise for the Southern Airways crew which landed the crippled DC9 on a foam-covered Havana runway.

Another Southern DC9 returned the 27 passengers and four crewmen to Miami and finally to their original destinations Sunday after an attempt by FBI sharpshooters to halt the hijacking failed Saturday night and forced the emergency landing in Cuba.

All three hijackers were taken into custody by Cuban officials at Havana. Passengers said Cuban authorities also confiscated ransom money demanded and collected by the hijackers from Southern.

"Everyone thought they would be dead in an hour," said passenger Gale Buchanan at a Miami hospital, recalling how FBI agents shot out four of the plane's tires as it prepared for takeoff after a refueling stop at Orlando, Fla.

Buchanan, 35, of Auburn, Ala., who suffered a sprained knee, was one of four persons injured during the hijacking. Copilot Billy Johnson, 37, mayor of College City, Ark., was shot in the shoulder by one of the hijackers.

Buchanan said the hijackers acted in a bizarre manner during the circuitous, three-nation flight. He said they alternately handed out fistfulls of ransom money, forced male passengers to remove their pants and shot the copilot after threatening to "put a bullet in your head."

The hijackers, reportedly armed with guns and grenades, had demanded a $10-million ransom for the plane and its passengers. An undisclosed amount of money was given to the sky pirates during a stop in Chattanooga, Tenn., Saturday. Southern refused to say how much money had been given to them.

Authorities say two of the three men identified as hijackers of a Southern Airways jetliner were free on bond in a rape case and the third was a recently escaped convict who attended college while in prison.

Detroit police said Henry D. Jackson, 25, and Lewis K. Moore, 27, each had been charged with three rapes and questioned in connection with several other assaults on women. Neither has been convicted on such charges.

On Oct. 12, the two men appeared in court on two charges of forcible rape and were released on $500 bond.

Tennessee prison authorities said Melvin Charles Cale, 21, of Oak Ridge escaped Oct. 29 from the Nashville Community Work Release Center, a minimum-security facility for short-term prisoners.

The FBI identified the three as the heavily armed hijackers who forced a DC9 with 30 persons aboard into a marathon hijack odyssey that ended early Sunday in Havana, where Cuban officials reportedly took them in custody.

Wiretap secret upheld

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today allowed the government to proceed with the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo without revealing to them who in the defense team was overheard in a "foreign-intelligence" wiretap.

Ellsberg and Russo are charged with espionage, conspiracy and misuse of government property in the publication of top-secret study of the origins of the Vietnam war. Their trial in Los Angeles has been delayed since July 29 by the dispute over wiretapping.

The court did not comment on the issues as it handed down a routine order declining to hear an appeal by Ellsberg and Russo, who argued also that "foreign-intelligence" wiretaps without warrants are illegal.

A dissenting opinion was filed by Justice William O. Douglas who stayed the trial in July while the court was in its summer recess. Justice William J. Brennan Jr. also dissented.

Ellsberg andRusso needed the votes of at least four justices to have their appeal taken up by the court. The vote against them was seven to two.

Douglas said he regretted that his colleagues did not take the occasion to lay down some further ground rules for the conduct of criminal cases involving electronic surveillance. He also said that it was time "we hold that the confidences of the lawyer-client relationship remain inviolate."

Douglas said he had examined the logs "and it appears that the electronics surveillance was of a telephone of a foreign national and that the intercepted conversations in this case had nothing to do with respect to activities of foreign persons or their agents."

Last Aug. 9, U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne of Los Angeles, who was presiding at the trial, sent the jurors home until the court settled the appeal.

Haig, Thieu reportedly narrowed position gap

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's special emissary to Saigon returns today amid widespread expectation that adviser Henry A. Kissinger will soon head for another peace negotiating session in Paris.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. was slated to report to Nixon following his homecoming after two days of talks with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu and short stops in Cambodia and South Korea. The U.S. embassy described the talks with Thieu as "cordial and constructive."

Nixon came back to Washington from Key Biscayne, Fla., Sunday night for a few hours' stay before proceeding to his Camp David, Md., retreat.

Just when Kissinger will head for Paris to meet again with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho remains a secret. Administration officials maintained their air of confidence, however, about moving toward final accord on ending the war.

Kissinger said Oct. 26 that remaining issues could be straightened out in more negotiating session lasting three or four days. Since the administration officials have left open the possibility that Kissinger may need more than one more parley with Tho.

Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy anticipated a further Kissinger-Tho meeting in a Paris interview over the weekend, though he held to North Vietnam's position that the session should be devoted to procedures for signing the proposed nine-point pact—not to altering it.

Haig's Saigon visit was a further Nixon move to overcome Thieu's objections to the peace plan and line up a common position for the allies.

U.S. officials in Saigon indicated the talks narrowed U.S.-South Vietnamese differences, apparently clearing the way for resumption of the private negotiations in Paris.

But the Saigon newspaper Tin Song, which is controlled by Thieu's closest adviser, said Haig and the president had made "no further progress" in their talks.

The report said three major points still were to be resolved: the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces, the administrative organization to maintain the cease-fire and supervise elections and under what conditions and when will the international body to police the cease-fire begin work.

Thieu has been calling for a pullout of North Vietnamese foroes from South Vietnam, a condition not specified in the nine-point plan, and has fought any imposition of a coalition government on Saigon.

Haig, Kissinger's top aide, was reported to have carried a Nixon letter to Thieu.

Haig conferred in Phnom Penh with the Cambodian chief of state, Lon Nol, and in Seoul with President Chung Hee Park.

Both countries would be directly affected by the nine-point plan. It calls for withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from Cambodia and for a pull-out of South Korean troops, along with the Americans, from South Vietnam. Some 37,000 South Koreans are in South Vietnam.

Sex, drug law changes urged

FONTANA, Wis. (AP) — The "simple use and possession of marijuana" would be legalized and "crimes against sexual morality" would be abolished under recommendations made by the Citizens Study Committee on Judicial Organization during the weekend.

The task force appointed by Gov. Patrick Lucey ended a two-day meeting Saturday after approving the proposals which had been drafted by its substantive and procedural law subcommittee.

"Some 24 million Americans have tried marijuana," the subcommittee said in its report. "This widespread disregard of the law has produced a situation with respect to marijuana analogous to that with respect to alcohol during the Prohibition era."

The crimes against sexual morality which the task force asked be eliminated include private offenses of fornication between consenting adults, adultery, sexual perversion and cohabitation under circumstances implying intercourse.

The subcommittee did not condone the use of marijuana and urged the state to maintain control of its sale by establishing a regulatory body.

Milwaukee attorney Robert Harland, chairman of the subcommittee, and Howard Packer of Racine, vice president of S. C. Johnson and Son Inc., vigorously opposed the two recommendations.

Both contended that the marijuana and sex matters had nothing to do with court reform, judicial salaries and elections—which the task force had been assigned to probe.

"It's an outrage to come here and discuss reforms relating to our state court system and then to go ahead and legalize adultery," Packard said.

But the task force chairman, Milwaukee banker John Geilfuss, said Lucey had not restricted the 40-member group from considering and making recommendations on criminal laws as they affect the courts and their caseloads.

"I rule these matters come appropriately before this committee," he said, and a majority of the panel members affirmed his stand.

The task force also endorsed subcommittee proposals that the public drunkenness law be repealed and alcoholics be treated as sick people, and that noncommerical gambling be legalized.

And the study committee agreed with suggestions that the sole ground for divorce action should be "irreconcilable differences which have caused the irremediable breakdown of the marriage," and that judges should be replaced by family court commissioners in the handling of uncontested and stipulated divorce cases. Further study into the makeup of boards to regulate a state legal service corporation and to certify qualified judicial nominees was ordered by the task force.

The study committee recommended that a legal services corporation be formed to provide lawyers for the poor and that a Judicial Qualifications Commission be formed to certify nominees for appointment to judicial posts on the basis of merit in place of the current election process.

The task force asked its court availability subcommittee to continue to look into who should be included on a board of trustees to run the nonprofit, nonstock agency.

The subcommittee had suggested that the board be composed of the chief justice of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, three members selected by the State Bar of Wisconsin and five citizen members appointed by the governor.

But the inclusion of any judicial representative on the board was questioned by some task force members, as was the appointing by the governor of all of the citizen members.

The task force referred to a special subcommittee for further study the question of who should be appointed to a Judicial Qualifications Commission.

The group's subcommittee on judges had proposed that the commission include three nonlawyers appointed by the governor, three judges designated by the Wisconsin Supreme Court, and three lawyers elected by the State Bar of Wisconsin.

Attorney Leonard Zubrensky of Milwaukee suggested that the commission consist of five nonlawyers appointed by the governor, one member appointed by the chief justice

China readies blast against weapons ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — China prepared a blast against the Soviet Union in the U.N. General Assembly today, opposing a Soviet proposal for an assembly declaration renouncing the use of force and banning nuclear weapons.

Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua, chairman of the Chinese delegation, was one of a dozen speakers listed for the assembly debate on the Soviet proposal.

Peking's official People's Daily commented on Sunday that, while the Soviets were poposing the prohibition of all kinds of weapons, they were building up their supply "for carrying out unbridled nuclear threat and nuclear blackmail against countries with little or no nuclear armament."

During the assembly's general debate on Oct. 3, Chiao described the Soviet resolution as "shabby stuff." He opposed an unconditional declaration against the use of force, explaining: "We support just wars." And he said the Soviet Union should declare that it would not be the first to use nuclear weapons before it talked of banning them altogether.

The Soviet resolution, submitted Sept. 26 by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, declares on behalf of U.N. members "their renunciation of the use of force in international relations and the permanent prohibition of nuclear weapons."

It recommends that the Security Council give the declaration binding force under the U.N. charter. But diplomatic sources said Western European countries had objected to this provision because the U.N. charter says the council cannot adopt a binding decision without finding that there is a threat to peace in a specific case.

The diplomats said the Russians were flexible on whether the provision should remain, and some of their friends were trying to frame the resolution in a generally acceptable form before it comes to a vote next weekend.

Since the current debate opened, only 11 countries, all Arab or Communist, have spoken on the proposal. All of them favored the resolution or something similar to it.

The United States feels that such a declaration is unnecessary since the U.N. charter already has committed members to refrain from the use of force in international relations.

Proxmire wants talks on arms with Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., urged today that the United States begin strategic arms limitation talks with China.

He said it was because China possesses missiles capable of attacking the Soviet Union that Russia insisted during the SALT negotiations with the United States on retaining an anti-ballistic missile station at Moscow.

1st storm of winter hits Europe

LONDON (AP) — A storm of violent winds, rain and snow swept across Europe today, leaving more than a score of persons dead, homes destroyed or flooded and uprooted trees, still bearing golden leaves of autumn, lying across roads and highways.

Germany was hardest hit. Winds up to 124 miles an hour howled through the Harz Mountains. Twelve persons were killed at least five by falling trees.

In Huettental, a roof blew off a school, killing an 11-year-old girl and injuring others at a nearby bus stop.

In Bremen, a metal sign ripped the roof of a packed bus, killing one person. In Brunswick a woman was crushed by a crumbling chimney.

The Netherlands, battered by winds of 90 m.p.h., lost six persons — three from falling trees, two farmers on emergency work, and one drowned when his boat overturned.

In Gosselies, Belgium, a woman was killed when the roof of her house was lifted and fell back, crushing the top story.

In France, a passenger in a truck was killed when it was blown off the main Paris-Lille road.

Southern Europe appeared to have been protected by the Alps where the main passes were closed by six inches of snow.

Snow fell, too, in the Pennine Hills of England. Trees blocked roads just as their leaves had blocked railways three days earlier. Three persons were reported killed. Talbot, in south Wales, was under three feet of water.

China will buy eight more British jetliners

HATFIELD, England (AP) — Ambassador Sung Chiah-kuang announced today that China is buying eight more Trident jetliners costing about $60 million from Britain.

The order, signed in Peking Nov. 9, brings total Trident sales to Peking to more than $163 million. The Chinese signed contracts earlier for 12 of the planes, which are manufactured by Hawker Siddeley Aviation.

Sung accepted delivery of the first of the planes at a ceremony today at Hawker's plant north of London.

The company's chairman, Sir Arnold Hall, announced that Hawker is building a special Trident for China with a range of 1,930 miles. The maximum range of those operating for British European Airways is 1,500 miles.

TV-11 Responds to a Community Need

WLUK-TV recently conducted a comprehensive survey to sample audience response to television newscasts, in general . . . and TV-11 News, in specific. Among other things, it was discovered that area viewers consider a comprehensive weather report to be of primary importance in a local newscast.
TV-11 General Manager, Tom Hutchison, and News Director, Tom Torinus, took immediate steps to develop the most fully instrumented broadcast weather service in the state.
The result of their efforts is the acquisition of Bob Thomas . . .one of the foremost TV Meteorologists in the nation, plus the most modern radar system in existence . . . one of only six now in use in America.
The new service will be geared to immediate and long-range needs of all viewers including farmers, sporstmen and resort owners, homemakers, retailers, transportation workers and travelers.

TV-11 COMPLETE WEATHER SERVICE

1. Long range high power meteorological Radar Model WR 100-2 (One of six in entire U.S.A.)

Heavy snow may cover Fox Valley

An early winter storm moving northeast from Southern Kansas may bring six or more inches of snow and rain into the Fox Valley today and Tuesday, according to United States Weather Bureau forecasters at Green Bay

The forecasters established a heavy snow warning and predicted cloudy and windy skies with rain today which will change to snow. Considerable blowing or drifting is likely tonight, according to forecasts. The low tonight may be near 30 and the high Tuesday in the lower 30s. Snow will continue Tuesday diminishing to flurries with windy skies and colder temperatures. Wind will be northeast at 18-30 m.p.h. tonight becoming northwest at 18-30 m.p.h. Tuesday.

Temperatures may drop further Wednesday as cold Canadian air enters the Fox Valley, according to forecasters.

The high Sunday in Appleton was 39, and the low was 29, according to Wisconsin Michigan Power Company records. The barometer was 30.40 and falling. Wind was northeast at 10 m.p.h. and the humidity was 62 per cent. The dew point was 23 and skies were overcast. There was no precipitation.

A storm system dropped up to nine inches of snow in parts of Colorado today and was moving northeastward, according to Associated Press reports. Strong winds with the storm reached gusts of 40 miles per hour.

Elsewhere in Wisconsin the high Sunday was 47 at Pewaukee The low was 18 at Superior. The nation's high was 92 recorded at McAllen, Tex., and the low was zero, listed at Alamosa, Colo.

5 youths charged in damage spree

Five rural Outagamie county youths, four of them juveniles, have been charged in connection with nearly $1,000 damage to a tractor, crops and a house at route 1, Black Creek, Sept. 10.

Two 17-year-olds, one a route 2, Black Creek girl and the other a Black Creek boy, appeared in Outagamie County Juvenile Court Friday. Judge R. Thomas Cane continued their cases so they could consult attorneys.

A 17-year-old route 2, Kaukauna boy and a 16-year-old Black Creek girl also are scheduled to appear in Juvenile Court. An 18-year-old Seymour youth appeared in criminal court on charges of furnishing beer to minors and causing criminal damage to property.

The juveniles were charged with possession of beer, causing an estimated $500 damage to a tractor owned by Duane Wussow, route 1, Black Creek; causing about $250 damage to Wussow's cabbage field; doing about $100 damage to a corn field at the Wilfred Theobald farm, also route 1, Black Creek, and doing about $100 damage to a nearby, vacant house owned by John Fitzgerald, Washington, D.C.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators said Wussow's tractor was used to make several sweeps across a 20-acre cabbage field and Theobald's corn field. The tractor then went out of control, ending up in a 10-foot-deep drainage ditch.

Negotiations set on state employe salary package

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Closed-door negotiations are scheduled to start Tuesday on a Wisconsin State Employes Union pay package which would up the state budget by $250 million over the next two years.

John Kitzke, state director of employment relations, announced Thursday the scheduled opening of talks.

The union, which represents about one-third of Wisconsin's 32,000 civil service employes, has asked for an average salary increase of 25 per cent and a number of fringe benefits.

The pay package would cover all civil service employes, whether or not they are members of the union.

After a pay proposal is agreed upon by the union and the state, it must be ratified by the employes, approved unammended by the joint legislative committee on employe relations, and passed by the legislature, also without amendment.

It would then be submitted to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey for veto or signature. Lucey has said he thinks the union's initial demands are excessive.

The union has set July 1, 1973, the beginning of the new fiscal year, as target effective date for a new pay plan.

Cardboard inserts required for game

BY CAPPY DICK

The results achieved by today's fun project for boys and girls can benefit every member of the family. By following the instructions a young reader can make a set of index inserts that will simplify the task of finding any telephone number.

Thin cardboard, such as that which laundries use in men's shirts, will be suitable. Thicker cardboard would make the phone book too thick.

At least 11 inserts will be needed, as shown in figures one and two. Cut them slightly longer than the length of the book. The exact size will depend on the group of letters represented. For example, the insert for A is the narrowest of all. The B insert is slightly wider so the tab at the top can be seen without interference from the tab of A. The width of the various inserts is increased until that of W, X, Y and Z which is the widest of all.

At the top of each insert, cut away part of the cardboard to leave a tab that is taller than the pages. On this print the letters which that tab represents. Then you want to find the number in the book, turn to the section containing the initial of the last name. This saves time otherwise used in flipping the pages to arrive at the required alphabetical section.

Plastic designs for modern living

Many people starting out to furnish their homes with sleek, clean-lined modern furniture have been shocked and frustrated to find that such tasteful simplicity comes high — often too high for their budgets. One company with 82 years of experience in plastics set its engineers and designers to work tackling the problem. The result is Syroco's new Lifestyle, a new concept of furniture molded from strong and durable ABS plastic with designs that offer a new approach to living at affordable prices.

ABS, actually acrylonitrile - butadiene-styrene, is a remarkably rugged thermoplastic, the same material used for telephones, pro football helmets and snowmobiles. The color is clear through and its glorious high gloss finish and carefree properties make it an ideal material for furniture.

Perfect for porch, patio, lawn, poolside as well as for living room, family room bathroom, kitchen and bedroom, this new collection is a unique group of seating designs, occasional furniture and accent pieces. Its versatility lends a chameleon-like quality that adapts to a cushy decor as easily as it does to a casual one.

The entire collection was designed with today's need for modern styling, color and price.

The informal leisure living pattern that everyone seems to be seeking these days requires that things be easy care. These plastic pierces need only a damp or wet colth to wipe them clean before drying with a cloth. Since the color is molded right in, it can't chip, crack or scrape off. For those who live with salt air and sea spray, it means no corrosion.

The furniture is light in weight, but not too light. It is easy to move, making it versatile for arranging and rearranging in endless variations of seating combinations.

Introduced during the recent Southern Furniture Market in High Point, N.C., the collection should begin to appear in local stores after the first of the year.

Limited space

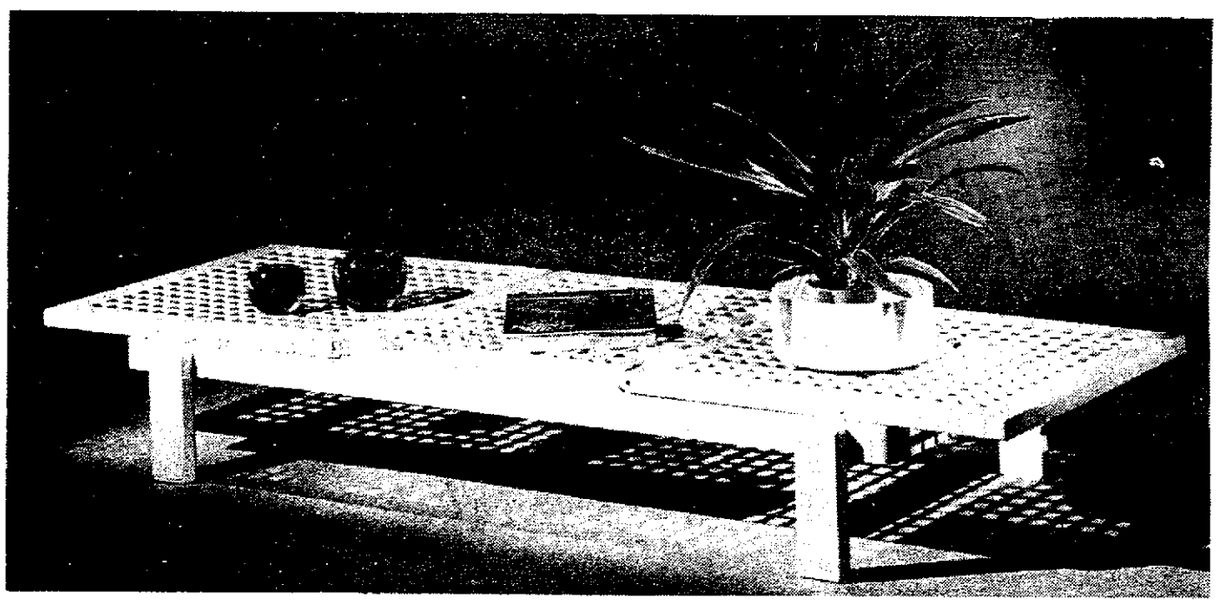
Three-legged

Typical of the designs in this new collection is this three-legged chair. As the other pieces, it is engineered for strength as well as lightness. The turned edges of the outer frame reinforce the legs and back while providing a fundamental design element.

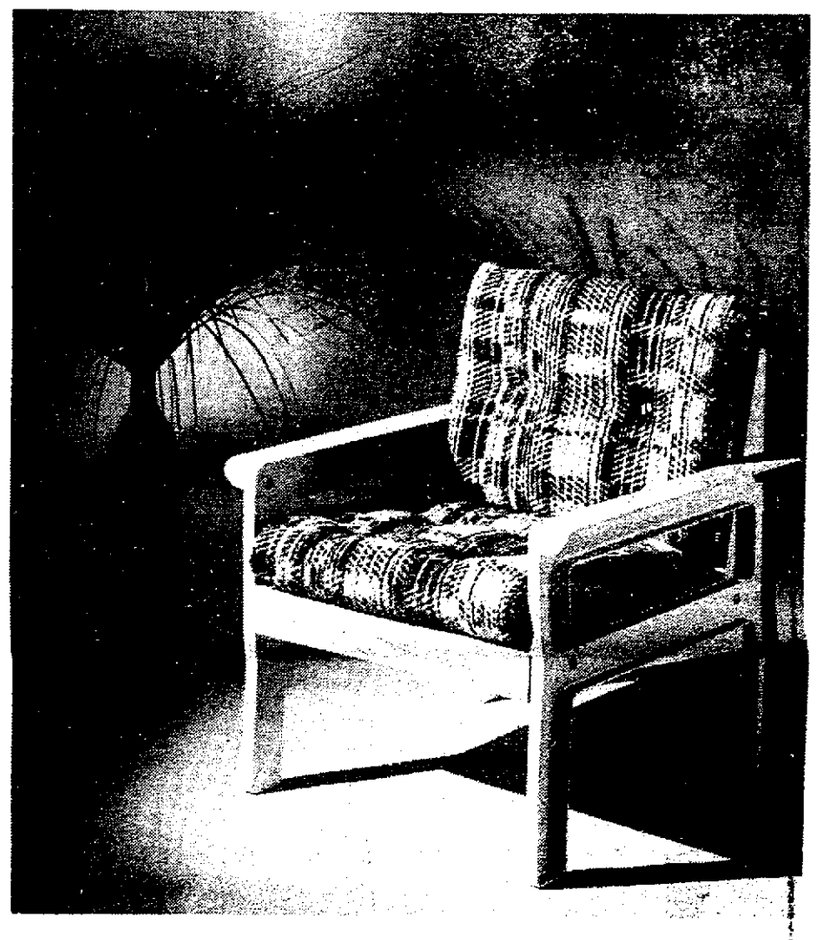


Eye fooler

This coffee table, at left, is something to fool the eye. It's hard to believe but it is really a chaise lounge minus its padded cushion. Both ends can be raised to four sitting or lounging positions.

Seating

At right is a modern armchair with versatility built into the design. The basic modular design is from the new collection molded of tough and durable ABS plastic. Right and left arm as well as armless versions are also available.



Consumer price index explained

"You're probably gulping at the high cost of living these days. But understanding the how and why of it is another matter. By learning to understand the consumer price index (CPI), you can get a better idea of the changes in the purchasing power of your dollar," points out Louise Young, home management specialist at the University of Wisconsin-Extension.

The CPI measures national and regional average price changes of goods and services from one period to another. Often called the cost-of-living index, it can help in planning and adjusting family finances.

The cost-of-living index for June 1972 was 125.0. This means that the same goods costing $10 in 1967 (the base price index) now cost $12.50. In other words, there has been about a 25 per cent increase in the cost of living since 1967.

Costs recorded

The CPI deals with prices actually charged to consumers, including sales and excise taxes. Costs are recorded by employed shoppers and then compared with previous prices to determine the net change. The index is published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor.

According to the specialist, the total U.S. figure is found by averaging individual city price changes. About 56 cities are included in the census. Recently, the Bureau of Labor Statistics developed a new set of city consumer price indexes. So now, you may be able to compare price changes in your area with changes in another area of the same population size, as well as with the U.S. average.

Approximately 400 goods and services are measured by the index. These compose the market basket for current pricing. The content of this market basket, in terms of items, quantities and qualities, is kept unchanged. This way, any differences in the index from one month to the next are due solely to changes in prices.

Five groupings

Five basic groupings of goods and services are measured in the index: food at home and away from home; housing, which includes rent, ownership, utilities and furnishings; clothing and its upkeep; public and private transportation; health and recreation. This allows you to compare price changes among classes of goods as well as the overall price change. For example, although most complaints lately concern rising food costs, food has actually gone up at a lower rate this year than home ownership and public transportation, reports the expert.

"As of September, the CPI has not risen as sharply this year as it had by this time last year. The rise last September was four per cent over the previous year. This year's increase is 3.3 per cent. Lately, the rise in the cost of apparel accounted for about one-half the jump," she points out.

"The CIP can help you understand what's happening to your family finances. And, the index affects the pay of union workers whose wages are tied to CPI. It's used as a measure of changes in the purchasing power of the collar for such diverse purposes as adjusting royalties, pensions and welfare payments. Also, the CPI is used as a reflection of inflationary or deflationary trends in the economy.

"Keep in mind, though, that the CPI is based on price changes of goods and services purchase by the broad group of city wage earners and clerical workers and not to an individual family's living cost. And it does not include farm families. However, most farm families have buying habits similar to those of the consumers included in the index.

"Generally, there's a two- or three-month lag between gathering and publishing of the CPI. And although the 400 items measured remain fairly constant, your buying habits may not. Remeber, too, "she concluded," that the statistics are an average of statistics from 56 cities. They may not apply to every community. The CPI is an average measure of price change and merely reflects "trends" in the U.S. or in particular regions."

Children's art to be exhibited at Bergstrom

NEENAH — An exhibit of children's art is planned from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the John Nelson Bergstrom Art Center. Works of approximately 100 students ranging in age from kindergarten to junior high school will be on view includung papier mache, encaustic, oil, tissue paper collage, watercolor, pastel, linoleum block printing, batik and jewelry.

Instructors were Mrs. James Ely, Mrs. James Scandin and Mrs. Dennis Van de Hey.

Registration for winter sessions will be taken theday of the exhibit or by contacting Mrs. Ely. Another 10-week course will begin Jan. 6 for preschoolers through ninth grade.

A new program is also being offered for pre-school four and five-year olds beginning Jan. 11 and will be limited to 12 students. A class for children in grades four through six is planned.

Nurses hear Dr. Harding

Dr. H. W. Harding discussed the topic, "Surgery for Coronary-Artery Disease," when he spoke to Appleton District Nurses Association last Wednesday at the Left Guard Charcoal House.

Members have been invited to share a meeting with Green Bay District Nurses Association Wednesday at Guido's Supper Club, Green Bay. Mrs. Barbara Nichols, past president of the Wisconsin Nurses Association, will speak on, "The Expanded Role of the Nurse."

Lorna Springstrogh, president elect of the local unit, will attend an orientation program sponsored by the state unit at Milwaukee Nov. 30-Dec. 1.

A budget discussion was held. Checks will be presented to several area groups for Christmas giving.

Success story leads DAR to work toward local citizenship program

BY CAROL HANSON
Post-Crescent staff writer

The story of a successful class for aliens seeking to become U.S. citizens unfolded Thursday evening as Mary Pierce of Wisconsin Rapids told members of the Appleton chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) how she came to begin and develop a curriculum for such a class five years ago in her community.

Mrs. Pierce, who is national DAR public relations chairman, bubbled with enthusiasm as she recalled that it was in 1913 when the DAR founded the national school for aliens in Washington, D.C. Although the DAR still aids the school, it is now part of the public school system, she said.

Since the inception of the national program, Mrs. Pierce pointed out, 10.5 million copies of the citizenship booklet the organization prepared in 1913, because there was none, have been distributed by the group. Although it was originally written in nine languages, today it is done only in English since applicants for citizenship are required to have knowledge of the language. The naturalization department still considers this manual the best available, although others have been written in recent years.

Idea comes

Because the DAR always has a representative present during naturalization ceremonies throughout the country, Mrs. Pierce was attending such proceedings when she got the brainstorm to begin a class in her own community.

Liking the idea so much but feeling it needed to be talked over, she went immediately to her husband's office to sound him out. Happily, she reported, Dudley thought it such a good idea that he volunteered to help teach the class.

After that she wrote the naturalization department listing her qualifications and those of her husband. When she was granted permission to proceed with the project, she talked with the vocational school personnel and began developing the course.

Through the local newspapers and radio stations in the eight counties making up the vocational school district, the word of the impending class went out to the community.

The first class, held in 1967, saw nine persons from four countries — Canada, Belgium, East and West Germany — graduate to citizenship. Free of charge to those interested, this class was planned to meet twice a week for 12 weeks.

Throughout this period, Mrs. Pierce was concerned because members of the class weren't mixing during the social period. This she blamed on national origins and on the atmosphere of the classroom itself.

The decision was made to move the class to the Pierces' dining room where students could meet "eyeball to eyeball." Here, she said, there developed discussion and learning.

Shortened course

Although the original premise had been to have several people come in to teach the students, the Pierces soon found themselves taking on the whole project with Dudley doing the actual teaching. A lawyer, he is a most able teacher, she said, and the students feel freer to ask questions with just one person at the helm. The course itself was shortened to an 8-week period.

During the five years of the project, approximately 10 students have enrolled in each class. They study such things as government, including branches and responsibilities, the Bill of Rights, the Constitution, the Preamble. They learn the responsibilities of citizenship and are introduced to American authors and their works.

While politics per se are not discussed, questions are often related to present day problems, Mrs. Pierce said. A few years ago it was the riots in the streets; today it's apt to be freedom of speech and its implications, and the reasons Congress — the only body with the right to declare war — has not done so in the case of Vietnam.

They wonder, she said, why we haven't won that undeclared war when, after World War II, we were the most powerful country in the world.

Mrs. Pierce said the aliens find it hard to believe that in this country they are innocent until proven guilty since the exact opposite is true in parts of the world where they come from.

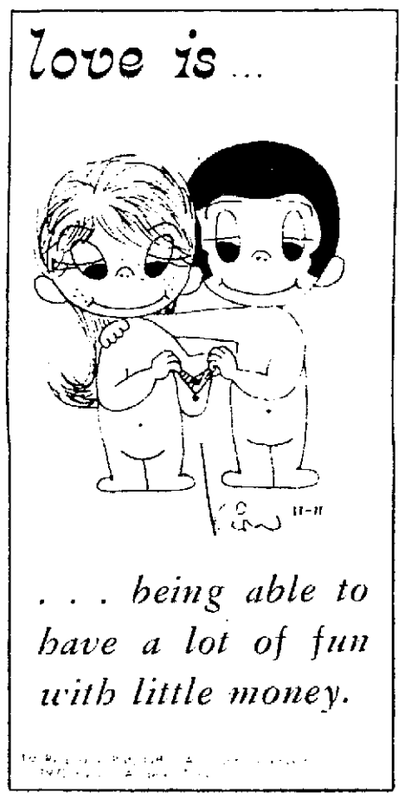
The fact that we are ruled by the people, and the concepts of the balance of and separation of powers, are totally new ideas to these people.

Mrs. Pierce told of individuals who had gained citizenship after completion of the class — an 80-year-old Norwegian woman who had been in this country for 60 years and wanted to be able to vote as an American citizen before she died; the couple who had escaped from East Germany on the last train before the wall went up; the English lady who couldn't believe anyone would open her home to aliens — all are part of the warm feeling she has for what she and her husband are doing.

Appleton class

After her discussion, the Appleton chapter probed ways to begin such a class for the five counties that compose this vocational district. In the process of working toward this end over the past several months, the women are looking to the day when it will be reality. One member, who had been in Wisconsin Rapids at the time Mrs. Pierce was beginning her class and helped with it, has volunteered to teach. The DAR chapter believes that the need exists here just as it did in Mrs. Pierce's area.

Anyone interested in enrolling in a citizenship class may call the local DAR president, Mrs. George Howden, for more information.



Food shopping today requires some skill

BY JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (AP) — If you'd like to save money food shopping, leave the children at home and eat before you go.

Judy Stang offers the suggestions as short-term ways to help you resist expensive impulse buys.

"All the things that appeal to children are at their eye level, and it's hard to tell a little fellow he can't have some cereal he wants."

On a longer-range basis, she suggests looking at your shopping habits. Miss Stang is director of consumer interests for the Ontario Food Council, a marketing arm of the provincial department of agriculture.

"People are very price conscious, but sometimes they don't look at the quality they're getting."

For instance, one store may offer steaks at a lower price than another, but the lowerpriced ones may not match the others in aging or good trimming.

"Fruits and vegetables can be expensive at certain times of the year; we're all tempted by out-of-season, imported produce. Again, it's very important that you get quality for the money. Sometimes a local store or a roadside stand can get you better quality than a supermarket.

"Be familiar with when local produce comes on the market." There are times when canned or frozen fruits and vegetables can be a better buy than fresh produce.

"People sometimes make price comparisons that really aren't accurate.

For instance, people look at the price per pound of food rather than price for serving. A roast might have a ten-cents-apound difference between bone in and bone out, but the bone out could be less expensive per serving because you use more of it.

"If you buy frozen fillets of fish, you get four servings to the pound because there is no waste."

baking potatoes. And foil is a bad thing to store potatoes in; you can get black rot inside because of the moisture.

"It's not always true that the larger the size the cheaper something is per unit. It depends partly on what is the most popular unit. Sometimes it's cheaper to buy the smaller size of instant coffee, because more people do so.

"Most people don't really read instructions or labels unless something goes wrong. Read the labels on frozen dinners, for instance, because they list ingredients in order of quantity. You can get a fair idea of how much meat is in it and how much you're paying for it."

But she says some cake mixes make a cheaper cake than you can make starting from scratch, and frozen french fries can be cheaper than home-made when you consider the cost of cooking oil.

"To be a good shopper today, you have to take it seriously because there are so many products available and so many sizes. It takes ability and some skill as a cook."

Miss Stang says it pays to know prices so that you know when a special really is a special, and even then, buy carefully.

"Buy what you need. If you can't store food properly or eat it fast enough, a special might not be special for you."

Learn enough about meats and produce to know what you're buying and how to use it, and consider how it's presented to you.

"Look at potatoes wrapped in a plastic bag or you might find when you get them home that you have green potatoes. Plastic bags let the light in; you may be better with a paper bag.

"When you buy foil-wrapped potatoes, you're paying 10 times as much as you pay when you buy a bag of

Underage teens denied right to marry unless counseled

BY GAIL MILLER

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — "Marriage is a national institution, like getting a driver's license," declares Fresno County Family Court marriage counselor Lelan Bergstrom.

"It is up to us to see if these teen-agers are qualified to be married, just as it is up to the Department of Motor Vehicles to see if they are qualified to drive a car."

Bergstrom and a staff of five counselors and volunteers in the Fresno County Family Services Division conduct the counseling sessions required for underage couples requesting court consent to marry.

Surprisingly, Bergstrom says, many times the news of the court's requirements for the counseling sessions comes quite unexpectedly to underage teens applying for a marriage license.

"We have tried to forewarn young people they will have to comply with these rules, but the word just doesn't seem to travel. Usually, they don't find out about them until they make their application for a license.

He added that one big problem is that some couples come in just a few days before the wedding, not knowing the classes take a week to complete. The wedding cake is ordered, the church is reserved, invitations are out and the couple is stunned to find they have been denied permission to marry because they have not attended the counseling sessions. In such cases the couple must either postpone the wedding or go out of the county to be married.

Although nearly all pastors and churches conduct some type of marriage counseling sessions, as do many schools, few are considered adequate by Bergstrom.

"So far, no school program in the county is adequate," he asserts. "And most clergy do pastoral counseling, but they don't get into the family planning aspects of marriage. Most of them are happy someone else is doing it."

Bergstrom says he is extremely pleased with the way the sessions are conducted and emphasizes that counselors do not tell couples they should or should not get married nor that they should or should not use birth control.

"We are only here to inform and encourage the young people to discuss these problems," he said.

How many couples are denied permission to marry? Statistics gathered in a descriptive study of the teen-age marriage applicants in Fresno County from March 1 to Dec. 1 period indicate that of 454 total cases approaching Family Court, 205 were approved, 21 were denied consent, 34 were of questionable status and 194 couples did not return for the counseling sessions.

The latter number is a mysterious statistic of grave concern to Bergstrom.

"We don't know what happens to them," he said. "Some probably go elsewhere to be married, perhaps others change their minds and decide not to get married after all. We just don't know."

The average male applying for court consent is 19.9 years old and the average female is 16.7 years old.

The oldest male applying for permission to marry a minor was 38 years old and the eldest female was 25. The youngest male asking for court consent was 15 and the youngest female 13.

The median income is $379 a month.

Of the total 454 applications, in 169 cases the female was pregnant. The applications were approved in 80 of the cases, denied in eight cases, with 81 not returning.

Leave last trump out for that extra chance

There's no absolute virtue in being thorough in everything you do. In fact, it pays to leave some jobs half-done. For example, when you're drawing the enemy's trumps, it may be very tidy to draw all of them; but it may be far more profitable to stop while there is still one trump out. Today's hand proves the point.

Opening lead — ♠ Q

West opened the queen of spades, and declarer won at once with dummy's ace. He next drew just two rounds of trumps, with the ace and king.

This left one trump out, as South well knew, but he wisely abandoned trumps. He switched to clubs, leading out the three top cards in that suit.

This seemed dangerous, but it was actually South's safest line of play. If the player with the last trump could ruff a high club, it would mean that the clubs were not going to break 3-3. In that case, South could avoid the ruff by drawing all of the trumps, but then he would have a losing club in his hand and would surely lose a club and three diamonds.

If the clubs were 3-3, nobody would ruff a high club. The contract would then be unbeatable no matter how South played it.

If the clubs were 4-2 or worse, South could make the contract provided that the opponent with long clubs also had the last trump. This possibility was the extra chance.

As it happened, West had to follow to all of the clubs. East showed out on the third club, but had no trumps. South could then lead his last club and ruff in dummy. This assured the contract.

Daily question

Partner opens with 1-NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S- Q J 10, H- 9 7 6, D- K J 2, C- J 9 8 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid 2-NT. Since you have 8 points, you know that the combined count is 24 to 26 points. Partner will decline your invitation with a bare 16 points, but will accept with 17 or 18 and should have a reasonable play for game.

Y Menettes announce plans

At the regularly scheduled meeting of the Appleton Y's Menette's Club Tuesday, husbands were invited to share a late luncheon and watch election returns at the Michael Aspan residence. During the business meeting members were asked to bring small gifts to the December meeting to be distributed to patients at Winnebago State Hospital at Christmas time. It was also decided that the Menettes again would sell wreaths at the Y's men's Christmas tree lot. Work parties to decorate wreaths were scheduled for Nov. 28 and 30 at the Herbert Lythjohn home, 3030 N. Morrison St.

Ann Landers

She didsomethingabout herself

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing for the benefit of "Insomnia in Idaho," the woman whose husband is having an affair with his secretary. When she said, "I thought I'd be the last wife inthe world to have such a problem," I heard myself talking. She's where I was four years ago. Here's what I did about it — and it saved my sanity. Maybe it will save hers.

Sit down with a piece of paper and a pencil. Make four headings at the top of the page. Label the first column "Personal Strengths." In it list all the things you have going for you: Education, Looks, Money, Skills, Connections, etc. Head the next column, "This Helped Me Before." List all the things that helped lift your spirits when you were troubled: Music, Sewing, Volunteer Work, Church, Painting, Physical Exercise, Change of Scenery. Head the third column "People I Can Count on." List your most reliable friends, a favorite relative, a neighbor, a doctor, a clergyman. Label the fourth column "New Opportunities." List the ways you can get back into the mainstream. Pretend you are a widow. (Emotionally you really are.) Is it a new job you need? A new city? Volunteer work? Back to school?

My salvation was going back to the university. I always wanted to get my degree. I not only achieved my goal but I found new values. Now I go looking for the person who is sitting alone. I sit down and start talking — or listening. The world is filled with troubled people who need friendship. I learned this when I was in need of help.

The best part of my story is that I kept my husband. Suddenly he was no longer the center of my existence. He began to respect me when I stopped begging for his love, checking on his whereabouts and making him feel like a heel. Today he sees me as a new person. And I guess I am. Just sign me — Reborn in New York

Dear New York: Bravo! You went to work and did something about yourself instead of demanding changes in others. So few people think of this approach because it's the most difficult one. My heartiest congratulations!

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl aged 17, and I've been going with a guy 20 for over a year-and-half. Jimmie and I have decided I should go on the pill. We feel it is the best way to prevent unwanted pregnancy.

I want to tell my mother about our decision but to be honest with you, I don't know how to broach the subject. Mom and I get along O.K. but we have never talked about anything intimate. Also, I'm afraid she might get angry and order me to quit seeing Jimmie immediately, which, of course, I would refuse to do.

Please, Ann, help me find the words. Even though Mom and I are not very close I don't want to deceive her. — Muddled Mouth

Dear M.M.: My advice is to see a doctor and learn if you should be on the pill. Maybe you ought to be using another type of contraceptive.

Your question as to whether or not to inform your mother is interesting. Why would you want to? Your decision has been made. What do you hope to accomplish? Would the statement be a Declaration of Independence? Or do you just want to shake her up? Think about it a while. Perhaps when you come up with the answers to these questions you'll decide to keep quiet. I hope so.

Are you parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pribbernow

Pribbernows wed 60 years

DALE — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pribbernow observed their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday at a family dinner at Rainbow Supper Club, New London.

They were married Nov. 21, 1912 and lived on a farm in Hortonville until retiring and moving to Dale 16 years ago.

The couple has three children: Mrs. Harold Maves, Wrightstown; Marvin, Hortonville, and Mrs. Eldred Doell, Appleton. They also have two granddaughters.

Sherry's popularity grows

BY TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If Spain made no other contribution to civilization, it would still be famous for the aperitif, dessert wine and cooking ingredient known as sherry.

Americans have become increasingly fond in recent years of this golden liquor from the Jerez district of southern Spain and often substitute it for cocktails before dinner. In doing so they have caused some raised eyebrows among purists back in the sherry country.

There are many varieties of sherry, but only two basic types: finos which are dry and olorosos which are darker not more than one-third can be drawn have been enjoyed as aperitifs and the more full-bodied olorosos as after dinner wines. But tradition-breaking Americans who liked the robust, flavor of the oloroso better than the more delicate finos often serve them before dinner "on the rocks."

It is an ironic fact that while sherry is developing in the casks, no one can tell what type it will be. If a yeastlike covering known as a "flor" develops, the wine will become a fino with a faint flavor of fresh almonds. If it does not it will become an oloroso.

One of the beauties of sherry is the fact that there are no vintage years to worry about. All sherry from Spain is a blend of many harvests. This is done through a blending method called the Solera system. Wines are matured in tiers of casks with the bottom casks containing the oldest wine which may date back a century

It is from this bottom tier that sherry is withdrawn for bottling, but not more than onethird can be drawn off at any one time and this is immediately replaced with younger wines from the middle tier. The middle tier in turn is replenished with still younger wines from the upper tiers. Thus every bottle contains a taste of the oldest wine in the solera and a blending of the younger ones.

Sherry probably was the first wine introduced to America. Columbus brought it to the New World in 1492, and Sir Walter Raleigh popularized it in Colonial America in the 1500s. In the 18th century Alexander Hamilton acquired such a fondness for sherry that he ordered it from Spain by the 100-gallon pipe.

Sherry has proved an excellent ingredient in soups, newburgs, sauces and desserts. With meats it has a tenderizing effect either used in a marinade or during cooking.

Here is a popular dessert featuring sherry.

FLOATING ISLANDS

3 egg whites
3 tablespoons grape jelly
1½ cups heavy cream
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon grated orange peel
½ cup sherry, chilled (oloroso)

Beat egg whites until almost stiff. Gradually beat in jelly until stiff meringue is formed. Whip cream with sugar and orange peel, and fold in sherry. Pour into a glass serving bowl. Spoon merinque islands on top of cream. Serves 6 persons.

Street construction plans are revealed

Current budget deliberations at City Hall have shed light on Public Works Department plans for street construction, resurfacing, reconstruction and other major improvement plans for 1973.

According to budgets given preliminary approval last week by the city council's finance committee, the department plans to rebuild 6,960 feet of existing concrete street and to install 11,070 feet of new concrete pavement at a total cost of $837,831; rebuild 8,890 feet of existing asphalt street, resurface another 7.180 feet and install initial asphalt surfacing on 1,545 feet of roadway at a total cost of $166,868.

Besides being subject to council approval when the 1973 budget is adopted later this month, the street projects also are dependent on separate council approval after public hearings which are scheduled to be held soon.

The 11,070 feet of new pavement would represent a slight gain in total length of streets paved, compared to new streets built and awaiting permanent surface. Plans also call for 8,950 feet of new street graded and gravel surfaced next year.

Some aldermen have complained that the paving program has failed in recent years to keep abreast of new street construction.

In addition to the paving program, the department has won finance committee approval of a $407,864 sanitary sewer program, including 6,770 feet of new sewer and 11,130 feet of reconstruction; a $36,700 sanitary sewer service lateral program; a $404,758 storm sewer program, including 12,350 feet of new sewer and 1,295 feet of reconstruction; a $59,304 street oiling program; and a $40,579 sidewalk construction and reconstruction program.

Also budgeted subject to council approval is $17,750 in bridge repair.

The largest single project in cost is the proposed $311,777 reconstruction of the College Avenue-Memorial Drive intersection.

It is one of three projects for which federal aid is to be sought, in the amount of $98,123, with the rest to be financed by bond issue. Other federal aid projects include improvements at the Calumet-S. Oneida Street intersection, including signal lights, with half the $4,500 cost financed federally, and reconstruction of Oneida Street in the industrial "flats", a $27,600 project with somewhat less than half hopefully eligible for aid.

The S. Oneida project was scratched from this year's reconstruction program after industrial representatives in the area said special assessments would be an excessive burden during a period of lagging business.

Public Works Director Robert Miller said the federal portion of the cost would come from the relatively new Federal Aid-Urban Systems program, and the Oneida project would be the first Appleton has undertaken under it.

Reconstruction of Lawe Street between Wisconsin Avenue and Alton Street, a $300,000 project, would have been eligible for $88,000 under the Urban Systems program, according to Miller.

But the city council recently upheld

Tonight's the night to question county budget

Outagamie County residents will have the opportunity to express their opinions on the proposed 1973 Outagamie County budget tonight.

The public hearing on the $15.8 million budget will start at 7 p.m. in the county board room of the courthouse.

After the public hearing, supervisors will start their own review of the document. Actual passage of the budget, with whatever modifications are made, is not expected until Friday.

Between now and Friday major capital outlay items, not now included in the budget, are expected to occupy most of the board's time.

Some of the issues facing supervisors are the Plamann Park development, solid waste disposal, courthouse telephone system and microfilming.

The Plamann Park plan, which has bounced around the board for three months, calls for a $183,000, three-year development phase with federal funds paying half the cost.

The board would have to commit itself to $91,000 in local tax funds over the three years.

Solid waste disposal is expected to take up most of Thursday's agenda as proponents of various systems appear before the full board.

County Executive Alvin Woehler and the board's coordinating committee have endorsed an Allis-Chalmers waste shredder plan, while other members of the board are supporting incineration or a form of recycling.

Frank Charlesworth, county coordinator of public services, and County Planner Robert Stadel are putting together a cost-comparison packate of the various systems for the board although the incinerator firm has not yet provided its cost figures.

The telephone system issue has boiled down to a fight between Woehler and the board's property, building and maintenance committee. The committee has recommended changing from the present system of individual telpehone lines for each office to a central switchboard.

Woehler is arguing for a central console for the social services and sheriff departments and leaving the rest of the courthouse as it is.

Microfilming is being backed by Woehler and a number of department heads. The system would first be used in the clerk of courts, district attorney and sheriff departments and later expanded to the register of deeds and probate offices.

On a more philosophical level, debate also is expected on whether to use revenue sharing funds for direct property tax relief or to use them for major projects, such as a solid waste disposal system.

The county will receive $743,000 in revenue sharing this year and about $800,000 in 1973. Woehler proposes to use $243,000 of this year's funds to cover expected overruns from the 1972 budget and $175,000 for tax relief next year, leaving a total of $1,175,000 for use on major outlay projects.

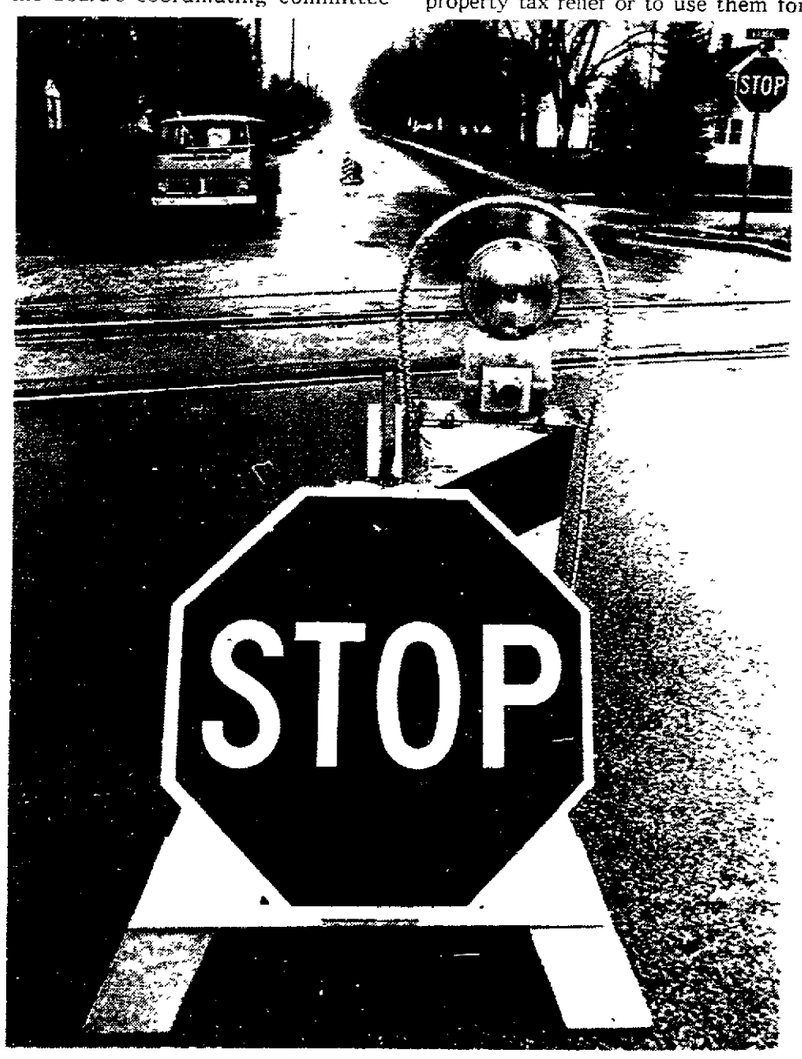
Damage set at $18,000 in Saturday fire

LITTLE CHUTE — Damage was estimated at $18,000 to the building, vehicles and tools after a fire swept through a machine shed owned by James Stein, route 1, Kaukauna, early Saturday night.

Little Chute and Town of Vanden Broek firemen were called at 5:30 p.m. to the blaze on Maloney Road in the town of Vanden Broek. The wood roof of the cement-block garage had caved in by the time firemen arrived, village Fire Chief Robert Lamers said.

Firemen remained at the scene until 7:30 p.m.

Lamers said men were working on a truck inside the building when ignited, exploding gas tanks and welding tanks. No one was injured.



Stop signs shifted at Randall-Owaissa

Stop signs have been shifted at Randall and Owaissa streets, where a young Appleton motorcyclist was killed Aug 3

Randall Street traffic used to have to stop at Owaissa There were no stop signs for Owaissa Street traffic Friday the controls were reversed

Todd Jenkel, 17, 948 E Byrd St , was killed when his motorcycle, northbound on Owaissa, ran into the side of a car that was eastbound on Randall

Police were told the motorcycle was going at a high speed when it came over the raised railroad crossing on Owaissa

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H Kemps, after conferring with police, recommended that four-way stop signs be installed at Randall and Owaissa, to discourage the practice of motorists, especially young ones, speeding over the raised tracks so that their vehicles leave the pavement

It was felt that the hazard could be sufficiently reduced by installation of a two-way stop for Owaissa traffic, Police Chief Earl O Wolff explained Kemps expressed concern today that with no stop signs on Randall, there could be a speeding problem because the street is straight for a considerable distance and is in good condition.

Temporary stop signs have been set up in the middle of Owaissa Street, a half block from Randall, as an added safety measure, until motorists get accustomed to the change, Wolff said. The temporary signs probably will remain up about a week, he said.

Studs not legal yet, state warns

If you're thinking about putting your studded tires on a day early because of snow forecasts, you had better watch it. The state intends to enforce the Nov. 15 starting date.

James O. Peterson, administrator of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, said today his division and the Wisconsin State Patrol have no alternative but to enforce the date

An extention was granted last spring in the midst of a heavy snowfall only because there had been confusion since the state had reduced the studded tire period from six to four months. Peterson said.

Col. Louis Versnik, head of the state patrol, said his officers would not go out of their way to cite studded-tire violators but if in the normal course of duties, they observed the tires on illegally, motorists would be cited.

He said he didn't know how many have been cited but some have in past years. The penalty can be a fine of $10 to $20 or up to 30 days in jail, he said, but the county board of judges, which decides court policy, has indicated that the bond amount should be $30 plus court costs, a normal traffic fine amount.

Peterson said motorists could put their tires on at midnight Tuesday without chancing arrest.

He said the division had to consider more than just safety. It also had to consider the damage to highways and the expense of this to the state's taxpayers. Many people never use studs but pay for the damaged highways through taxes, he noted.

There is the possibility there won't be any troublesome snows before Wednesday. "But with the weather reports being what they have been, I'm keeping my fingers crossed," Versnik said

Welfare may cost $12 apiece

It will cost each of the 122,392 persons in Outagamie County $12.55 to foot the county's welfare bill in 1973 if the proposed $65 million budget is passed without cuts this week.

The per person cost is second lowest of six comparable sized Fox Valley area counties, Welfare Director James E. Stampp told the Outagamie County Board of Social Services last week.

Stampp computed the costs by dividing the county tax levy share of the total proposed 1973 welfare expense budget by county population. State and federal reimbursements finance the biggest share of a county welfare operation and these taxes are not figured into Stampp's per capita cost.

Outagamie County's direct share of the welfare costs for next year would be $1.5 million.

The five other counties surveyed by Stampp were Brown, Fondu Lac, Manitwoc, Sheboygan and Winnebago.

Winnebago County shows the highest per capita cost for direct financing of the welfare program, with 116.48. Others, in order, are Fond du Lac, $16.18; Brown, $15.67; Manitowoc, $15.40 and Sheyboygan, $11.76.

Stampp supposed that the variations in the county levies and thus the per capita costs could be attributed in large part to the sizes of the Aid to Families with Dependent Children case loads in the counties.

Because of basic differences in budgeting procedures, Stampp has computed his 1973 expense budget at $4.1 million and County Executive Alvin Woehler, in his budget, shows expenditures of $6.5 million for the welfare department.

Jay Tibbetts funeral today

GREEN BAY — Funeral services were held here today for Jay Leslie Tibbetts, 71, formerly of Appleton, who died here Friday after a year's illness.

Tibbetts was employed in Appleton by the Wisconsin Department of Taxation, serving as assessor of incomes from 1936 to 1966, when he retired.

Jay L. Tibbetts

He was a certified public accountant and had taught courses at the old Green Bay Business College and Marquette University in Milwaukee.

While living in Appleton, Tibbetts was active in the Congregational Church, Boy Scouts, Brotherhood Organization of Christians and Jews and the Appleton Rotary Club, which he had served as president and treasurer.

He was survived by his widow, a son, a daughter, three grandchildren, a sister and a brother.

A Rotary Scholarship Memorial Fund was established.

Jefferson School looks at new way of curbing fashionable vandalism

BY BERNIE PETERSON
Post-Crescent staff writer

They are not policemen, and they are not vigilantes. They joined together two weeks ago in response to increasing complaints of what they see as senseless acts of vandalism done by elementary students at Jefferson School and in the Alicia Park area of Appleton. Although they have no concrete program laid out, their overall goal is to decrease the "fashionable" destruction of property without having to call in the police.

"They are 20 men, fathers of children who attend Jefferson School, men who are concerned for the safety of their children and their neighborhood. They are referred to as "room fathers."

"We're out to help the kids, not to punish them," said Richard Peeples, one of the group's organizers. "We want to show them that what's happening is wrong, before they end up being dealt with by the police."

Although Peeples does not regard the Alicia Park area's vandalism problem as any worse than any other part of the city, he rather looks upon it as a neighborhood action to deal with the situation by using local resources.

The men want to see the destruction of property halted, that molesting of younger children by older students is stopped, and that no incidents go unreported Once reported, they would like to deal with the incidents in their own way, by counseling with the offenders as well as their parents, in order to show them the uselessness of the acts.

"Ideally, we d like to have the father of every student in our group," Peeples observed, "but that's just not possible."

The group's first action was to distribute a flyer the day before Halloween, listing the names and telephone numbers of the fathers to call in reporting vandalism Peeples believes the flyers aided in a reduced incidence of vandalism in the area on Halloween

Future plans tentatively call for two man teams to talk to the school classes before Christmas, in hopes of lowering vandalism to outdoor decorations, in addition to holding more meetings to further develop the group's ground work.

Peeples' wife, who serves as president of the Jefferson School PTA, says the Alicia Park area's vandalism problem isn't unusual, except that "we don't have much stealing with our vandalism."

"We haven't been having any of this destructive sort of thing at the school," said Jefferson School Principal Ray Parkinson. He pointed out that the room fathers are not officially connected with the school, but that he supports their efforts to reduce the vandalism which is taking place outside of school time.

Mrs. Peeples emphasized that the problems are occurring while the children are going to or coming from school. "You take them one by one, and you'll find that they are good children," she said. But, she added, they must be shown that the vandalism is neither cute nor desirable

Reaume as in Rome, Ree-ome or Rayoom?

KAUKAUNA — The extension of Reaume Avenue into city owned property has led to speculating about the proper pronunciation of the word Reaume

Random phone calls to residents of the street provided some interesting answers Although the majority admitted to calling it 'Reem," they were not sure if their pronunciations were correct One a 20-year resident of the street, indicated it was Ree-ome and another thought it should be "Rayoom."

Still another thought "Rome" was the proper pronunciation Visitors to the city have even more varied pronunciations

Whatever way it is pronounced it is known for Charles Reaume, born about 1172 in Canada of French descent In 1779 he was known to have lived in Detroit and in 1790 settled at Green Bay and had an interest in the Indian trade

In 1818 he was appointed one of the associate justices of the peace for Brown County by Gov Cass Records indicate that for many years he was "under both British and American ownership the only civil authority in what is now known as Wisconsin

He is believed to have settled on a tract of land on the Rock River near Little Rapids in 1818 and died there in 1822

Charges issued against 2 dairies

Federal charges have been filed in United States District Court, Milwaukee, against Appleton and Kimberly dairies for allegedly failing to make payments to equalize milk pricing under the Chicago Regional Marketing Order 30

The complaints were issued by a U S attorney against Utschig Dairy, owned by Jerome Fischer, 2003 N Meade St , Appleton, and Lamers Dairy, Inc , whose president is Richard Lamers, 114 John St , Kimberly

A U S Department of Agriculture publication listing the complaints said, Both dairies operate pool plants under the Chicago regional milk order and both dairies are delinquent in payments of funds due the Producer-Settlement Fund under Federal Order 30."

Dairies which sell primarily Class I bottling milk which has a higher federally established price than Class II manufacturing milk are required to make payments to the fund to equalize price advantages Farmers are paid a "blend" price between the price for bottling and manufacturing grades

Aldermen await Neenah budget package for 73

NEENAH — Members of the finance and capital expenditure committee are scheduled to get their first look at a complete budget package at a meeting set for late this afternoon.

Finance Director John Sahli said he hopes to have the packaged typed and ready for presentation at today's meeting while Mayor Roman V. Hauser said he planned to have his executive budget ready "by the end of the week."

Hauser said today that he's been holding off on the budget "until we could get more firm figures on the impact of the federal revenue sharing and there have been others things which have interefered with us" (in getting the budget put togerher).

The finance and capital expenditures committee met in its first session six days ago, but delayed any firm action until Hauser submitted the executive budget.

One of the things the committee requested was the mayor's guidelines and recommendations on such things as hiring new personnel and whether he would be in favor of sending anyone to national conventions or meetings.

Today, Hauser indicated that he planned to "hold the line on hiring any new personnel." Specifically, this means that an engineer and supervisor for the public works department won't be hired, a pair of new employes in the park and recreation department will have to wait another year, plus denial of Fire Chief Ronald Mertz' request for an additional three firemen.

Although the figures aren't compiled, Hauser is banking on the federal revenue sharing and the assessed value hike (2.2 per cent) and budget cuts to keep the 1973 spending package to a "zero tax increase."

This year's tax rate is $40.84 per $1,000 of assessed value and the mayor said he's shooting to keep the rate at the same level.

However, the school budget, submitted last week will add 52 cents per $1,000 to the rate and the county budget will mean another 20 cents — this is before the city even gets to its own departments.

The library board has cut down its request for city tax funds by about $10,000 by assessing more of its operation costs to the townships.

The city's payroll costs continue to be a major factor in the tax levy. In 1972, the city paid out about $1.88 million for personnel. Although negotiations for 1973 contracts are still incomplete, Director of Administration J. J. Kraus has indicated that he plans to stay within the 5.5 per cent guideline being dictated by the federal wage and price freeze.

If he does, this will mean another $100,000 to be placed in the contingency fund to cover the negotiated agreements.

Preliminary reports show the city getting about $178,000 from the federal revenue sharing — enough to offset about $1 on the tax rate.

But the built-in increases — 52 cents, school board; 20 cents, county, and 58 cents, wage hikes — add up to about $1.30 cents, eating up the revenue sharing and a good chunk of the money generated by the assessed value jump.

'Wispac' role in 1974 elections?

NEENAH-MENASHA — One of the leaders in the effort to form a state Chamber of Commerce political action committee (Wispac), although admitting that proponents of the idea still have a "major selling job" ahead of them, expects the committee to play a role in the 1974 election.

Paul Green, administrative assistant with the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce, said this fall that he hoped Wispac, through contributions and fund-raising efforts on behalf of selected candidates, would get active in time for last Tuesday's election.

That didn't happen, however. The major reason was a lack of financial support. But there are chambers that are interested in the idea, and Green will address chamber executives from throughout the state on Dec. 4, when he hopes to start building in earnest for the 1974 elections.

Wispac, formed largely through the efforts of Green and a staff chamber assistant from Appleton, has two objectives: educational programs, for local chamber officials and others, in politics and political action and the candidate-support organization.

The educational arm of the organization is doing better, said Green. Contributions have come in for that effort, from eight chambers and "a number of firms," and Green expects short-courses in several cities to begin after the first of the year.

A "pretty substantial amount of money" has come in support of the educational program. The money, Green said, will be used to develop short-course material and may also be put into an effort toward "sophisticated" profiles of assemblymen and other officeholders in the state.

The materials, Green said, will be developed and then sent to member chambers, who can use it in their own community. The courses will be open to anyone, he said. The goal is to develop understanding of the political process and give those enrolled the tools they need to get active in politics themselves.

Green said he "wasn't discouraged" at the lack of money for the candidate support arm of Wispac. Leaders of the efforts didn't have the time to fully explain how it will work before the latest election.

"We can work at a little more leisurely pace, now," said Green, however. After the Dec. 4 meeting, Green said the organization can start building a "financial base" for the 1974 elections.

The idea is to raise money, through individual contributions from chamber members and the business community, and put it into state assembly and senate races that are selected by a board of directors selected by membersof Wispac.

The Wispac would endorse the candidate most favorable to the aims of the business community.

Police & fire beat

Charges of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of marijuana were pending today against a 21-year old Appleton man, arrested by city police Saturday afternoon.

Police said the man was apprehended while shooting a .22 caliber pistol along the Fox River behind the 600 block of River Road about 3 p.m. Saturday. The marijuana was found in his possession when he was questioned later by police.

The man was taken to the Outagamie County jail, where he was held on $500 bond.

ONEIDA—Two persons were taken to a Green Bay hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in a single-car accident on State 54 near Van Boxtel Road in the Town of Oneida about 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Francis R. Appleton, 31, 187 Westfield Road, Oneida, sustained a left hand injury and neck pains. Baptist Stevens, 59, Oneida, received head injuries. The car, driven by Appleton, apparently went out of control and left the roadway while westbound on 54.

Four windows of varying sizes were reported broken Sunday morning by rocks thrown at the Anton J. Rank residence, 220 E. Glendale Ave.

Two 20-by-24-inch windows were broken from an overhead garage door. A 32-by-36-inch storm window and a 6-by-10-inch interior window also were broken. No estimate of the damage was given.

Appleton police were called to the scenes of two minor fires Saturday, both of which were out when they arrived.

A burning cigarette caused minor damage under a seat in a car owned by Dennis Nieft, Sheboygan. The auto was parked in the 500 block of N. Oneida Street about 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

A telephone book apparently was ignited by an electric stove burner at the Timothy J. Laux residence, 306½ E. McKinely St., About 2:30 a.m. Sunday. Damage was confined to the phone book, although a smoke ejector was used to clear smoke from the room.

Agents focus on 'death drugs'

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — State narcotics agents are increasingly aiming their enforcement at large-scale suppliers of "death drugs," Atty. Gen. Robert Warren said Friday.

He told a conference of narcotics agents from 11 midwestern states, his agency's narcotics and dangerous drugs section had significantly increased the share of its arrests involving felony violations and narcotics.

In 1970, about three-fourths of the squad's arrests were for alleged felony violations but only 5.9 per cent involved narcotics—heroin and its derivatives, Warren said

In the first six months of 1972, however, more than 90 per cent of its arrests were for alleged felony violations, and 25 per cent of those involved narcotics, Warren added

The narcotics and dangerous drugs section, he said, has been successful in bypassing the street level abusers and small peddlers and has infiltrated several large peddlers' organizations capable of supplying heroin and other drugs to other dealers.

Meeting scheduled to form Jaycee Club in Hortonville area

HORTONVILLE — Young men aged 18 to 35 in the Hortonville and Greenville areas are invited to an orientation meeting to learn about the Jaycees and a chapter being formed in that area.

The meeting sponsored by the New London Jaycees will begin at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Hortonville Country Club.

State and local Jaycees will attend the meeting to describe the organization and answer any questions.

Donald Peterson wants Westwood's resignation

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin Democratic National Committeeman Donald O. Peterson said Friday he has asked National Committee Chairman Jean Westwood to resign.

Peterson, who supported Maine Sen. Edmund Muskie during the presidential primaries, released a letter he sent Mrs. Westwood telling her "for the good of the party we must begin again with new leadership."

Mrs. Westwood was picked by defeated presidential candidate George McGovern to succeed Lawrence O'Brien as chairman of the Democratic National Committee after the party convention.

She said Thursday at a Washington, D.C., news conference she has no intention of stepping down because of McGovern's defeat.

"This letter is extremely difficult to write, but I feel that for the good of the party you should resign as chairman of the Democratic National Committee," Peterson wrote. "The magnitude of George McGovern's defeat makes it imperative we begin immediately to recapture the natural Democratic presidential constituency of blue-collar and ethnic Americans who voted for Richard Nixon."

Peterson, of Eau Claire, said he believes in McGovern's ideals, but in order to accomplish them there must be "new leadership that identifies with the people and has their trust."

"The election clearly was not a referendum on Richard Nixon, but the rejection of George McGovern," he said.

"We must rebuild, and the results of the election make it imperative we recognize what the causes were for a defeat of this proportion and what direction we must take to recoup," he said.

Peterson said the party should not "surrender" the progress it made in reform, but must bring back old-line Democrats alienated after the national convention.

"But we also must recognize there is no longer any place in the Democratic party for the John Connallys," Peterson said. "They have made their bed in the Republican party and should stay there."

Diabetic education day Tuesday

St. Elizabeth Hospital and the Nutrition and Health Committee of the Fox Valley are observing National Diabetic Week this week by sponsoring diabetic education day from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday at the hospital.

The theme for the sessions is "Double Check for Diabetes — be Alert, be Tested." A special program has been planned for persons interested in what diabetes is and how it can be detected.

Films will be shown at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. A physician is scheduled to speak at 10 a.m., and a nurse and dietician will be available at all film showings for questions on care and diet.

Displays will be set up at the hospital on health care for the diabetic, insulin, courtesy of various drug companies, food exchanges and basic foods for health, courtesy of the Dairy Council.

Test tape will also be available in the hospital lobby for the detection of diabetes.

Additional information on Diabetic Education Day can be obtained by calling St. Elizabeth Hospital or the University Extension Office.

Albert candidate again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., says he will seek re-election as speaker of the House.

Albert said in a statement Wednesday that the election Tuesday of a Democratic Congress "is clear and convincing evidence that the people of the United States recognize that only the Democratic party can provide the leadership necessary to meet the vital needs of our time."

Postal service expects 9 billion pieces of mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S Postal Service has projected a holiday volume of nine billion pieces of mail this Christmas season.

The service made the prediction Thursday while issuing its annual plea to send Christmas mail early.

It said surface parcels within the United States should be mailed by Dec. 10 and surface greeting cards by Dec. 15.

Airmail parcels within the country should be mailed by Dec. 20 and airmail greetings by Dec. 21.

The service recommended mailing all packages to armed-forces personnel in Europe and Indochina by Nov. 20.

Retired to focus on attitude toward aging

"Christian Attitudes Toward Aging" will be the theme of the educational portion of the weekly retired people's day Tuesday at the Appleton YMCA.

It will begin at 10:30 am. with the Rev. Paul Scheele, pastor of Zion United Church of Christ in Dale, as the speaker. His program will be followed by exercises for the retired, luncheon and a "learn how to shoot pool' demonstration, swimming and cards.

The YMCA mini-bus will pick up anyone who needs transporation.

Preparing for careers

Vocational careers and how to prepare for them was the theme of a panel discussion by high school students during the recent National Career Guidance Week. Presenting their programs to Roosevelt Junior High students are, from left, Bruce Bain, Lynn Hilgendorf, Mary Stoeger, Ken Steward and Charlene Mach. Presentations urging the youths to look to the future were made at all four Appleton junior high schools. (Post-Crescent photo)

New methods employed for career guidance

A different approach to career education was employed by the counseling and vocational education departments this year in marking the recent National Career Guidance Week.

Panels of students were organized in the high school vocational career programs to go out to the four junior high schools and discuss their choices, experiences and progress.

More than 1,000 ninth graders who are thinking of their high school curriculums were contacted by the Appleton High School-East and West teams.

The theme was "Tomorrow is Now." The local group, however dealt with "High School Course Selection and Your Career."

Will Haack of West and Walt Kleman of East directed the presentations at the junior highs. Fran Buffham, head of the Department for Counseling and Guidance, and Armin Gerhardt, local Vocational Education coordinator, served as co-chairmen for the week.

Panelists were Bruce Bain (power mechanics) Lynn Beauvillia and Lynn Hilgendorf, (office education), Charlene Mach, (distributive education) Ken Steward (food service) and Mary Stoeger (vocational knitting).

The program consisted of a slide presentation and the panel talk in which the students gave their impressions of the high school and community program and explained their objectives, the duties they have, the courses they have to take and what they hope to derive from their involvement.

Discussed were distributive education, clerical and secretarial Practices, simulated office practice, commercial knitting, food services, electricity-electronics, industrial drafting, metals a fabrication, power mechanics, printing and woodworking.

Among the other activities which the guidance department had or will have is a two-week unit in careers by each government teacher, special aptititute testing for ninth graders, plans for "youth opportunity day" tours of local businesses and industry which will be sponsored by the Fox Cities Area Labor and Management Council.

The department also hopes to initiate group career guidance sessions with seniors in co-op programs and capstone career education classes, which are available in both high schools.

the wishes of citizens and refused to widen the street to 44 feet, the minimum necessary to meet aid eligibility requirements.

Miller said his budget as currently before the council is being revised to reflect the changes resulting from the Lawe Street decision. To save terrace trees, the council ordered the width held to 33 feet for most of the distance.

Another change recommended by the finance committee last week is deletion of the works department proposal to spend $400,000 to extend Packard Avenue between Division and Oneida streets.

The project was one of seven in a miscellaneous project list which included College-Memorial reconstruction, the Oneida-Calumet improvements, a $15,000 aerial photo mapping survey, and work on three hillside retaining walls in the Fox River shoreline area.

The department plans replacement of the John Street retaining wall east of Rankin Street at a $60,000 estimated cost; replacement of the E. South River Street will east of Oneida at $10,000; and a $10,000 engineering study toward rebuilding the Water Street retaining wall east of Oneida Street at the foot of the hill where the old Appleton Vocational School campus is located.

The full cost of the Water Street project is estimated at $80,000, with completion proposed for 1974.

Street improvements scheduled for next year, subject to council approval in the budget and again following hearings, include:

— Concrete reconstruction. Lawe Street, Wisconsin to Alton; Oneida Street, 460 feet, industrial "flats"; Morrison Street, in three sections from Lawrence Street to College Avenue, Washington to Franklin Street and Franklin to Hancock; and E. South River Street, from Oneida 100 feet east.

— New concrete. Matthias Street, Bona to John; Marquette Street, Birchwood to Schaefer Street, Newberry to College; Esther Street, Joseph to Christine; Madison Street, Taft to Hoover; Fountain Street, Coolidge to Roeland; Sharon Street, Badger to Spring; Spring Street, Badger to west end; Alexander Street, Pershing to Longview; alley west to Oneida at Oneida Heights Apartments; Meade Street, Summer to railroad tracks; Calumet Street, within Garden Court loop; and Tracy Street, Kernan to Walden.

— Asphalt reconstruction. Glendale Avenue, Mason to Richmond; Locust Street, Brewster to Kamps) Story Street, Wisconsin to College; Douglas Street, Prospect to Reid; Hycrest Drive, Cedar to Reid; Oneida Street, 500 block near Oneida Heights; and Spencer Street, Mason to railroad tracks.

— Asphalt resurfacing. Walter Avenue, College to Newberry; Newberry; Newberry Street, Walter to Schaefer; Superior Street, Wisconsin to Packard; Meade Street, railroad tracks to Hancock; and Oneida Street, bridge area to McKinley.

—New asphalt. Three alleys, south of College between Story and Summit, south of Lawrence between Spruce and Summit and south of Silvercrest Drive from Ballard Road to Woodmere Court.

New streets, grade and gravel. Murray Avenue, Jackson to Carpenter; Schaefer Street, Forest to Lourdes; Midpark Drive, College to Henry; Henry Street, Midpark to Fidelis; future street north of Newberry, west of Newberry Court; Helen Street, Pershing to Longview; Mason Street, Northland Avenue to north city limits; Meade Street, Florida Avenue to Capitol Drive; Sandra Drive, Glendale to Weyenberg, and Locust Street, Whittier to Weiland.

Georgia-Pacific OKs expansion

Directors of Georgia-Pacific Corp., Portland, Ore.-based firm with New London operations, have approved expanding the firm's Oregon paper manufacturing operations and called for the $1.40 convertible preferred stock for redemption.

They also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share of common stock, payable Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Nov. 10.

The company, with about $30 million in new capital expenditures approved, will add 250 tons daily capacity to the company's Toledo, Ore., mill with an additional paper machine and related equipment.

F. A. Marden Center dedicated at King

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent staff writer

KING — "Hope lives here," Lt. Gov. Martin J. Schreiber said Saturday when he spoke at the dedication of the Dr. F. A. Marden Memorial Center, the newest building at the Grand Army Home for Veterans.

He spoke to more than 500 visitors who came to observe Armistice Day and get their first look at the tri-level activities building on the east shore of Rainbow Lake.

"I have seen no finer, nor similar facility anywhere in this state, or in the nation," Schreiber said.

Schreiber said that good nursing care goes beyond providing just food and bed, and that the excellent care of veterans is what the state has been striving for.

"The contagious compassion evidenced in this home now has a new dimension, and it gives me increased optimism that our senior citizens and veterans are being given total care," he said.

Commandant Arlin C. Barden in welcoming visitors to the new building explained that the $1.5 million structure was paid for by members of the home and gifts from various organizations and individuals.

The building actually was part of long-range planning since 1963. The architectural firm was Peters and Mortinsons, Madison, and the general contractor was Ellis Stone Co., Stevens Point.

Formally dedicated the building and naming it the Dr. F. A. Marden Memorial Center in honor of the home's first doctor, Dr. Vernon Olson, chairman of the board of veterans affairs, said the building "demonstrated true Americanism in action by honoring the dead by helping the living."

"It has been a proud Wisconsin tradition to care for those who need it," he continued. "During the past 10 years we have seen the Grand Army Home change from a sleepy old veterans' home to one of the most distinguished veterans' homes in the country.

He said that only a new hospital remains to be built to complete the long-range plan to accommodate 1,500 veterans. He added that presently there are 566 nursing care patients cared for in two skilled-nursing centers.

About 11 a.m. the residents, various dignitaries and other visitors faced eastward and heard the siren blow for one minute, heard volleys from a firing squad and listened to a bugler play taps.

It was a traditional ceremony commemorating American soldiers who fought in World War I.

Proxmire will jog through state

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — One of Wisconsin's most noted physical fitness-buffs, Sen. William Proxmire, says he will begin a 1,200-mile walking-running tour of the state next Monday to visit his constituents.

"What could be better—to mix two of the great loves of my life—politics and exercise?" Proxmire said in a statement from his Washington, D.C., office.

"Breezing along on foot in the brisk, bracing fresh air of late fall and winterland Wisconsin, 25 or 30 miles a day, just happens to be my idea of a ball," the senator said. "I plan to run 10 miles a day and walk 15 to 20."

Proxmire said the tour would start in Milwaukee and, with some interruptions of rcongressional business, would end sometime in February or March.

"I hope to have scores of breakfasts, lunches, dinners and other prearranged meetings, but most of my time will be spent in one-to-one conversations with thousands of Wisconsin men and WOMEN," Proxmire said.

Proxmire was the center of attention in Congress earlier this year when he showed up with his head swathed in bandages—the result of a hair transplant.

He also announced he had raised the desk in his Washington office so he could stand up while working.

Proxmire's itinerary calls for him to reach the Madison area Nov. 23; Beloit and Janesville Nov. 24; Footville, Orfordville, Brodhead and Monroe Nov. 25; Browntown, South Wayne, Gratiot and Shullsburg Nov. 26; Leadmine, Benton, Hazel Green, Fair Play, Kieler and Dickeyville Nov. 27; and Platteville and Lancaster Nov. 28.

The senatort plans to interrupt the tour for committee hearings and speaking engagements, and hit the road again Dec. 28 in Lancaster.

From Lancaster, Proxmire will proceed west to the Mississippi River, north to Superior, east to Marinette and then return to Milwaukee.

Jury mulls testimony in 'fragging'

FT. ORD, Calif. (AP) — A military jury of two black and five white officers begins deliberations today on the fate of a black soldier accused of murdering two young Army lieutenants in a Vietnam "fragging" incident.

Although there have been numerous such incidents in the war — 96 in 1969 and 209 in 1970 resulting in 101 deaths — the court-martial of Pvt. Billy Dean Smith on charges of using a fragmentation grenade to kill fellow soldiers is the first conducted in the United States.

The presiding judge, Col. Rawls H. Frazier, said he would give his final instructions today and then send the case to the jury. He has ruled the jury will deliberate only during normal work hours.

When the trial began Sept. 6, Frazier ruled that Smith could not receive the death penalty. But he still faces the possibility of life imprisonment.

The prosecution and defense concluded their cases in lengthy final summaries during the weekend.

Smith, 24, of Los Angeles is charged with killing 1st Lt. Thomas Dellwo of Choteau, Mont., and 2nd Lt. Richard Harlan of Dallas, Tex.

Both died shortly after midnight March 15, 1971, at the Bien Hoa Army Base near Saigon when a grenade exploded in their quarters.

The Army also has charged Smith with assault and attempted murder.

The latter charge is based on the government's contention that Smith was attempting to kill his commanding officer, Capt. Randall L. Rigby of Ft. Sill, Okla., and 1st Sgt. Billie Willis of Big Stony Gap, Va.

Smith has pleaded innocent to the charges and has testified he was smoking marijuana with two friends at the time of the explosion.

One witness, Henry S. McClay, had testified he was smoking marijuana with Smith at the time. But, in his rebuttal Saturday, Army prosecutor Capt. Craig J. Casey said McClay's company commander had testified McClay could not be believed.

In turn, defense attorney Luke McKissack said that two witnesses, Samuel Bailey and Thomas Moore, lied when they testified they heard Smith say he had killed the lieutenants. McKissack said the men lied to obtain preferential treatment from the Army.

The Army's case has been based on two main contentions — that arresting officers found a pin on Smith matching a grenade lever found near the scene of the explosion and that Smith hated Rigby and Willis enough to try to kill them.

Another private army emerging in Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Another private army is emerging in Northern Ireland, this time composed of former Roman Catholic servicemen who say they are banding together for protection from the Protestants.

The province remained relatively quiet Sunday night, but police said a man was shot in the head and seriously wounded in the countryside outside Belfast.

The Catholic Ex-Servicemen's Association, which claims 20,000 members, announced Sunday it is forming active "defensive" units to patrol areas of Belfast. However, it claimed not to have any guns

The association said it began recruiting in strength last week after Protestant gasoline-bomb attacks on Catholic houses in the Andersonstown district of Belfast. The Catholics claimed the British army was not providing sufficient protection.

The Catholics already have the underground guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army. The new organization apparently will pattern itself on the Ulster Defense Association, a Protestant group which claims more than 50,000 adherents.

"The UDA has shown that, if you want to get anywhere with the British army, you must put thousands of men on the streets in a show of strength," Phil Curran, chairman of the ExServicemen's Association, told a meeting of 200 men Sunday.

"Our aim is to protect our homes and families. We will be a purely defensive organization, and there will be no retaliatory action."

One army source said that, in principle, there was no objection to people banding together to protect themselves but that there was the danger that troublemakers might infiltrate the organization.

Byrd, Eastland may become Republicans

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The Richmond Times-Dispatch says Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. will turn Republican and Sen. James O. Eastland might join him in a move to the GOP.

Byrd is a Virginia independent; Eastland, a Mississippi Democrat.

In a story published today, the Times-Dispatch quoted a source close to the White House as saying Byrd would make the switch prior to Jan. 3, when the Senate reconvenes.

It also quoted the source as saying Byrd and Eastland might entice Eastland's Mississippi Democratic colleague, Sen. John C. Stennis, into switching parties.

Byrd, in Boca Raton, Fla., attending a Southern Newspaper Publishers Association convention, was quoted by the Harrisonburg, Va., News-Record as saying early today: "Anonymous sources do not speak for me. When I have something to say, I make my own statements." Byrd is president and publisher of the News-Record.

Eastland and Stennis could not be reached for comment.

Byrd, Eastland and Stennis are out of step philosophically with the shift of the Democratic party to a liberal stance, the Times-Dispatch said in a story by Jim Lattimer.

The newspaper said there was far less certainty about Eastland than about Byrd and there were some special problems to be worked out, according to the White House source.

But the political accord has been approved by high officials in both the Republican party and the White House, the newspaper said.

Although he won re-election in 1970 as an independent, Byrd is counted as a Democrat and has been taking part in the Democratic caucus.

Should Byrd and Eastland switch, the Senate would be composed of 55 Democrats and 45 Republicans.

Should Byrd join the GOP before the Senate reconvenes, he would gain party seniority in the Senate ahead of all newly elected Republican senators.

of the Supreme Court, one by the State Bar, one by the state Assembly and one by the State Senate.

Under the task force proposal, a judge would not be subject to an "election without opposition" until he was in office for at least four years, and then would not be subject to such an election for another six years. A ballot would not be taken unless it was called for in a written petition signed by voters equaling 15 per cent of the ballots cast within the judge's district in the preceding gubernatorial election.

The task force also urged labor unions, teacher associations and other occupationsl groups and fraternal organizations to encourage creation of group legal service plans for middle income employes.

Insurance companies were called upon to market legal insurance along the lines of the Blue Shield medical coverage.

The state was asked to establish a prepaid legal services plan for state employes.

The study group also contended:

Salary increases for Supreme Court justice and state trial judges comparable to those paid in other states should be provided by the state.

Court interpreters should be provoided by the state for litigants who do not speak English.

Typewritten briefs should be allowed for cases appealed to the state Supreme Court rather than the costly printed briefs now required.

Court personnel should be trained to be courteous to litigants, particularly to members of ethnic groups unfamiliar with court procedures.

The task force adjourned until Dec. 4, when discussions are scheduled to resume on such issues as grand jury reform, a "shield" law for professional journalists, bail bond reforms and juvenile code changes.

U.S. funds needed for '76 games

NEW YORK (AP) — Clifford Buck, president of the United States Olympic Committee, says he does not believe the 1976 Winter Olympics can be held in any American city without federal funding.

The games originally were scheduled for Denver, but Colorado voters last week refused to authorize state contributions.

Buck said Sunday on the CBS-TV program "Face the Nation" that he believes the 1976 games will be held somewhere because the international federations governing individual winter sports will press strongly for the competition.

But he added: "In my judgment, the games can't be held in Colorado or any other American city without federal funding."

He said he doubted Congress would approve funds for the Denver site in view of the Colorado vote but did not speculate on the prospects of other American sites.

Buck said he thought estimates of the games' cost, which have reached to $100 million, were out of line.

On the Olympic movement in general, Buck said he found "much validity" in the argument to discontinue the playing of national anthems at the game because nationalism had become a problem.

The future of the Olympics, Buck said, should not be influenced by the killing of Israeli athletes at Munich.

"I don't believe the Olympics should bear any more of the stigma for that event than the airlines should for the hijackings," Buck said.

No-fault insurance idea endorsed by lawyers from midwestern states

CHICAGO (AP) — Lawyers from 11 midwestern states have endorsed a no-fault automobile insurance plan which would provide immediate reimbursement to accident victims while preserving the right to sue for further damages.

The endorsement came Sunday at a regional meeting of the American Trial Lawyers Association, an organization which has opposed most state no-fault plans because they limit, or eliminate, the right of injured to recover for disability or so-called "pain and suffering."

Such damages do not have a fixed monetary value.

In Illinois, the state Supreme Court declared unconstitutional a no-fault auto insurance plan because it discriminated against some accident victims and abridged the right to recover damages through court action.

At Sunday's meeting, Leonard M. Ring, an official of the lawyers' group, said, "prompt and full reimbursement" to accident victims from their insurancecompanies for medical expenses, wages lost and vehicle damage without regard to who is at fault in the accident "is socially and economically sound because it takes care of the immediate needs of the injured victim and his family."

But he added that accident victims should retain the right to seek additional compensation either by direct negotiation with insurance companies or through the courts.

Ring said another provision of the reform would prohibit "arbitrary cancellations of policy," allowing insurance companies to cancel only policies of clients "who do not pay their premiums or whose driver's licenses have been revoked."

In endorsing the no-fault concept, the lawyers promised to work in all 50 states to attain "honest insurance reform."

The association has a national membership of 27,000.

The twelve states represented were: Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Indiana, South Dakota, North Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas and Kentucky.

England's war dead remembered by Queen

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth has laid a wreath at a memorial in Whitehall commemorating Britain's dead in two world wars.

The Queen wore a single poppy, symbol of the fields of Flanders of World War II as she appeared for the ceremony on Sunday, Britain's Remembrance Day.

Also laying wreaths at the cenotaph were the Queen's husband, Prince Philip; her son, Prince Charles; Prime Minister Edward Heath; Labor party leader Harold Wilson; Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe, and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

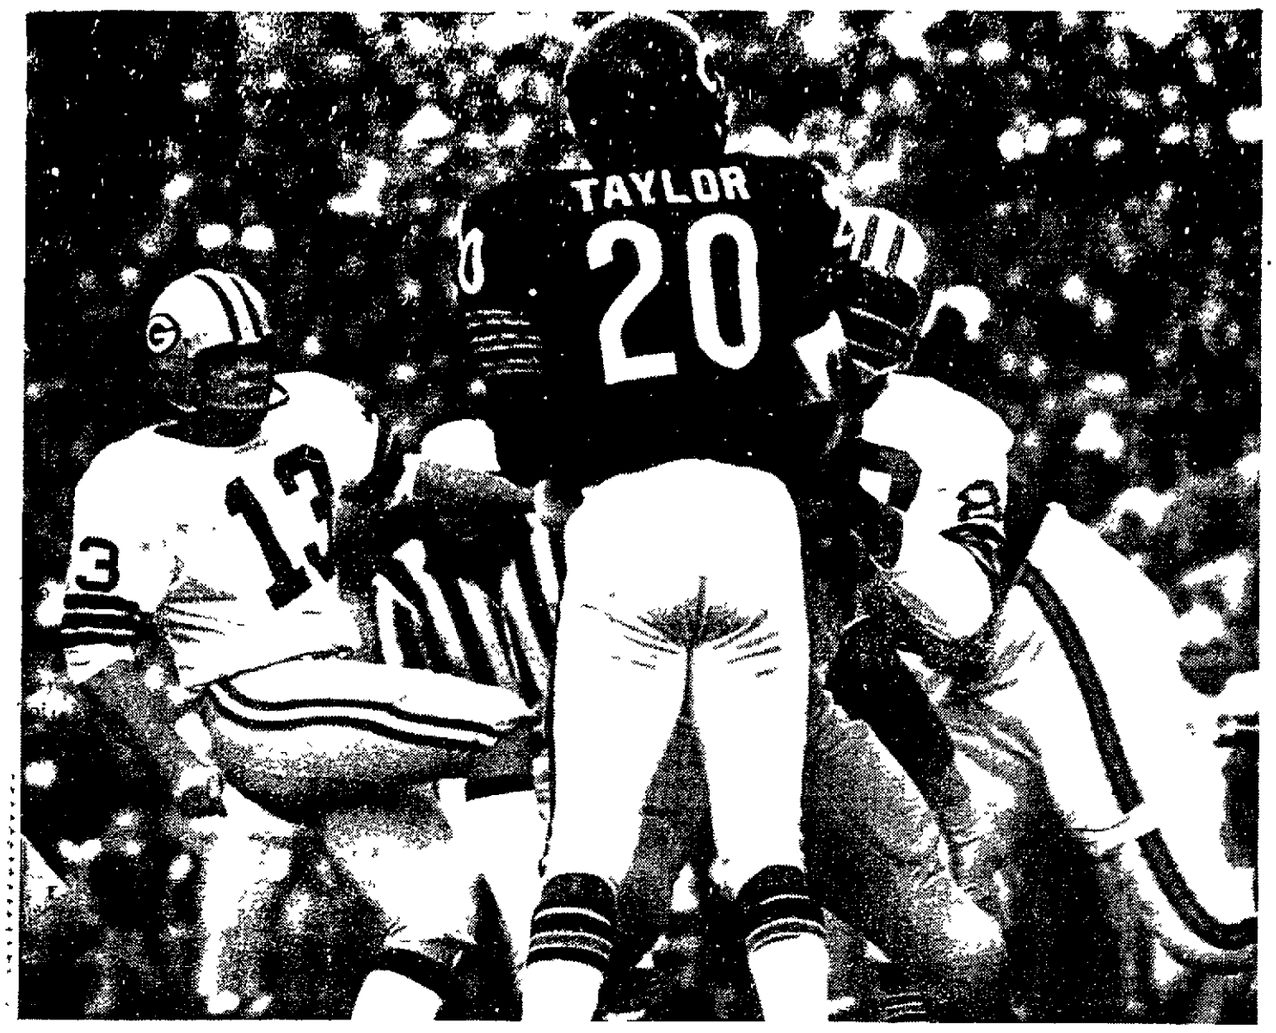
Marcol kicks Packers into division lead



Another 3 points

Chester Marcol kicks one of the three field goals that helped the Packers beat the Bears, 23-17, Sunday in Chicago and enabled him to break Don Chandler's club record (20 to 19). The Bear No. 20 is the Bears Joe Taylor. (Post-Crescent News Service Photo)

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

CHICAGO — Judging by past experience, Chester Marcol's Windy City "fanmail" should pick up this week.

Last month, after his 37-yard field goal forged a 20-17 victory over the Bears, the Packer rookie received an unsolicited piece of advice from a Bear buff, apparently exasperated because a Marcol bullseye also had beaten the Bruins in a pre-season game, 10-7.

Although the letter was unsigned, it bore a Chicago postmark and the message was both clear and concise. It read:

"Dear Chester:

"Go back to Poland."

After what transpired in Soldier Field Sunday afternoon, the Polish-born placekicker is expecting more of the same — by special delivery.

Although the elemits of victory were many and diverse, it again was Marcol's seldom erring toe which proved the difference as the Packers frustrated the Bears, 23-17, with the help of some late heroics by Jerry Tagge, Willie Buchannon and Dave Robinson.

His flawless footwork produced Green Bay's last nine points and his final field goal, a 21-yard chip shot, put him in the Packer record book — after just nine games as a pro.

It was his sixth straight success — he was three-for-three for the day — and his 20th of the year, eclipsing the club's previous single season standard of 19, set by Don Chandler in 1967.

Those contributions, along with a 12-yard touchdown burst by John Brockington and a one-yard scoring plunge by quarterback Scott Hunter, left the Packers in exclusive possession of the NFC's Central Division lead at twilight with a 6-3 record, following a 16-14 assist from the Vikings against previous co-leader Detroit.

What, Dan Devine was asked, had wrought this turnabout (the Packers were 3-5-1 at this point in 1971)?

"There are a lot of reasons," said the chief architect of the resounding renaissance. "A lot of hard work by both players and coaches the great attitude of a bunch of hustling young guys. That's still the most important thing.

"We're better on pass defense, we have a better kicking game. In fact we are better on all of our special teams. At least, so far we are. We still have a way to go . . . But the season gets shorter every week."

Devine's opposite number, portly Ae Gibron, might agree with this last — for a different reason — now that his Bears have fallen 2½ games off the pace with only five games remaining.

But Abe was making no apologies for the Midway Monsters' performance.

"It's a shame when you beat the —— out of somebody and still get beat," said Gibron, obviously alluding to the fact his Bears had outyarded the Packers, 261 to 170, rolling up 19 first downs to Green Bay's 8.

"But you can't give 'em 17 points and put your offense under the gun," he said, "and expect to come back."

The reference was to a bad snap to punter Bobby Joe Green, felled for an

Post-Crescent News Service

CHICAGO — The temperature was in the damp, low 40s Sunday at Soldier Field, a stone's throw from the chill of Lake Michigan But Jerry Tagge, suddenly summoned from the bench, could have been in Miami.

Jerry Tagge

"I had no trouble warming up," he later jested. "My blood and adrenalin were flowing pretty fast."

It was a long awaited day for the former Green Bay West quarterback, who used to envision himself in Packer green and gold while selling peanuts and hot dogs at Green Bay's Lambeau Field as a teen-age vendor.

Drafted in the first round last February after winning All-America status at the University of Nebraska, he had made two pre-season appearances. But, progress slowed by an injury, he had yet to call a regular season play — until Sunday afternoon.

Then, when starter Scott Hunter was knocked groggy on a scramble, his major league debut abruptly arrived. And, by any standards, the ex-Wildcat's response to Dan Devine's impromptu summons was entirely respectable.

Tagge, at the controls most of the second half when the cobwebs failed to clear for Hunter, drove the Packers to what proved to be a game-deciding field goal in the third quarter with an impressive show of poise and completed four of seven passes overall for 47 yards.

"We moved the ball fairly well," Tagge conceded in a post-game appraisal of his performance, "but I did some things wrong. I missed Mac Lane in the end zone one time and Pete Lammons another time when he was in the open.

"But that's going to happen, I guess. I'm just happy to get in a game, actually."

Sly smile

Flashing a sly smile, he added, "Frankly, I was happy to get in there with a 10-point lead. That made it a lot easier.

"It was a big boost to me, just to play. If there was any slip in my morale, it's right back up there.

"The hardest part for me in not playing has been keeping my concentration. It's hard to keep your concentration up from week to week when you're not playing. So I work twice as hard in practice in an effort to stay sharp.

"What I've been trying to do is stay alert. All I can do is stay up mentally and try to get myself ready to play 60 minutes each week, even if I may not get in. You never know when your time is going to come, but you know it will come sometime.

"Today," he noted with a smile, "was a taste."

Inevitably, he was asked what kind of role assistant coach Bart Starr has played in his Packer development.

"Bart pats you on the back, helps keep your confidence up, for one thing," Tagge said. "And he keeps you alert. He tells you when you're doing a good job, and when you're not. He's been great to me."

Just as predictably, the strapping ex-Cornhusker was queried about his hopes for a starting assignment. "The main thing on my mind," he said, "is winning. If I can contribute, of course, I want to contribute as much as I can."

Tagge patently had no quarrel with the decision to play it ultra-conservative when he first replaced Hunter. "I was cold," he said, "so there was a lot of merit to it."

Crediting flanker Carroll Dale with a key contribution to his initial success, he said, "Carroll made a great catch there in the third quarter. I threw it where it had to be, but the linebacker was coming over. Carroll had to kind of stop and dive back for it It boosted my morale and I think it boosted the team's morale."

Slipping into a dark brown, leather jacket, Tagge cradled a football in his left arm as he prepared to leave the dressing room.

"Yeah, I got a game ball," he replied in confirmation. "It's a Packer ball . . . it means a lot to me."

Blocked FG stops Lions

BLOOMINGTON, Minn (AP) — You can't convince Bobby Bryant that such things as luck and jinxes figure into the final outcome when the Minnesota Vikings meet the Detroit Lions in the National Football League

The 170-pound Viking cornerback has a gashed lip and jarred teeth to back up his argument

Bryant stormed in and blocked Errol Mann's 33-yard field goal attempt on the final play of the NFC Central Division game Sunday to save Minnesota's 16-14 victory—the 10th straight against the Lions dating back to 1967

Posted near an exit in the Viking locker room was a clipping from a Detroit newspaper quoting Lion Coach Joe Schmidt that the Vikings' "luck" in the series had just about run out and that the Vikings had "been awfully lucky" the last five years.

"I don't believe in jinxes," Bryant said after the game, blood still oozing from his mouth from making the block. "If you'll look back at those games, you'll see that we've played good hard-nosed football."

Hard-jawed would be a good term for Bryant.

"It hit me right in the face mask," Bryant said, "but it felt great. No one touched me coming in. I stretched out ... might have dove for it. Wally Hilgenberg (linebacker) took the up-back out of the way and I had a clear shot at it"

Bryant said he was blaming himself for the Vikings' predicament for allowing Larry Walton to get behind him on a 48yard touchdown pass play from quarterback Greg Landry in the third quarter.

Landry, after running 13 yards on a fake field goal attempt, passed to Walton for a 20-yard touchdown later in the third period to give the Lions a 14-10 lead.

Fred Cox kicked an 18-yard field goal with 7:02 left in the game to draw the Vikings to within one.

On a third down and two situation at the Detroit 30, Landry passed to tight end Charlie Sanders at the scrimmage line. Sanders fumbled as he was tackled at the ankles by Jeff Wright

Roy Winston picked up the ball for the Vikings and ran to the Detroit 19. Cox booted a 24yard field goal with 4.03 to play to put the Vikings ahead to stay

Landry drove the Lions to the Viking 26, and called time out with five seconds to play.

Defense stymies Chiefs

Steelers' futility over

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A dream of four decades took a major step toward reality Sunday when the Pittsburgh Steelers, failures in the clutch so many times before, rallied in the last quarter to whip the Kansas City Chiefs 16-7.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Steelers and widened their lead in the American Conference Central Division to two full games with five games remaining.

"Pittsburgh is a heck of a football team," losing Coach Hank Stram said of a club which hasn't won a title in its 40-year history.

"They were very impressive," he added. "They showed maturity and poise. We got some turnovers and breaks, but they stayed in there and played well."

The turnovers included two fumbles and three Terry Bradshaw interceptions, one of which Jim Kearney returned 65 yards for a touchdown that gave the Chiefs a 7-0 halftime lead

However, the pendulum swung the other way in the last six minutes of the game, when Steeler linebacker Jack Ham recovered two fumbles to lead a 10-point victory spurt

"The defense won the ball game," Bradshaw said between puffs on a victory cigar "They kept us close until we could do something on offense They just did a super job

"Leading the way defensively was Ham, who topped all players with seven tackles, three assists and a deflected pass.

Ham's first recovery came on an Ed Podolak fumble that gave Pittsburgh, trailing 7-6, possession at the Kansas City 39 with less than seven minutes left.

Four plays later Gerela booted his third field goal of the game—a line-drive 48-yarder—to put the Steelers ahead at 9-7 with just 5 10 remaining.

The first play of the next series saw Jim Otis lose another Kansas City fumble, and Ham came up with the ball again at the Chief's 17-yard line.

Franco Harris, who surpassed the 100-yard mark rushing for the fourth time in five games, ran over from the seven-yard line for a touchdown two plays later to give the Steelers their fifth straight victory and insure their hold on first place in the American Conference Central Division.

The Chiefs, leaders in the AFC's Western Division, led 7-0 at halftime, even though they managed just 25 yards in total offense the first two periods

The lone Kansas City touchdown came midway through the second period when safety Jim Kearney picked off the second of three Terry Bradshaw interceptions and raced 65 yards for a touchdown

The Steelers cut the lead to 73 less than five minutes into the third quarter when Gerela kicked a 25-yard field goal that capped a 57-yard drive.

Early in the fourth period, Pittsburgh drove 77 yards to the Kansas City six, and Gerela added another field goal from 10 yards out to cut the margin to 7-6 and set the stage for the 10-point burst.

Badger hockey squad records pair of wins

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin slaughtered Colgate 13-3 and 13-1 during the weekend as the Eastern school college opened its hockey season.

Gary Winchester, Steve Alley, Jim Johnston and Max Bentley posted two goals each in Saturday night's 13-1 triumph for the Badgers as they improved their record to 3-1.

Goalie Doug McFadden had 19 saves for Wisconsin while Art Willer had 32 for Colgate, which trailed 9-0 before Neil Abbott scored its only goal.

Rams upset by Broncos, 16-10

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran Jim Turner booted three field goals in the fourth period Sunday, boosting the underdog Denver Broncos to a 16-10 victory over the Los Angeles Rams in a National Football League game.

Turner's boots went 38, 12 and 36 yards and cut the Rams' lead in the National Conference West to one-half game over Atlanta, which defeated New Orleans 36-20.

Denver, which had won only two of eight previous games, grabbed a 7-0 halftime lead over a seemingly lethargic Los Angeles club which was booed by many in the crowd of 65,398 at the Memorial Coliseum.

Denver's touchdown came on a seven-yard pass from Charley Johnson to Jerry Simmons, capping an 80-yard drive in the second period.

The Broncos lost Simmons minutes later when he just missed another leaping catch in the end zone and landed on his right shoulder, suffering a fractured collarbone.

Los Angeles snapped out of its doldrums at the start of the third period. After Bob Thomas returned the kickoff 43 yards, Los Angeles drove on to score on a four-yard pass from quarterback Roman Gabriel to Jack Snow.

The Rams added a 12-yard field goal by David Ray seven minutes later four plays after Marlin McKeever intercepted a Johnson pass at the Denver 20 and returned to the 12.

But Johnson promptly marshalled his forces 67 yards in 10 plays to set up Turner's first field goal.

After the Rams received the ensuing kickoff, Willie Ellison fumbled on the third play at their 25 and 253-pound Lyle Alzedo recovered for the Broncos.

A Johnson-to-Floyd Little pass gained 15 before the Rams held and Denver went for a second field goal.

The third three-pointer came with 47 seconds left after the Rams gambled and failed on a fourth down play. The loss put their record at 5-3-1.

Oakland regains division lead

CINCINNATI (AP) — Oakland running back Charlie Smith left little doubt Sunday that he has recovered from various leg injuries and shaken off any "bad habits."

Enjoying his best rushing game in his five-year career, Smith ran for 146 yards and one touchdown as Oakland defeated Cincinnati 20-14 and moved back into first place in the Western Division of the National Football League's American Conference. Pittsburgh knocked off previous Western Division leader Kansas City 167 Sunday.

"Two weeks ago it all cleaned up," Smith said referring to the last in a series of leg injuries that caused him to miss four exhibition games this year and most of the 1971 season. "I had a lot of bad habits and a lot of things to clean up."

Smith, who scored Oakland's first touchdown in the third period on an eight-yard run over left tackle, declined to take all the credit for the top rushing day since he scored 118 yards in a 1968 game against the same Cincinnati team.

"Our offensive line just had an exceptional game today," continued the Utah graduate. "Anyone could have carried the ball today."

Blocked field goal

Defensive tackle Art Thoms blocked one field goal attempt by himself, teamed with Carlton Oats to knock down another field goal try, and also deflected a Bengal pass as he led the Raiders' tenacious defense.

Forty-five-year-old George Blanda kicked field goals of 24 yards in the second period and 22 yards early in the fourth period.

Second-year running back Clarence Davis, from Southern California, slammed over from the one-yard line with 8:37 to go in the game and the Raiders mounted a 20-7 lead.

In the five-year series between the Bengals and Raiders all games prior to Sunday's had been strictly high-scoring affairs with the winning team posting 31 or more points. The Raiders edged the Bengals 3127 last year with a rally in the closing minutes.

The Bengals jumped out to a 7-0 lead as running back Doug Dressler bulled over from the one-yard line with 13:55 to go in the secon period.

Hull's two goals sink Sharks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Score the goal for Bobby Hull," barked the voice over the loudspeaker.

The superstar had heard it plenty times in the National Hockey League—but never before in the World Hockey Association.

Never before Sunday night, that is. Hull, the former star of the NHL's Chicago Black Hawks, scored his first goals in the WHA, firing in two as his Winnipeg Jets stopped the Los Angeles Sharks 5-2.

Hull was appearing in his fourth game since last Wednesday, when a court ruling gave him the green light to play in the new league.

He was royally received by the adoring Jet fans, who gave the Golden Jet a standing ovation each time he scored.

In the other WHA games Sunday, Ottawa beat Philadelphia 2-1 and Cleveland turned back Alberta 3-1.

Hull opened Winnipeg's scoring with a goal at 3:18 of the first period, a hard slapshot from inside the blueline that cleanly beat Los Angeles goalie George Gardner.

He scored his second goal—Winnipeg's fifth—late in the game. The shot was a short backhand flip following a goalmouth pass from linemate Norm Beaudin.

Dennis Hull scored two goals to pace Chicago over Detroit. Black Hawk goalie Gary Smith lost his shutout in the opening minute of the final period on Alex Delvecchio's power-play goal.

Falcons devastate Saints

ATLANTA (AP) — "It was about time we got back to operating like we should be," said Atanta Falcon quarterback Bob Berry after leading his club to a 36-20 National Football League victory over the New Orleans Saints Sunday.

"Our offense just kind of rises and falls with the offensive line, and today they were just great," Berry said. "I had all kinds of protection and they really opened some holes for the running backs."

Atlanta, rolling to its seventh straight victory over the Saints in eight meetings, built a whopping 33-3 lead in the third period and Berry and running backs Art Malone and Dave Hampton then watched the final 24 minutes from the sidelines.

"I feel great," said Berry, who scored one touchdown, passed for another and connected on 10 of 13 passes for 142 yards. "I had been beat up pretty good the last couple of weeks. With that long rest, I didn't feel like I did much out there."

Berry scored on a two-yard keeper and fired a 15-yard touchdown pass to Ken Burrow. Malone, who gained 77 yards on 10 carries, scored on a one-yard plunge and Hampton, who had 60 on 14 carries, tallied on a 16-yard scamper.

The Falcons also logged a second-period safety when tackle Mike Lewis erupted through the line and nailed Saints' quarterback Archie Manning in the end zone.

"It was a play action pass and I just didn't take the fake," Lewis said.

Atlanta cashed in an early touchdown following a Saints' fumble, and drove 59 yards and 63 yards for second-quarter scores to gain early control. Lewis' safety also came in the second and Bill Bell added a 37yard field goal with five seconds left to make it 26-3 at intermission.

When Berry produced a touchdown following the second-half kickoff, Coach Norm Van Brocklin used his second offensive unit the rest of the way.

Manning, who hit on 13 of 31 passes for 173 yards and one touchdown, was sacked three times, twice by Lewis.

Renault meets the growing demand for front-wheel drive cars.

In 1968 we introduced the front-wheel drive Renault 16. Last year we introduced the Renault 12. And for 1972 we are introducing two new f.w.d. models: the Renault 15 and the Renault 17 (these new sport models round out our line of f.w.d. cars).

Obviously, we believe that f.w.d. is the most sensible way to build a car. The four million people who bought f.w.d. cars last year agree with us. It won't be long until Americans in even greater numbers discover the advantages of owning a car with the drive wheels up front. And there is a good chance they'll turn to the company that makes more f.w.d. cars than anyone else in the world —Renault.

Shula wins 100th

Dolphs blast Patriots

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Dolphin Coach Don Shula smiled and politely returned handshakes of well-wishers Sunday after he gained his 100th National Football League victory with a 52-0 rout of New England.

But Shula really can't understand all the excitement over his becoming the first NFL coach to reach the 100 mark in 10 seasons. He is possessed by thoughts of a Super Bowl victory, pro football's pinnacle which he has never achieved.

"I'm grateful to a lot of people over the 10 years," he said. "I'm grateful to two wonderful coaching staffs and the great players in Baltimore and here in Miami.

"I'm proud to get 100 wins but it is only really meaningful if it happened in a year we get a world championship," concluded the man who has twice made it to the Super Bowl and twice failed. The Miami players presented him with the game ball after their record stretched to 9-0 and Shula said he was appreciative "but the one I want is at the end of the year."

Mercury Morris ran for three first half touchdowns as the defending American Football Conference champions moved into a position to clinch a playoff spot by beating the New York Jets here next Sunday.

Morris scored twice on four-yard sweeps around left end for a 14-0 lead after the Dolphins' first five offensive plays. A six-yard run by Morris concluded the first-half scoring against the hapless Patriots, now 2-7.

The rout started when safety Dick Anderson intercepted a Jim Plunkett pass on the third play of the game. Anderson made a falling catch at the New England 26, got up and ran to the four and fumbled. The Patriots recovered the ball in the end zone but officials ruled the ball dead at the four and Morris carried it in on the next play.

Garo Yepremian kicked a 16-yard field goal and Larry Csonka bulled his way over from the three for the other first half scores against the AFC's worst defensive team against the run.

Miami quarterback Earl Morrall, who completed five of eight passes for 126 yards in the first half, threw a 16-yard touchdown strike to Marlin Briscoe in the third quarter to make it 38-0 and Shula played substitutes the rest of the way.

Thomas saw daylight on long run

Post-Crescent News Service

CHICAGO—Quick Packer- quotes:

Ike Thomas: (on his 89-yard kickoff return): "Cal Withrow got the big block that sprung me and Perry Williams got one, too, I didn't see any of the other numbers, frankly.

"I never saw Cecil Turner either, but I felt him. I saw Ron Smith when he slipped down but I didn't see anybody else back there. All I saw was paydirt.

"That could have been my third touchdown runback in the last two years. I had two with Dallas last year . . . Maybe next week."

Cal Withrow (on the same return): "After they criss-cross coming down at us, I get a chance to scan and pick up the most dangerous man — like on a blitz. I picked off Clem Holloway. I gave him a pretty good lick."

John Brockington (on his touchdown run): "It was an off-tackle play and I read it. Their line pinched down and our lineman blocked them the way they wanted to go. I just had to slide along the line until I found daylight. Mac Lane did the same thing on his 35-yard run. He just slid down the line and was gone like a dog."

Al Matthews (on Bobby Douglass' second quarter 'fumble'): "I don't know what it was, really. I'll have to see the film. It looked like he tried to pitch it out of bounds. Fred Carr had his hands on it first. By the time I got to it, my momentum carried me out of bounds with the ball. Freddie and I were the only ones over there. If I cluld have got hold of it in bounds, I could have gone all the way."

Jim Hill "I wasn't surprised the Bears moved the ball well on us on those two long drives. The Bears are a much better team than their record indicates. Jim Harrison and Don Shy are fine backsa and so is Bobby Douglass. They didn't surprise us — they just executed better."

Dan Devine: "I think, although I have no way of knowing for sure about the Bears, that both teams may have been a little tight at the beginning. I thought we were a little over-eager."

John Brockington again: "I'm glad we're through with the Bears. It takes so much out of you mentally. Last night, I didn't sleep well and it was bugging me before the game today. Your stomach's churning and you're tight. Yoo keep telling yourself what you have to do, and you know they're going to try to intimidate you. You just have to play above that."

Chester Marcol: "We flip-flopped our tackles, as we have been for the last few weeks. in an off-man situation. Bob Brown played over the center's nose when we were in an odd-man line. Bob likes to play there and Mike McCoy has a little more agility to do what we want him to do in that situation. Mike has good pursuit. It really doesn't make any difference to me which side either one of them plays as long as they get the job done."

Dan Devine "I don't know what signal was given back there between Ike Thomas and Bob Hudson when Ike bobbled the ball and returned it only to the 10. That may have been in Braille. I'm going to have to check that out. Neither one is very talkative, you know."

Chester Marcol again: "Gary Kosins said a few things to me now and then when he came after me on those kickoffs—but nothing that was printable I said a few things to him too. But he never got to me all day long. I TOLD HIM HE WAS WASTING HIS TIME."

Wilkens keys Cavs' win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lenny Wilkens was acquired by Cleveland with the idea he might bring some stability to a young, inexperienced team. It's really to early to tell, but maybe, just maybe the Cavaliers have turned the corner in the National Basketball Association.

Wilkens was the player-coach of the Seattle SuperSonics last season. He was traded to Cleveland this year after resigning from his coaching position, and Sunday night he led the assault on his old charges as the Cavaliers beat the Sonics 113-107.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday night, Portland edged Kansas City-Omaha 102-100 and Phoenix whipped Philadelphia 119-108.

Indiana downed San Diego 124-119 in Sunday's American Basketball Association action.

Brown hikes total to 995 yards as Redskins get past Giants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim Garrett, a New York Giants assistant coach, guaranteed his team would not allow Larry Brown to rush for 100 yards in Sunday's National Football League game with the Washington Redskins.

Two weeks ago, Brown, the league's top runner, had gained 191 yards against the Giants.

Brown cracked the 100-yard mark with just 1:03 remaining in Sunday's game as his five-yard spurt into the end zone broke a tie and gave the Redskins a 20-13 lead. The run also gave Brown 101 yards rushing for the day. Washington went on to win, 27-13.

Moments later, the Redskins had the ball again on an interception. On the next two plays, Brown got one and four yards, adding his second touchdown of the day on the second plunge.

He increased his season total to 995 yards.

Brown said the Giants were talking during the game, saying he wasn't going to reach the 100-yard rushing mark for the sixth time this season.

"I didn't let that bother me," he said. "I don't pay attention to them when they're talking to me like that."

The victory raised Washington's record to 8-1 as the Skins retained their National Conference Eastern Division lead over the Dallas Cowboys. The Giants are now 5-4.

New York opened the scoring when Ron Johnson blasted over from the one to cap a 52-yard drive.

Washington matched the six-pointer when quarterback Billy Kilmer connected with tight end Jerry Smith on a 18-yard pass play. But Curt Knight's point after attempt was blocked and the Giants led 7-6 at intermission.

On the second-half kickoff, New York's Rocky Thompson handed off to Eldridge Small on a reverse, and the rookie defensive back streaked down the left side 77 yards to the Washington 13.

Johnson pounded to a first down at the three with three straight carries. But two more rushes moved the ball no closer than the two, a pass failed and the Giants had to settle for a 12-yard Pete Gogolak field goal.

Again Washington came back, marching 78 yards in 15 plays with Charley Harraway knifing into the end-zone from the one.

Jets enthused after victory over Bills

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Namath isn't giving up..

"There's no question that a win over Miami would answer our needs," said the New York Jet quarterback."Catching the Dolphins is sort've a longshot, but we're thinking about the playoffs."

The Jets crushed Buffalo 41-3 Sunday while unbeaten Miami was belting New England 52-0 for its ninth National Football victory of 1972 and Coach Don Shula's 100th in a 10-year coaching career.

Miami still leads New York by three games in the American Conference Eastern Division with a Jet-Dolphin matchup scheduled Sunday in the Orange Bowl.

"We've got to play our tails off and hope nobody else does better," said Namath. "I think our chances are pretty good for the wild card spot.."

"Our defense came a long way against Buffalo," said Weeb Ewbank, the Jet coach. "The game had to give our secondary a mental lift."

New York blanked the Bills after an early field goal. O.J. Simpson raced for 53 yards in the drive that led to the field goal, but was held to 36 yards the rest of the day.

"It was one of those days," said the former Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California, "when we ran three plays and sat down."

The height of Buffalo's depression came at the tailend of the second quarter when a furious series of Dennis Shaw passes fell just shy with New York ahead 24-3.

Shaw fired to Bob Chandler for 22 yards and fired to the wide receiver again for 28. The Bills were finally moving. Shaw then rifled a strike to Chandler in the corner of the end zone, but a penalty wiped it out.

With two seconds on the clock, Shaw fired again to Chandler, it went for 12 yards but the receiver was pushed out of bounds at the three-yard line and the threat was dead.

Rookies star in Packers' 23-17 win

18-yard loss which gave the Packers excellent field position at the Chicago 24, an 87-yard kickoff return by Ike Thomas and a Jim Carter interception, which the Packers converted into a 17-7 halftime lead.

Devine conceded football's fortunes had gone Green Bay's way early but countered by observing. "On their last drive to a touchdown, I thought they had a couple of breaks. One was a fumble that was blown dead and one was an interception we dropped. I think those things even out over the course of a game."

Devine also could have pointed out he had lost his starting quarterback for most of the afternoon in the wake of a second quarter scramble which left a Groggy Hunter a little unsure of his identity. That could have been a bit stickey, had Tagge not exhibited admirable calm and confidence in his regular season debut.

"I wasn't surprised," Devine said, "I've talked to Jerry about being ready to go. Jerry and I have related well together ever since he came to the Packers. I'm not surprised he played well. and he played well. It's nice to have two young quarterbacks.

"I thought he did just like Douglass — he played extremely well. I thought he showed a lot of poise."

Admitting that he had "closed down" the offense temporarily after Tagge first replaced Hunter late in the second quarter. Devine explained, "We were kind of playing the clock and the lead (17-7) on these first couple of series Jerry was in there."

Tagge's backfield companion, John Brockington, credited the rookie with a major assist. "That was the best thing about the game — Jerry coming in off the bench cold and playing well," he said. "I was really proud of that cat.

"He didn't get rattled. He had one bad series, but the team hung with him and he didn't let it get to him. Jerry did an outstanding job. That's a lot of pressure, plus the Bears were the team that hurt him in the pre-season. That had to be in the back of his mind."

Tagge's first substantial contribution came in the third quarter when, beginning at the Green Bay 10, he engineered a drive to the Chicago 14, setting up Marcol's second and record-tying field goal.

Surprisingly enough, Gibron said nothing about Marcol's historic field goal performance, although it was achieved with little help from the Bears. Obviously at Abe's behest, they did their best to disconcert the fabulous freshman along the way.

"On every kickoff I made, Gary Kosins came right for me," Chester said. "He obviously was trying to put the wood to me — to soften me up.

"But I was able to dodge him — that's no problem. The Bears do it to every kicker in the league, I guess. So I was expecting it. I always do. You can expect anything from the Bears. But, from my point of view, it just makes you want to do better. "Just before my last field goal attempt. Dick Butkus came way out of his way to try to throw me off. I made a little scuff mark to mark the spot where I intended to kick from. Butkus came over and rubbed the mark away. He never said a word, he just rubbed it out with his shoe."

As has been recorded, such distractions failed to deter the former Hillsdale College prodigy. And neither, he reported, did that final kick's importance.

"It was just another field goal to me Chester said. "It just escaped my mind completely that I could break the Packer record by making that one. I didn't even know that I had broken it until after the game. I was aware of how many I needed earlier in the week, but I had forgotten about it."

That record-breaking field goal attempt, emphationally tue to the mark like Chester's first two efforts, might not have developed had it not been Dave Robinson's opportune bulldogging of Bobby Douglass. It forced a fumble, recovered by Alden Roche at the Chicago 19.

"It was a blitz," Robinson said. "I saw Douglass had his back to me and I had to decide whether I should just try to dump him or take a chance on trying to rake him and jar the ball loose. So I went for the rake and the ball popped out.

49ers win, trail by 1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco defense made the brief return of Baltimore's Johnny Unitas a disaster Sunday, forcing the 39-year-old quarterback to fumble on his first passing attempt in four weeks, and Steve Spurrier followed with a fourth-quarter touchdown pass that gave the 49ers a 24-21 National Football League victory over the Colts

Marty Domres, the Colts' starting quarterback, was shaken up after passing his team to the 49ers' 40-yard line midway in the final period Unitas, the NFL's alltime leading passer, came in and lost the ball on the next play.

The old pro backpedaled looking for a receiver but was smothered by defensive end Tommy Hart and lost the football Tackle Bob Hoskins recovered at the Baltimore 39

Spurrier threw his second touchdown pass of the game five plays later, hitting tight end Ted Kwalick from 25 yards out, and the 49ers led 24-14

Domres reentered the game and threw to Sam Havrilak on a touchdown play covering 62 yards, and the young passer moved the Colts into San Francisco territory once more before the game ended

The victory made the 49ers 44 1 and left them one game behind first place Los Angeles in the close National Football Conference West race The Colts dropped to 2-7 in the AFC East

Ken Willard scored on an eight yard pass from Spurrier in the first quarter, and alternate fullback Larry Schreiber made an eight-yard touchdown run in the second quarter

Dempsey's 6 field goals lift Eagles past Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Tom Dempsey kicked six out of seven field goals, including a 52-yarder, Sunday and led the Philadelphia Eagles to an 18-17 National Football League victory over the rallying Houston Oilers.

Dempsey, who just missed the NFL record of seven field goals in one game, converted three-pointers of 33, 52, 22, and 12 on Philadelphia's first four possessions of the first half.

He added his fifth with nine seconds left in the half after Eagle safety Bill Bradley made his eighth pass interception of the season. Houston's Skip Butler kicked a 38-yarder in the second quarter as the Eagles took a 15-3 halftime lead.

The Eagles had not scored a touchdown in 14 quarters, but Dempsey's sixth field goal of the game, a 20-yarder with 14:53 left to play, provided Philadelphia with its winning margin.

Dempsey's final kick nullified two second-half touchdowns by the Oilers, who dropped to a 1-8 record, worst in the NFL.

Quarterback Dan Pastorini ran one yard for a touchdown in the third quarter and running back Paul Robinson swept the right side for 30 yards with 5:39 left in the game to pull Houston to an 18-17 deficit.

The Oilers drove to the Eagle 36-yard line with 16 seconds left in the game where Butler missed on a 43-yarder that would have given Houston the victory.

Dempsey, who holds the NFL record with a 63-yard field goal, missed a 22-yarder in the third quarter, one that would have let him equal the single-game mark for field goals.

Baker wins Texas 500

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Richard Petty and A.J. Foyt, two of auto racing's millionaires, climbed out of their cars at Texas World Speedway and shook hands.

"I've got to hand it to you," Petty told Foyt. "You sure can drive a race car. I'm tickled just to be in your league."

Not far away, however, Buddy Baker was being congratulated for winning the Texas 500 in a torrid late-race battle with Foyt and Petty. It came very near being a photo finish, and only Baker's ironnerved, 6-foot-4 frame prevented it from being so.

Baker, son of still active driver Buck Baker, had dominated this final event in the Winston Cup Grand National series almost from the start. He never completely escaped Petty, but he had Foyt a lap down—two miles—at one point, only to see the Texas veteran roar back into contention in the final 100 miles.

At the end, Baker had the nose of his Dodge about a hood length in front of Foyt's Mercury, with Petty trailing another four lengths back. A crowd of 33,500 watched in awe as the big stockers ran door-to-door and bumper-to-bumper down the stretch.

Petty's third place gave him a fourth Grand National driving title in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing. No other driver has won more than three.

Not only that, his $6,220 payoff ran his season's total to $202,015 and his career winnings to $1,340,000. Only Foyt, who captured the United States Auto Club driving title five times, has won more trophies and more money.

Bobby Allison, who drove an ailing Chevrolet to fourth place, wound up as the 1972 money leader with $254,050. Baker, who had won the World 600 in Charlotte earlier this year, led the race over the two-mile Texas World oval seven times for a total of 130 laps. Petty, who needed only to drive half the race to clinch the point championship, paced the 44 starters nine times for 100 laps.

Baker's speed was a track record 147.059 miles per hour, eclipsing Bobby Isaac's 1969 mark of 144.277.

Chinese team cops World Cup

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — For Tom Weiskopf, the World Cup Golf Tournament was a "good experience." But he nevertheless could not wait to get out of town.

"All I want to do is get home," the Columbus, Ohio, golfer said after finishing among the also-rans Sunday—a disappointing posture of the Americans in the field.

While Weiskopf ballooned to a 79 on the last day to finish with a three-round total of 223, Hsieh Min-nan won the individual title with a 217 and also led the Nationalist China to the team title.

Jim Jamieson of Moline, Ill., came in with a 222, winding up in a tie for fifth place. The United States team finished in a tie for fourth.

The Chinese clinched the victory at the 575-yard, 17th hole with a pair of birdies. First, "Mr. Lu" rolled in a 35-footer and then Hsieh sank a 10-footer.

Colorado rips Kansas, 33-8

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado, held to three Fred Lima field goals in the first half, exploded for two touchdowns only 18 seconds apart in the third period to bury Kansas 33-8 Saturday in a Big Eight Conference football game.

The Colorado defense—getting superb line play from Mark Cooney, Bud Magrum and others—pinned the Jayhawks inside their own 10-yard line midway through the third quarter. On the third play, following a Kansas punt, Buff tailback Charlie Davis raced 21 yards with a pitchout for the first Colorado touchdown with 5:19 left in the third.

Kansas quarterback Dave Jaynes went to the air on the Jayhawks first play after the touchdown, and CU safety John Stewarns intercepted at the Kansas 33-yard line. On the next play, sophomore split end Steve Haggerty slipped behind the Jayhawk defense and hauled in a perfect Ken Johnson aerial in the end zone with 5:01 left.

Badgers qualify for NCAA harrier event

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Wisconsin qualified for the National Collegiate Athletic Association national cross country meet Saturday as Glenn Herold won the NCAA District 4 meet.

Herold, champion of the Big Ten and undefeated this season, won the six mile event in 29 minutes, 47.8 seconds, 2.2 seconds ahead of Steve Wynder of Ball State.

The Badgers finished fourth in team standings with 147 points.

Syracuse stops Army

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Rob Sutton, starting his first varsity game, and senior fullback Marty Januszkiewicz, playing his last contest at home, powered Syracuse to a 27-6 football victory over Army Saturday.

Army averted a shutout late in the contest as reserve quarterback Dick Atha found Barrington Armstrong with a 30-yard pass to set up tailback Bob Hines' one-yard scoring plunge.

Calumet upsets Bobcats

CALUMET, Mich. (AP) — Previously winless Calumet defeated second-place Green Bay 7-4 in U.S. Hockey League action Sunday.

Calumet led 5-3 after two periods. Dick Purpur scored twice for the Bobcats (3-4).

Bea Albrecht powers 617 series; Ron Richmond crashes 279 game

Bea Albrecht blasted a 617 national honor count, Marge Wippich came within two pins of a 600 series and Ron Richmond came within a whisker of a perfect 300 game to highlight Fox Cities area bowling over the weekend.

Mrs. Albrecht jolted her national total, her second of the season, in the League of Nations Couples League at the Super Bowl.

Mrs. Wippich cracked her 598 in the Jerry's Bar Satellite Couples League at Jerry's Lanes, Kimberly.

Richmond powered his near-perfection 279 game in the "No Name Yet" League at Sabre Lanes. Ron opened with the first nine strikes in a row and then left a solid 10-pin on his first ball in the 10th frame. After picking up the spare, Ron cracked another strike to finish out. He had a 635 set.

For Bea Albrecht, it was the fifth national set of her bowling career. She opened with a 196 game, followed with 190 and then rolled 231 to go beyond the 600 mark. Her other national set this season was a 612 in the Classic League at the 41 Bowl. In the 231 game, Bea had nine strikes including string of four in a row twice. Mrs. Albrecht is averaging about 171 this season and bowls in two couples league and two scratch leagues.

Ed Plach led the men in the League of Nations circuit with a 243 game and 613 series. Sherry Schrank was runnerup for the women with a 200 game and 532 series.

Games of 237, 210

Mrs. Wippich had games of 237 and 210 on her way to the 598 in the Satellite League. Jean Crouch had a 212 game and 533 series. Ethel Martin had a 527 count and for the men, Jerry Wydeven rolled a 587 set.

In the Cocktail Couples League at Sabre Lanes Saturday night, Bob Hoehne powered a 256 game and 658 series. For the women, Lois Bressers swept the honors with a 224 singleton and 580 series.

Other top scores from the Cocktail League included Vince Bressers 576, Marty Van Domelen 227, Alice Patterson 201, Jean Buck 210 and Earl Mentzel 577.

The Card Couples League at Sabre Lanes saw Chet Steiner lead the way with a 646 series and Ed Sloan was next in line with a 638 total.

In the Power Company Couples League at Sabre Lanes on Friday night, Mark Adams jolted a 269 game and 626 series. He started the high game with the first eight strikes in a row, had nine pins and a spare in the ninth, another strike in the 10th and finished with a spare. Bob Armstrong had a 236 singleton.

In the Commercial Men's League at Sabre Lanes Friday night, Stan Prue rolled a 678 series and Les Elmer had a 258 singleton. Prue had games of 254 and 225 with the top series and Elmer finished with a 278. Dale Olson had 592, Darrell Eake 576, Bob Mignon 599, Jerry Desens 600, Claude Thede 591, Bill Quella 608 and Fred Reh 583.

Gary Kohl hit a 232 game and a 620 series to pace the Greenville Men's League at the Hortonville Lanes. Dick Schroeder had 237-605, Norm Mompier 593 and Joe Diemer had a 230 singleton.

Rangers rip Los Angeles

Flyers beat Seals

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The city of Philadelphia, much maligned recently because of a poor showing in professional sports, can now thumb its nose at all the detractors.

Yes, there is a winner currently in town. Take a look at the National Hockey League standings.

After Sunday night's 8-3 victory over the California Golden Seals, the Philadelphia Flyers settled into first place in the NHL's West Division.

Bobby Clarke was the hero for the Flyers Sunday night, scoring two goals and contributing two assists in the rout.

Los Angeles, leader in the West for a while, finally dropped out of the front-running position by losing to the New York Rangers, 5-1.

In the other NHL games Sunday, the Atlanta Flames trimmed the Vancouver Canucks 3-1; the Montreal Canadiens stopped the Boston Bruins 5-3; the Buffalo Sabres nipped the Pittsburgh Penguins 1-0 and the Chicago Black Hawks downed the Detroit Red Wings 5-1.

In NHL action Saturday, the New York Rangers trimmed California 7-2; Minnesota ripped the New York Islanders 3-0; Montreal downed Los Angeles 5-2; St. Louis stopped Toronto 1-0; Philadelphia whipped Buffalo 3-1 and Vancouver topped Pittsburgh 4-3.

The Flyers fell behind 1-0 on Walt McKechnie's power play goal for the Seals in the first period, but it was no game after Clarke's two goals highlighted a four-goal burst in the second period to help Philadelphia take a 4-2 lead.

Philadelphia goalie Doug Favell turned back 28 of 31 California shots. The Flyers unleashed 39 shots at California's Roy Edwasrds.

Rookie Steve Vickers scored three goals to help New York defeat Los Angeles as the Rangers extended their home ice unbeaten streak to nine games.

Keith McCreary ignited a three-goal explosion for Atlanta in the second period to lead the Flames past Vancouver. McCreary scored eraly in the period to even the score at 1-1 and Ernie Hicke and Bob Leiter followed with Flame goals to insure the victory.

Ken Dryden's fine goaltending helped Montreal build a 4-1 lead and the Canadiens held on to beat Boston in the first meeting this season of the NHL powers.

Coonen leads pin loop

Pat Coonen slammed a 226 game and a 581 series for high counts in the Appleton West bowling league at Hahn's Lanes.

Mark Nickles had a 218 game and 556 series, Rick Haertl had a 202 line and 536 set while Mark Tesmer fired 199 with a 558 total and also cleaned up the 7-9-10 split.

Kaukauna girls capture FVA volleyball title

Kaukauna won the first two games of a best-of-three playoff with Oshkosh West Saturday to win the Fox Valley Association girls' volleyball championship.

The teams tied with 4-2 records after regulation play in the 2-game round-robbin tournament at Appleton West. Appleton East logged a 3-3 slate and Oshkosh North 1-5.

Kaukauna won the first tie-breaker, 15-11, and took the second game 15-3.

The Ghosts finished the season with a 23-3 record. The coach is Mrs. Norma Jones and team members are Karen Wyngaard, Sue Barribeau, Kim Kappell, Pan Blasjeski, Diane Potter, Gail Alger and Polly Wahlers.

Cowboys unimpressive against lowly Cards

DALLAS (AP) — If the Dallas Cowboys keep going to sleep in the second half, they're going to wake up someday with another National Football League team in possession of their Super Bowl title.

The Cowboys again built up a big first half lead Sunday over an opponent and for the third consecutive week had to scramble for victory—a 33-24 conquest of weak St. Louis.

The Dallas Doomsday Defense has surrendered 108 points in the last four games in which the Cowboys blew big leads to lose to Washington and narrowly defeat Detroit, San Diego and Washington.

Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys was disturbed after Dallas' defense almost squandered away a 23-10 halftime ead over the Cardinals but still remained just a game behind Washington in the National Conference East.

"I'm concerned just like last week about the number of points we are giving up," Landry said. "There's no excuse for giving up points the way we have of late."

Cardinal quarterback Gary Cuozzo, making his first start in a month, collaborated with tight end Dave Smith on a 68-yard touchdown pass and flicked a 12-yard scoring shot to Johnny Roland.

However, Cuozzo would not malign the Cowboy defense, saying "It's as strong as always. Somebody was in my face all day. They haven't lost a thing as far as I can tell."

Cuozzo said "When you get down 17-0 against a championship team, it's pretty tough to come back. I'm very proud of our bunch for coming back the way they did."

Cowboy quarterback Craig Morton, who hit Ron Sellers with a 41-yard touchdown pass in another splendid performance, said of the Dallas Doomsday: "They have always put on a great stretch effort for us and I'm not worried about their showing now. We are just trying to score as many points as possible until our defense picks up."

Toni Fritsch kicked field goals of 27, 14, 50 and 38 yards as Dallas stretched its record to 7-2. The Cardinals are 2-6-1.

The only Cowboy defender who distinguished himself was often-burned cornerback Charlie Waters, who plucked off two Cuozzo passes and ran one back 28 yards for a touchdown.

Freedom defeats Shiocton, 66-45

SHIOCTON — Dan Wisneski paced a balanced attack Friday as Freedom defeated Shiocton, 66-45, in a non-conference season opener for both teams.

Freedom also posted a victory Saturday against Winneconne.

Wisneski, a 6-3 junior center, tossed in 18 points. Steve Daul connected for 10 but the Irish had nine other players account for one or more points.

Mike Bricco tallied 12 and 6-3 Steve Allen 10 for Shiocton.

MIAMI (AP) — Their 28-hour 3,800-mile flight of terror ended, passengers aboard a hijacked jetliner have returned from Cuba with bizarre tales of three "deranged" sky pirates.

They also had words of praise for the Southern Airways crew which landed the crippled DC9 on a foam-covered Havana runway.

Another Southern DC9 returned the 27 passengers and four crewmen to Miami and finally to their original destinations Sunday after an attempt by FBI sharpshooters to halt the hijacking failed Saturday night and forced the emergency landing in Cuba.

All three hijackers were taken into custody by Cuban officials at Havana. Passengers said Cuban authorities also confiscated ransom money demanded and collected by the hijackers from Southern.

"Everyone thought they would be dead in an hour," said passenger Gale Buchanan at a Miami hospital, recalling how FBI agents shot out four of the plane's tires as it prepared for takeoff after a refueling stop at Orlando, Fla.

Buchanan, 35, of Auburn, Ala., who suffered a sprained knee, was one of four persons injured during the hijacking. Copilot Billy Johnson, 37, mayor of College City, Ark., was shot in the shoulder by one of the hijackers.

Buchanan said the hijackers acted in a bizarre manner during the circuitous, three-nation flight. He said they alternately handed out fistfulls of ransom money, forced male passengers to remove their pants and shot the copilot after threatening to "put a bullet in your head."

The hijackers, reportedly armed with guns and grenades, had demanded a $10-million ransom for the plane and its passengers. An undisclosed amount of money was given to the sky pirates during a stop in Chattanooga, Tenn., Saturday. Southern refused to say how much money had been given to them.

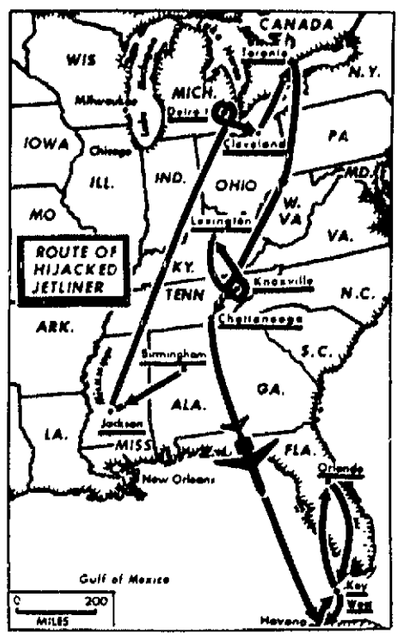
Authorities say two of the three men identified as hijackers of a Southern Airways jetliner were free on bond in a rape case and the third was a recently escaped convict who attended college while in prison.

Detroit police said Henry D. Jackson, 25, and Lewis K. Moore, 27, each had been charged with three rapes and questioned in connection with several other assaults on women. Neither has been convicted on such charges.

On Oct. 12, the two men appeared in court on two charges of forcible rape and were released on $500 bond.

Tennessee prison authorities said Melvin Charles Cale, 21, of Oak Ridge escaped Oct. 29 from the Nashville Community Work Release Center, a minimum-security facility for short-term prisoners.

The FBI identified the three as the heavily armed hijackers who forced a DC9 with 30 persons aboard into a marathon hijack odyssey that ended early Sunday in Havana, where Cuban officials reportedly took them in custody.



Wiretap secret upheld

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today allowed the government to proceed with the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo without revealing to them who in the defense team was overheard in a "foreign-intelligence" wiretap.

Ellsberg and Russo are charged with espionage, conspiracy and misuse of government property in the publication of top-secret study of the origins of the Vietnam war. Their trial in Los Angeles has been delayed since July 29 by the dispute over wiretapping.

The court did not comment on the issues as it handed down a routine order declining to hear an appeal by Ellsberg and Russo, who argued also that "foreign-intelligence" wiretaps without warrants are illegal.

A dissenting opinion was filed by Justice William O. Douglas who stayed the trial in July while the court was in its summer recess. Justice William J. Brennan Jr also dissented

Ellsberg andRusso needed the votes of at least four justices to have their appeal taken up by the court. The vote against them was seven to two.

Douglas said he regretted that his colleagues did not take the occasion to lay down some further ground rules for the conduct of criminal cases involving electronic surveillance. He also said that it was time "we hold that the confidences of the lawyer-client relationship remain inviolate."

Douglas said he had examined the logs "and it appears that the electronics surveillance was of a telephone of a foreign national and that the intercepted conversations in this case had nothing to do with respect to activities of foreign persons or their agents."

Last Aug. 9, U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne of Los Angeles, who was presiding at the trial, sent the jurors home until the court settled the appeal.

Haig, Thieu reportedly narrowed position gap

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's special emissary to Saigon returns today amid widespread expectation that adviser Henry A. Kissinger will soon head for another peace negotiating session in Paris.

Gen. Alexander M Haig Jr. was slated to report to Nixon following his homecoming after two days of talks with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu and short stops in Cambodia and South Korea. The U.S. embassy described the talks with Thieu as "cordial and constructive."

Nixon came back to Washington from Key Biscayne, Fla., Sunday night for a few hours' stay before proceeding to his Camp David, Md., retreat.

Just when Kissinger will head for Paris to meet again with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho remains a secret. Administration officials maintained their air of confidence, however, about moving toward final accord on ending the war.

Kissinger said Oct. 26 that remaining issues could be straightened out in more negotiating session lasting three or four days. Since the administration officials have left open the possibility that Kissinger may need more than one more parley with Tho.

Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy anticipated a further Kissinger-Tho meeting in a Paris interview over the weekend, though he held to North Vietnam's position that the session should be devoted to procedures for signing the proposed nine-point pact—not to altering it.

Haig's Saigon visit was a further Nixon move to overcome Thieu's objections to the peace plan and line-up a common position for the allies.

U.S. officials in Saigon indicated the talks narrowed U.S.-South Vietnamese differences, apparently clearing the way for resumption of the private negotiations in Paris.

But the Saigon newspaper Tin Song, which is controlled by Thieu's closest adviser, said Haig and the president had made "no further progress" in their talks.

The report said three major points still were to be resolved: the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces, the administrative organization to maintain the cease-fire and supervise elections and under what conditions and when will the international body to police the cease-fire begin work.

Thieu has been calling for a pullout of North Vietnamese forces from South Vietnam, a condition not specified in the nine-point plan, and has fought any imposition of a coalition government on Saigon.

Haig, Kissinger's top aide, was reported to have carried a Nixon letter to Thieu.

Haig conferred in Phnom Penh with the Cambodian chief of state, Lon Nol, and in Seoul with President Chung Hee Park.

Both countries would be directly affected by the nine-point plan. It calls for withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from Cambodia and for a pull-out of South Korean troops, along with the Americans, from South Vietnam. Some 37,000 South Koreans are in South Vietnam.

Sex, drug law changes urged

FONTANA, Wis. (AP) — The "simple use and possession of marijuana" would be legalized and "crimes against sexual morality" would be abolished under recommendations made by the Citizens Study Committee on Judicial Organization during the weekend.

The task force appointed by Gov. Patrick Lucey ended a two-day meeting Saturday after approving the proposals which had been drafted by its substantive and procedural law subcommittee.

"Some 24 million Americans have tried marijuana," the subcommittee said in its report. "This widespread disregard of the law has produced a situation with respect to marijuana analogous to that with respect to alcohol during the Prohibition era."

The crimes against sexual morality which the task force asked be eliminated include private offenses of fornication between consenting adults, adultery, sexual perversion and cohabitation under circomstances implying intercourse.

The subcommittee did not condone the use of marijuana and urged the state to maintain control of its sale by establishing a regulatory body.

Milwaukee attorney Robert Harland, chairman of the subcommittee, and Howard Packer of Racine, vice president of S. C. Johnson and Son Inc., vigorously opposed the two recommendations.

Both contended that the marijuana and sex matters had nothing to do with court reform, judicial salaries and elections—which the task force had been assigned to probe.

"It's an outrage to come here and discuss reforms relating to our state court system and then to go ahead and legalize adultery," Packard said.

But the task force chairman, Milwaukee banker John Geilfuss, said Lucey had not restricted the 40-member group from considering and making recommendations on criminal laws as they affect the courts and their caseloads.

"I rule these matters come appropriately before this committee," he said, and a majority of the panel members affirmed his stand.

The task force also endorsed subcommittee proposals that the public drunkenness law be repealed and alcoholics be treated as sick people, and that noncommerical gambling be legalized

And the study committee agreed with suggestions that the sole ground for divorce action should be "irreconcilable differences which have caused the irremediable breakdown of the marriage," and that judges should be replaced by family court commissioners in the handling of uncontested and stipulated divorce cases. Further study into the makeup of boards to regulate a state legal service corporation and to certify qualified judicial nominees was ordered by the task force.

The study committee recommended that a legal services corporation be formed to provide lawyers for the poor and that a Judicial Qualifications Commission be formed to certify nominees for appointment to judicial posts on the basis of merit in place of the current election process.

The task force asked its court availability subcommittee to continue to look into who should be included on a board of trustees to run the nonprofit, nonstock agency.

The subcommittee had suggested that the board be composed of the chief justice of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, three members selected by the State Bar of Wisconsin and five citizen members appointed by the governor.

But the inclusion of any judicial representative on the board was questioned by some task force members, as was the appointing by the governor of all of the citizen members.

The task force referred to a special subcommittee for further study the question of who should be appointed to a Judicial Qualifications Commission.

The group's subcommittee on judges had proposed that the commission include three nonlawyers appointed by the governor, three judges designated by the Wisconsin Supreme Court, and three lawyers elected by the State Bar of Wisconsin.

Attorney Leonard Zubrensky of Milwaukee suggested that the commission consist of five nonlawyers appointed by the governor, one member appointed by the chief justice

China readies blast against weapons ban

UNITED NATIONS, N Y (AP) — China prepared a blast against the Soviet Union in the U N General Assembly today, opposing a Soviet proposal for an assembly declaration renouncing the use of force and banning nuclear weapons

Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan hua chairman of the Chinese delegation was one of a dozen speakers listed for the assembly debate on the Soviet proposal

Peking s official People's Daily commented on Sunday that, while the Soviets were poposing the prohibition of all kinds of weapons they were building u their supply for carrying out unprovoked nuclear threat and nuclear blackmail against countries with little or no nuclear armament

During the assembly s general debate on Oct 3 Chiao described the Soviet resolution as shabby stuff He opposed an unconditional declaration against the use of force explaining We support just wars And he said the Soviet Union should declare that it would not be the first to use nuclear weapons before it talked of banning them altogether

The Soviet resolution, submitted Sept 26 by Foreign Minister Andrei A Gromyko, declares on behalf of U N members "their renunciation of the use of force in international relations and the permanent prohibition of nuclear weapons"

It recommends that the Security Council give the declaration binding force under the U N charter But diplomatic sources said Western European countries had objected to this provision because the U N charter says the council cannot adopt a binding decision without finding that there is a threat to peace in a specific case

The diplomats said the Russians were flexible on whether the provision should remain, and some of their friends were trying to frame the resolution in a generally acceptable form before it comes to a vote next weekend

Since the current debate opened, only 11 countries, all Arab or Communist, have spoken on the proposal All of them favored the resolution or something similar to it

The United States feels that such a declaration is unnecessary since the U N charter already has committed members to refrain from the use of force in international relations

Proxmire wants talks on arms with Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen William Proxmire D Wis urged today that the United States begin strategic arms limitation talks with China

He said it was because China possesses missiles capable of attacking the Soviet Union that Russia insisted during the SALT negotiations with the United States on retaining an anti ballistic missile station at Moscow

1st storm of winter hits Europe

LONDON (AP) — A storm of violent winds, rain and snow swept across Europe today, leaving more than a score of persons dead, homes destroyed or flooded and uprooted trees, still bearing golden leaves of autumn, lying across roads and highways.

Germany was hardest hit. Winds up to 124 miles an hour howled through the Harz Mountains. Twelve persons were killed at least five by falling trees.

In Huettental, a roof blew off a school, killing an 11-year-old girl and injuring others at a nearby bus stop.

In Bremen, a metal sign ripped the roof of a packed bus, killing one person. In Brunswick a woman was crushed by a crumbling chimney.

The Netherlands, battered by winds of 90 m.p.h., lost six persons — three from falling trees, two farmers on emergency work, and one drowned when his boat overturned.

In Gosselies, Belgium, a woman was killed when the roof of her house was lifted and fell back, crushing the top story.

In France, a passenger in a truck was killed when it was blown off the main Paris-Lille road.

Southern Europe appeared to have been protected by the Alps where the main passes were closed by six inches of snow

Snow fell, too, in the Pennine Hills of England Trees blocked roads just as their leaves had blocked railways three days earlier Three persons were reported killed Talbot, in south Wales, was under three feet of water.

China will buy eight more British jetliners

WINDSOR, England (AP) - Ambassador Sung Chiah-kuang announced today that China is buying eight more Trident jetliners costing about $60 million from Britain

The order, signed in Peking Nov 9, brings total Trident sales to Peking to more than $163 million The Chinese signed contracts earlier for 12 of the planes, which are manufactured by Hawker Siddeley Aviation

Sung accepted delivery of the first of the planes at a ceremony today at Hawker's plant north of London

The company's chairman, Sir Arnold Hall, announced that Hawker is building a special Trident for China with a range of 1,930 miles The maximum range of those operating for British European Airways is 1,500 miles

F. A. Marden Center dedicated at King

Hope lives here

KING — "Hope lives here," Lt. Gov. Martin J. Schreiber said Saturday when he spoke at the dedication of the Dr. F. A. Marden Memorial Center, the newest building at the Grand Army Home for Veterans.

He spoke to more than 500 visitors who came to observe Armistice Day and get their first look at the tri-level activities building on the east shore of Rainbow Lake.

"I have seen no finer, nor similar facility anywhere in this state, or in the nation," Schreiber said.

Schreiber said that good nursing care goes beyond providing just food and bed, and that the excellent care of veterans is what the state has been striving for

"The contagious compassion evidenced in this home now has a new dimension, and it gives me increased optimism that our senior citizens and veterans are being given total care," he said.

Commandant Arlin C. Barden in welcoming visitors to the new building explained that the $1.5 million structure was paid for by members of the home and gifts from various organizations and individuals.

The building actually was part of long-range planning since 1963. The architectural firm was Peters and Mortinsons, Madison, and the general contractor was Ellis Stone Co., Stevens Point.

Formally dedicated the building and naming it the Dr. F. A. Marden Memorial Center in honor of the home's first doctor, Dr. Vernon Olson, chairman of the board of veterans affairs, said the building "demonstrated true Americanism in action by honoring the dead by helping the living."

"It has been a proud Wisconsin tradition to care for those who need it," he continued. "During the past 10 years we have seen the Grand Army Home change from a sleepy old veterans' home to one of the most distinguished veterans' homes in the country.

He said that only a new hospital remains to be built to complete the long-range plan to accommodate 1,500 veterans. He added that presently there are 566 nursing care patients cared for in two skilled-nursing centers.

About 11 a.m. the residents, various dignitaries and other visitors faced eastward and heard the siren blow for one minute, heard volleys from a firing squad and listened to a bugler play taps.

It was a traditional ceremony commemorating American soldiers who fought in World War I.

Manawa to seek bids on new medical clinic

MANAWA—The City Council agreed Thursday to advertise for bids for construction of a city-owned doctors' clinic between Grove and Second Streets.

The clinic has been designed by Phillips and Associates, Inc., Kimberly.

Iver Oerter, an engineer, told the council that the building would have 2,420 square feet and would cost about $65,000. The original cost estimate had been $50,000 including property.

If the cost does increase, the original 10-year loan at the Farmers State Bank will have to be reviewed, according to M. G. Hales, chairman of the bank board.

The new doctor's clinic will include a waiting room, record and reception room, two examination rooms, X-ray and drug rooms, a doctor's office, restrooms and an attached two-car carport. The building will have central heating and air conditioning. Equipment for the building will be furnished by the doctor.

Clintonville board will act on two contracts

CLINTONVILLE — The district board of education is expected to award two teaching contracts at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the board room of the Longfellow School.

Supt. V. J. Wadleigh has recommended awarding a contract to Mrs. Helen Dean, Clintonville, to teach high school home economics for the remainder of the 1972-73 school year. She will replace Mrs. Elaine Schuler, who has resigned. Wadleigh also has recommended awarding a contract to Robert Veleke to teach high school instrumental music beginning Jan. 2, 1973. Veleke was called into military service while teaching here and will be able to return as of Jan. 2.

The board will hear a summary of computer costs and services for scheduling, grade reporting and other print-outs and consider the Wisconsin Association of School Boards special services contract for 1973.

After the regular meeting, the board will go into an executive session to consider a request from the Clintonbille Education Association to change insurance programs, as per provisions of the master agreement.

Survey to determine library use

FREMONT -- Participation in a telephone survey to determine attitudes about local library service during National Book Week will be carried on by Mrs. W.F. Neuschafer. More than 300 local calls are to be made on behalf of the Fremont Public Library.

The survey questions will be: Does your family use the library? What kind of books do you prefer? Are you satisified with the present services and what other types of services would you like? Other comments will be welcome and the information will remain confidential.

The results will be tabulated on forms arranged by the Waupaca County Library Planning Committee. They will be used to further plans to facilitate inter-library loans and other forms of inter-library cooperation.

It is believed services can be made more effective by participation in such a system, Mrs. Neuschafer said. The telephone contacts are to be completed by Sunday. Volunteers who wish to help with the survey may contact Mrs. Neuschafer.

'Little for youths to do but drink'

When you're a teen-ager living in Oneida, about all there is to do is drink, a 13-year-old girl told Outagamie County Judge R. Thomas Cane Friday.

The girl was in Juvenile Court for running away from home Aug. 25 and Nov. 5. She was not formally charged for several other times she left home.

She told Cane she runs away because she fights with an older sister. The fights often occur, Cane was told, after the younger girl has been drinking. Older youths buy the intoxicants, the girls' parents said.

"All there is to do is drink," the girl, who cried during much of her court appearance, replied to a question by Cane.

Cane told a reporter he recently met with a group of Oneida parents who were concerned with the juvenile drinking problem.

"Think about what you'd rather do than drink in Oneida," Cane told the girl. "Ask the other kids. Maybe we can do something about it."

Cane ordered a study by the Outagamie County Department of Social Services before making a disposition in the case. The girl is to reappear in court Nov. 27. She was released to her parents after promising she would not run away again.

Military routine

Army Reservists participate Saturday in traditional military activities — cooking mess for the troops and cleaning a soldier's best friend, his rifle. The activity is at the U.S.Army Reserve Center, 1824 Ballard Road, where the members of the 84th Division's First Battalion of the Second Brigade meet. The Reservists are, above, Spec. 5 Donald Calmes, Appleton, left, and Pfc. Thomas Gintner, Neenah, and, below, Pfc. Robert Rabideau, Neenah. Reservists also are moving into less traditional activities these days, including assisting in community projects and adventure-type programs, such as parachuting and cliff-scaling. Bids let on Weyauwega disposal plant

BY MICKEY PESCHKE
Post-Crescent correspondent

WEYAUWEGA — Bids have been let for the disposal addition to the sewage plant here.

The city council last week voted to accept the diffused aeration system and the following bids: General construction, Oudenhoven Co., Kaukauna, $366,600; mechanical construction. Hietpas, Inc., Little Chute, $57,074; electrical work, Stephenson Electric, Appleton, $25,170; remodeling existing plant, Oudenhoven Co., $28,100; and cleaning digester, Oudenhoven Co., $15,400.

The total cost of the project will be $462,344, with the city's share set at $80,129. The balance will be paid by federal and state grants and local industry.

Council members agreed to reinvest certificates of deposit amounting to a total of $140,000. Of this, $80,000 was reinvested for 90 days and $60,000 for 120 days. This money subsequently will be used for the disposal plant addition.

Aldermen voted to install approximately 550 feet of storm sewer from the lake on the Erick Struck property. Thirty-inch pipe and three manholes will be installed, including an endwall apron and rip rap at the base in the lake. The estimated cost is $9,854. The project will be completed immediately, providing the Town of Weyauwega will pay its share — one half — of the cost.

The installation of a culvert on the west side of Lake Street was tabled until the next council meeting. The council will take action after further investigation.

Ald. Donald Morgan, chairman of the police committee, presented specifications for a new squad car. Council members agreed to advertise for bids on a 1973 police squad car equipped with a full police package deal.

The budget for 1973 has been completed and will be published Thursday. The budget for 1973 has been completed and will be published Thursday. The public budget hearing will be at 8 p.m. Nov. 20.

Studs not legal yet, state warns

If you're thinking about putting your studded tires on a day early because of snow forecasts, you had better watch it. The state intends to enforce the Nov 15 starting date.

James O. Peterson, administrator of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, said today his division and the Wisconsin State Patrol have no alternative but to enforce the date

An extention was granted last spring in the midst of a heavy snowfall only because there had been confusion since the state had reduced the studded tire period from six to four months Peterson said

Col. Louis Versnik, head of the state patrol, said his officers would not go out of their way to cite studded-tire violators but if in the normal course of duties, they observed the tires on illegally, motorists would be cited.

He said he didn't know how many have been cited but some have in past years The penalty can be a fine of $10 to $20 or up to 30 days in jail, he said, but the county board of judges, which decides court policy, has indicated that the bond amount should be $30 plus court costs, a normal traffic fine amount.

Peterson said motorists could put their tires on at midnight Tuesday without chancing arrest

He said the division had to consider more than just safety It also had to consider the damage to highways and the expense of this to the state's taxpayers Many people never use studs but pay for the damaged highways through taxes, he noted

There is the possibility there won't be any troublesome snows before Wednesday But with the weather reports being what they have been, I'm keeping my fingers crossed Versnik said

Police & fire beat

CLINTONVILLE — A rural Bear Creek youth paid fines totaling $114, plus costs, last week in Waupaca County Court Branch 2 and had his driver's license revoked for 90 days.

Dennis Knapp, 16, route 1, Bear Creek, was arrested Nov. 5 by the Waupaca County Traffic Patrol and charged with hit and run of property adjacent to the highway and driving too fast for conditions.

NEW LONDON—The fire department was called to Murphy Construction Co. on Shawano Road at 11:15 a.m. Saturday when an electrical short ignited a switch house. No dollar estimate was available.

Appleton police were called to the scenes of two minor fires Saturday, both of which were out when they arrived.

A burning cigarette caused minor damage under a seat in a car owned by Dennis Nieft, Sheboygan. The auto was parked in the 500 block of N. Oneida Street about 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

A telephone book apparently was ignited by an electric stove burner at the Timothy J. Laux residence, 306½ E. McKinely St., About 2:30 a.m. Sunday. Damage was confined to the phone book, although a smoke ejector was used to clear smoke from the room.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — State narcotics agents are increasingly aiming their enforcement at large-scale suppliers of "death drugs," Atty. Gen. Robert Warren said Friday.

He told a conference of narcotics agents from 11 midwestern states, his agency's narcotics and dangerous drugs section had significantly increased the share of its arrests involving felony violations and narcotics.

In 1970, about three-fourths of the squad's arrests were for alleged felony violations but only 5.9 per cent involved narcotics—heroin and its derivatives, Warren said.

In the first six months of 1972, however, more than 90 per cent of its arrests were for alleged felony violations, and 25 per cent of those involved narcotics, Warren added.

The narcotics and dangerous drugs section, he said, "has been successful in bypassing the street level abusers and small peddlers and has infiltrated several large peddlers' organizations capable of supplying heroin and other drugs to other dealers."

Amherst net season starts

AMHERST — The high school basketball team will begin its season Tuesday against Marion with tipoff time at 6:30 p.m. for the junior varsity and 8 p.m. for the varsity.

The varsity which had an 18-7 record last year will be without Paul Swetella an all-conference player during his three high school years, who last year scored 566 points and grabbed 389 rebounds.

The team also will miss Tom Maves who scored 232 points and grabbed 261 rebounds; and Dick Teschner, with 156 points and 163 rebounds.

Returning letterwinners are seniors Dale Onan, John Van Nuys, team captains; and Dave Trader, John Thompson, and Paul Kachur.

Other team members are Don Romundson, Gary Tetzloff, Scott Bergman, Bob Last, Gene Allen, Kurt Henke, Jeff Schmatz, Jeff Teigs and Rick Stoltz.

Charges of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of marijuana were pending today against a 21-year old Appleton man, arrested by city police Saturday afternoon.

Police said the man was apprehended while shooting a .22 caliber pistol along the Fox River behind the 600 block of River Road about 3 p.m. Saturday. The marijuana was found in his possession when he was questioned later by police.

The man was taken to the Outagamie County jail, where he was held on $500 bond.

ONEIDA—Two persons were taken to a Green Bay hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in a single-car accident on State 54 near Van Boxtel Road in the Town of Oneida about 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Four windows of varying sizes were reported broken Sunday morning by rocks thrown at the Anton J. Rank residence, 220 E. Glendale Ave.

Two 20-by-24-inch windows were broken from an overhead garage door. A 32-by-36-inch storm window and a 6-by-10-inch interior window also were broken. No estimate of the damage was given.

Proxmire will mix politics and exercise on jog throughout state

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — One of Wisconsin's most noted physical fitness-buffs, Sen. William Proxmire, says he will begin a 1,200-mile walking-running tour of the state next Monday to visit his constituents.

"What could be better—to mix two of the great loves of my life—politics and exercise?" Proxmire said in a statement from his Washington, D.C., office.

"Breezing along on foot in the brisk, bracing fresh air of late fall and winterland Wisconsin, 25 or 30 miles a day, just happens to be my idea of a ball," the senator said. "I plan to run 10 miles a day and walk 15 to 20."

Proxmire said the tour would start in Milwaukee and, with some interruptions of congressional business, would end sometime in February or March.

"I hope to have scores of breakfasts, lunches, dinners and other prearranged meetings, but most of my time will be spent in one-to-one conversations with thousands of Wisconsin men and WOMEN," Proxmire said.

Proxmire was the center of attention in Congress earlier this year when he showed up with his head swathed in bandages—the result of a hair transplant.

Proxmire's itinerary calls for him to reach the Madison area Nov. 23; Beloit and Janesville Nov. 24; Footville, Orfordville, Brodhead and Monroe Nov. 25, Browntown, South Wayne, Gratiot and Shullsburg Nov. 26; Leadmine, Benton, Hazel Green, Fair Play, Kiel er and Dickeyville Nov. 27; and Platteville and Lancaster Nov. 28.

The senatort plans to interrupt the tour for committee hearings and speaking engagements, and hit the road again Dec. 28 in Lancaster.

From Lancaster, Proxmire will proceed west to the Mississippi River, north to Superior, east to Marinette and then return to Milwaukee.

Jay Tibbetts funeral today

GREEN BAY — Funeral services were held here today for Jay Leslie Tibbetts, 71, formerly of Appleton, who died here Friday after a year's illness.

Tibbetts was employed in Appleton by the Wisconsin Department of Taxation, serving as assessor of incomes from 1936 to 1966, when he retired.

He was a certified public accountant and had taught courses at the old Green Bay Business College and Marquette University in Milwaukee.

While living in Appleton, Tibbetts was active in the Congregational Church, Boy Scouts, Brotherhood Organization of Christians and Jews and the Appleton Rotary Club, which he had served as president and treasurer.

He was survived by his widow, a son, a daughter, three grandchildren, a sister and a brother.

A Rotary Scholarship Memorial Fund was established.

Albert candidate again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., says he will seek re-election as speaker of the House.

Albert said in a statement Wednesday that the election Tuesday of a Democratic Congress "is clear and convincing evidence that the people of the United States recognize that only the Democratic party can provide the leadership necessary to meet the vital needs of our time."

Attendance prizes will be awarded.

Reaume as in Rome, Ree-ome or Rayoom?

KAUKAUNA — The extension of Reaume Avenue into city-owned property has led to speculating about the proper pronunciation of the word Reaume.

Random phone calls to residents of the street provided some interesting answers. Although the majority admitted to calling it "Reem," they were not sure if their pronunciations were correct. One, a 20-year resident of the street, indicated it was "Ree-ome" and another thought it should be "Rayoom."

Still another thought "Rome" was the proper pronunciation. Visitors to the city have even more varied pronunciations.

Whatever way it is pronounced, it is known to be named after Charles Reaume, born about 1172 in Canada to a prominent family of French descent. In 1779 he was known to have lived in Detroit and in 1790 settled at Green Bay and had an interest in the Indian fur trade.

In 1818 he was appointed one of the associate justices of the peace for Brown County by Gov. Cass. Records indicate that for many years he was "under both British and American ownership the only civil authority in what is now known as Wisconsin."

He is believed to have settled on a tract of land on the Rox River near Little Rapids in 1818 and died there in 1822.

Donald Peterson wants Westwood's resignation

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin Democratic National Committeeman Donald O. Peterson said Friday he has asked National Committee Chairman Jean Westwood to resign.

Peterson, who supported Maine Sen. Edmund Muskie during the presidential primaries, released a letter he sent Mrs. Westwood telling her "for the good of the party we must begin again with new leadership."

Mrs. Westwood was picked by defeated presidential candidate George McGovern to succeed Lawrence O'Brien as chairman of the Democratic National Committee after the party convention.

She said Thursday at a Washington, D.C., news conference she has no intention of stepping down because of McGovern's defeat.

"This letter is extremely difficult to write, but I feel that for the good of the party you should resign as chairman of the Democratic National Committee," Peterson wrote. "The magnitude of George McGovern's defeat makes it imperative we begin immediately to recapture the natural Democratic presidential constituency of blue-collar and ethnic Americans who voted for Richard Nixon."

Peterson, of Eau Claire, said he believes in McGovern's ideals, but in order to accomplish them there must be "new leadership that identifies with the people and has their trust."

"The election clearly was not a referendum on Richard Nixon, but the rejection of George McGovern," he said.

"We must rebuild, and the results of the election make it imperative we recognize what the causes were for a defeat of this proportion and what direction we must take to recoup," he said.

Peterson said the party should not "surrender" the progress it made in reform, but must bring back old-line Democrats alienated after the national convention.

"But we also must recognize there is no longer any place in the Democratic party for the John Connallys," Peterson said. "They have made their bed in the Republican party and should stay there."

Georgia-Pacific OKs expansion

Directors of Georgia-Pacific Corp., Portland, Ore.-based firm with New London operations, have approved expanding the firm's Oregon paper manufacturing operations and called for the $1.40 convertible preferred stock for redemption.

They also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share of common stock, payable Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Nov. 10.

The company, with about $30 million in new capital expenditures approved, will add 250 tons daily capacity to the company's Toledo, Ore., mill with an additional paper machine and related equipment. It is slated for completion in mid-1974.

Opinion

THE Post-Crescent

The evolution of constitutions

The voters of at least 22 states had before them this fall referendum issues involving revision of constitutional law in dozens of directions, but most of them reflecting changing times, circumstances and needs that their original constitutional laws did not anticipate or could not.

Major themes emerging from the constitutional amendments in representative states frequently echo some modifications achieved in Wisconsin in recent times, including assurance of representative law-making machinery, effective executive direction of governmental services more numerous and pervasive than the founders could have imagined, abandonment of constitutional requirements now demonstrably obsolete and, not the least, the elimination of the rules on finance that were appropriate in earlier generations but are often barriers to effective organization and operation of government in a rapidly urbanizing society.

What is encouraging about the story is the repeated proof that the deliberate, selective amendment process is workable when there is a demonstration of need for change and when care is taken to provide the utmost guidance and information for the citizen as he votes. Here in Wisconsin for years some of the impatient and impulsive reformers were fond of denouncing what they described as an archaic Wisconsin constitution and what they complained was an awkward and difficult process for modifying it.

More reflective critics, including the editors of these columns over the years, have insisted that the foundations of government should not be modified or eliminated by impulse and in haste and that there has been no emergency demonstrated that is too exigent as to require the rejection of the whole basic code.

Thus far that judgment has been vindicated. Repeatedly in recent years the people of Wisconsin have accepted proposals for change, screened in advance by the legislature, on referendum ballots that modified or abandoned the rules that were thought to be prudent and wise nearly a century and a half earlier and were ratified by the handful of voters on the frontier. Sometimes such propositions were defeated. Several times they were approved upon resubmission. On the whole, the Wisconsin revision process has been an efficient and wholesome one, reflecting the careful pre-screening by legislative representatives, and an informed and deliberative response of the private citizens.

That such a conclusion echoes the judgment of a solid electoral majority is demonstrated by the total disappearance from the campaign stump of those anxious politicians who formerly sought to tear down the whole constitutional fabrics by way of a new constitutional convention.

Election reform badly needed

A soon-to-be released book by the citizens lobby Common Cause entitled "Money and Secrecy: A Citizen's Guide to Reforming State and Federal Practices" pronounces Wisconsin's campaign financing law as adequate. If this means the Wisconsin law really is better than laws of other states, the nation's elective process is in a lot worse shape than most people think.

Again this year, Wisconsin has its doubts about exactly who was contributing money to legislative candidates, whether all so-called voluntary campaign committees were filing reports, whether reporting of large contributions was not held back until after the election and whether some political committees were not squirrelling away money for the 1974 gubernatorial election without filing reports this year. To all that was added a State Supreme Court ruling which said an Assembly candidate who filed no report had committed an "insubstantial" violation of the law as it now stands.

Wisconsin's law is far from adequate. And the people of the state, with the election fresh in mind, should start putting on pressure for reform in the 1973 legislature. There is something to draw on for guidance, the 1971 federal law which regulates presidential and congressional elections.

The federal law has its faults, the main one being a far from safe ceiling for total expenditures. Some other improvements are needed in transforming long lists of contributions into public knowledge sooner before election day.

But the law is a start in the right direction. When one W. Clement Stone makes a $1 million contribution to the campaign of President Nixon, the voters ought to know about it. When union political action committees raise $8 million to assist candidates, the voters ought to know about it. Through the efforts of such groups as Common Cause and the nation's press, the new law enabled the voters to have such information before the election.

But providing the voters with such information should be only the first step, and the working of the 1971 law should lead to a second step — realistic and safe limits on campaign spending. The amount of money used in the national elections again was a disgrace which leaves public doubts about commitments of office-holders to large contributors.

The same is true on the state level, and the 1973 legislature should at least match the language of the new federal law. This will take public pressure. The people should make it plain that they want to know where campaign money is coming from and that the state should have spending limits to erase doubts from the election process.

Black medical students

The president of the National Medical Association, Dr. Edmund S. Casey, has accused American medical schools of dragging their feet toward the recruitment of black medical students.

The numbers of such students have increased. Between 1968 and 1971 the number almost tripled for freshman classes and the percentage of blacks in freshman classes jumped from only 2.7 in 1966 to 7.1 in 1971. Overall there were 2,056 black medical students last year as compared to only 783 in the earlier years.

But, says Dr. Casey, 600 of the larger figure are at the all-black universities of Howard and Meharry. The number of white students elsewhere has also increased. Dr. Casey feels that all medical schools in the country should aim toward a 12 per cent figure which is approximately the proportion of blacks in the population of this country.

The trouble is not only one of subtle or overt discrimination although both may apply in some places. As with so many higher level programs in education, the decades of orientation away from academic pursuits in many black families, the poorer elementary and secondary educations available to blacks in many areas and the subsequent lower standards in some primarily black colleges have cut the ranks of applicants. When the first push toward black programs began more than a decade ago, administrators and admittance directors were scouring some areas for more qualified black students. Undoubtedly the same situation is influential today in the relatively small number of blacks and other minority representatives in most medical schools. For that matter, the percentage of women students also continues to be almost minimal.

The status is not something that can be willed away or will it change in a hurry. But the very fact that there are several handicaps to overcome in building bigger percentages of black medical students means that greater efforts must be taken

MADISON — What right does the voter have to reliable information on the mental and physical health of public officials and, more particularly, the candidates who offer themselves for public places that have a substantial capacity for affecting the public welfare and safety?

The question has been discussed in muted tones for decades. It may be that one of the historic contributions of the American election political campaigns of this year will be a thoughtful review of possible methods of disclosure and protective response.

The episode involving the removal of Sen. Eagleton from the Democratic ticket after his nomination for the vice presidency may persist in the history of the times longer than many of the other principal episodes of one of the extraordinary elections of the national experience.

Tragic political episode

No one claimed that Sen. Eagleton, obviously an attractive and energetic man, was ill at the time of his nomination. But the disclosure that he had a history of minor mental illness was nevertheless the force that led to one of the tragic episodes of party politics.

More recently a New York congressman of considerable rank and power died a victim of a malignant disease, a few months after renomination in a primary election that attracted national attention, and without a disclosure of his condition to his constituents.

Twenty years ago the Republican voters of Wisconsin, more so than those of perhaps any other state except his own Ohio, supported Sen. Robert A. Taft in a primary election as nominee of the Republicans for the presidency. A year after the election Sen. Taft died as a victim of an incurable malady.

Earlier, one of the leading men in the history of Wisconsin politics was haunted during the last years of his career, at the height of his influence as a national leader, by unsubstantiated but nevertheless widespread stories of physical weakness.

Lately the apprehension in responsible quarters including the leadership of the state bar has led to the devising of machinery to certify the disability of judges in the state courts, under careful procedures, as a means of safeguarding the integrity of the courts and the efficient administration of justice. The rule for the retirement of such important officers was adopted without public fuss or visible resentment, in part, perhaps, because it was accompanied by an assurance of full retirement eligibility for disqualified magistrates.

The peril of disability of a vice president, real or potential, is obvious in the law on constitutional succession to the presidency in an emergency. But what about officers of lesser rank? Leading law enforcement officials, the head of a vital congressional committee, the head of a major state agency to which the legislature has entrusted powers that frequently rank with its own, or the governor?

This state within the memory of most voters middle aged or over elected to the governorship a man who died a few days before his inauguration. It seems improbable, to put it as gently as possible, that a man of his comparatively young years could not have been shown to be in poor health before the balloting. Nobody asked. Nobody suspected.

In the same year Wisconsin had re-elected a man of more than 80 years as lieutenant governor. Under law he succeeded to the top office.

He was affectionately regarded in the statehouse where he had served a generation earlier as a legislator. He quickly cultivated an image of pluck and combative independence. The statehouse press corps to a man had an affectionate regard for him. But every man in the reporting corps knew also that he was showing the fated disabilities of advanced age.

Staff and his spouse zealously protected him from normal exposure, rationed appointments and paper work decisions, and as time advanced increasingly took upon themselves the responsibility of making decisions in his name. Predictably, he succumbed. He was elected twice, and served slightly more than four years. He died at 87, a legend in his own time.

Treatment must fit type of crime

I wish the public would learn to stop using the word "crime" as a composite word. Then we might be able to get somewhere with the problem.

If I made a statement about a "horse," you would want to know if I am referring to a thoroughbred, a quarter-horse, or a farm horse; they are all equines, but they differ in practical ways.

So it is with "crime." There are at least three sorts: there is "organized" crime, there is "social" crime, and there is "psychopathic" crime. Unless we distinguish among them, we cannot come to grips with any.

Organized crime is by far the most expensive to society, the most entrenched, and thus the least prosecuted. It often has deep political and economic roots, which can be eradicated only through massive Federal efforts.

Social crime is committed mostly by young men — and the age gets younger every year — who are jobless, desperate, alienated, and feel they have little to lose by turning outlaw. The rise in such crime is part of a widespread social malaise that cannot be remedied by a "crack-down" or stiffer sentences and more prisons, but only by bringing these disaffected areas into the mainstream of American life, by getting rid of the cancer spots that breed these attitudes

The third kind — psychopathic crime — has always been with us, and always will. These are the especially horrendous crimes of young girls being abducted, sexually tampered with, and then killed. Nothing in the juridical or penal system can "deter" future psychopaths.

The tragedy of this third kind is that we now have the diagnostic tools to detect such aberrations at an early stage — but for reasons of ignorance, inertia, and fiscal economy, these tools are not utilized, in the schools, in the clinics, in all the places where disturbed personalities could be isolated and treated (or confined, if necessary) before their sickness breaks out into homicidal violence.

As long as we confuse these three sorts — and simply clamor for more "law and order," whatever that may mean — the organized criminals will continue to go their way relatively immune to punishment (a New York survey shows that racketeers win dismissal five times as often as other defendants), the disaffected young men will continue to mug and loot, and the psychopaths will remain on the loose until it is too late.

We need a three-pronged campaign, on several fronts, to clarify and then to effectively combat each form of crime. Until then our fulminations will only bring us closer to a police state without ever realistically coming to grips with this triadic threat to our society

Generation gap is really a zap!

A number of letters from readers have put me into an introspective mood. They are not nasty communications, but rather simple, usually very polite requests for information. For example, a neatly printed note from Chicago which said: "I am a high school student interested in politics. In one of your editorials (a common term, I find) you referred to Henry Wallace and I would like to know who he was and what he stood for. Was he related to George Wallace? Your help would be appreciated."

My generational conditioned reflex was "Henry Wallace! Who in the United States doesn't know about Henry Wallace?" Then, on second thought, Wallace ran in 1948, a number of years before this young man was born. Why should he know about that Progressive Party? As a matter of fact, it wasn't even on the ballot in Illinois, a neat legal ploy that probably saved the state for Harry Truman, who won Illinois by less than 35,000 votes. But there I go again. Who was Truman?

How about the missiles?

The point was rammed home — literally — by my almost 18-year-old daughter who wandered in the other day to ask "What was the Cuban missile crisis?" I confess I looked at her in astonishment. After all, it was only ten years ago that we held our collective breath for a week waiting to see whether World War III was about to erupt. "Don't you remember?" — I asked — "We were in Chicago and Khrushchev put Russian missiles into Cuba and President Kennedy forced him to remove them."

"Who was Khrushchev?"

By now I had my bearings. She had been 7 in the missile crisis and almost 10 when Khrushchev was deposed. But one thing she did remember: that several of the neighbors in Chicago had rushed off to the Co-op and filled their basements with food. (I had settled for a case of Scotch.) In short, the Cuban missile crisis was when Sandra and Jimmy's mommies had loaded up on emergency rations.

This, I think, is the real generational gap, the absence of shared experience. My wife and I, who celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary last June, can conduct conversations in a variety of short-hand language. "Do you think it will be a 64?" "No, a 56." Code? No, the question asked whether I thought the whole Democratic ticket would be demolished by a bad licking at the top, and the answer was that I think voters will behave as they did in 1956, when President Eisenhower got a massive majority but the Democrats retained control of the Senate and House. It was a perfectly intelligible exchange between two middle-aged political activists, but it would have taken 20 minutes to explain to our daughter.

Camelot lives on

We see a version of this generational abyss in the political activities of former White House staffers, particularly knights emeritus of Camelot. That credit line is dead: Who cares if Mr. X once worked for John Kennedy? Or, for that matter, for Lyndon Johnson? In an earlier column I mentioned the ultimate put-down which left my ego quivering for several days. A young woman came up to me after class to inquire "What was it like to work for President Nixon?" Zap!

But in retrospect I think it was good for me. We all suffer from what my father called the "Aunt Rosemary complex": somewhere in the family there was tucked away Aunt Rosemary who lived to an incredible age like 99. To the end of her days she considered the Philippine Insurrection the only significant war of the century, including two World Wars. Her husband, a regular army non-com, was killed fighting the insurgents. In writing a column it is useful to keep Aunt Rosemary in mind — I just wish I had a picture of her to hang over the typewriter.

Pony shot and blinded

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

I have a question that I would like to put to each individual member of the community: What are we becoming when a six-year-old child's pony is shot and blinded for life by a poacher on privately owned property and no one seems to care, either for the pony or the child?

At 4:00 a.m. Monday morning, October 30, a rifle was fired into an open pasture at a small black and white pinto pony mare. The bullet entered through her right eye and lodged in the sinuses where it must stay due to the great risk involved with the attempted removal of it. This pony is all of 5 years old, leaving at least 25 more years of her life to be lived in blindness. And a little six-year old girl goes to her stall several times a day to visit her, offering her consolation and companionship to the frightened animal. For better than two days the tiny mare trembled from fear and pain.

When I called several parties, including the Appleton Police Department and Outagamie Sheriff's Department, I was told "that's too bad. . .not much we can do about it." In effect they were saying "that's really tough." Worse yet is the fact that the Sheriff's Department stated they had sent an investigator and that the area was being patroled more closely. Upon contacting the owner of the stable, Mrs. Gordon Schnur, I was informed that there had been no investigation conducted and that, though she had watched, she had seen no more patrol cars than usual. Upon calling the Town Hall of Grand Chute, Mrs. Schnur was informed that a petition to stop hunting in that area would be of no use since "this town supports the hunters quite avidly." Why they support them is beyond me — as often as I've ridden through the woods in that area I have scarcely seen anything worth wasting a bullet on — unless they're hunting houses and garages (which in that area have plenty of bullet holes).

John Arft, the town constable of Grand Chute, and Dale Morey of the Department of Natural Resources were the only ones to offer helpful suggestions. Mr. Arft offered to contact the youth of that area to see if anyone had heard anything from a braggart who might have done it and Mr. Morey suggested removing the bullet if the pony should die, with the possibility in mind that at some later date it may be matched at the crime lab with that of another bullet whose owner is identifiable. Mr. Morey also reminded me that this type of thing is happening to deer and other wildlife all the time but not one seems to become outraged. I think it's about time someone did.

I'm all for the sport of hunting and I realize it wasn't a good hunter who was responsible for blinding the pony. I recognize the fact that there is nothing that can be done to find the person responsible for the shooting. What I want is to prevent any more. I'm asking the citizens and government employees alike keep a more constant, watchful eye on areas such as Grand Chute so that more ponies or deer or cows or cats or dogs are not killed cold-bloodedly for no more reason than to watch it die or see how good a "marksman" can shoot. I'm asking everyone to please do his part to see that circumstances are not in the favor of the poacher any more.

Americanos say thanks

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Our heartfelt thanks go out to all of our friends from the Fox River Valley who made our recent Pizza Drive a success. Many hours of hard work were involved, but with your backing it was well worth it. Special thanks to all of those who worked so hard and long. The patience of those of you who were kept waiting for your delivery, due to various problems, must be commended, and we hope the next time things will run a little smoother. To those of you who did not have the opportunity to purchase our delicious product, we will have another Pizza Drive in the spring.

For those of you who do not realize what our organization is, just a short explanation. The Americanos Drum and Bugle Corps is at this time composed of 170 (and increasing) young men and women of the Fox River Valley, whose common enjoyment is music and marching. They practice together two, and sometimes three times a week throughout the year, trying to become the finest Drum and Bugle Corps in the nation, and to represent you, the people of the Fox River Valley, across our state, and wherever they appear, with pride and sincerity. We believe our Americanos to be the finest organization in the Fox River Valley for young men and women between the ages of 9 and 21. The only requirements to join are, sincere interest and the time and willingness to learn.

The Americanos are self-supporting, in that all moneys are raised through projects taken on by the Booster Club of the Americanos and members of the Americanos, such as our Pizza Drive, and donations made by business and industry. The Booster Club is open for membership to anyone who wishes to join. All money is spent on uniforms, instruments, equipment, and instructors, plus expenses for transportation. Our yearly budget is almost unbelievable, therefore we have quite a number of fund raising drives.

We deeply appreciate your support, as we represent you, the people of the Fox River Valley, across our state and nation. Again our thanks,

Jerry Wilhelme, Pres.

Fiscal year's deficit figured at $23 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal deficit of $23.227 billion for the 1972 fiscal year has been reported by the Treasury Department.

The Department said Wednesday that total government revenue for the year was $208.6 billion and expenditures $231.8 billion.

The 1972 deficit compares with a projected deficit of $27 billion for the current year. However, the current deficit could be closer to $35 billion unless President Nixon cuts back drastically on proposed spending

The 1972 deficit was the highest since the $25-billion deficit of 1968. The 1971 deficit was $23.033 billion.

Why stick your neck out

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

After reading the article by Roger Zerrenner on the value of your vote, I am inclined to disagree with him in many ways which according to his article I have a perfect right to do. I do not doubt that he is sincere but I believe this article has more theory than it has fact.

He says he has asked numerous people the simple question. "How do you feel about the election?" I don't think the question is quite as simple as he implies and besides I do not think that it is anyone's business except your own.

I think the place to state your preference is in the voting booth otherwise there would be no use of privacy in voting. There are at least two categories that are controversial enough that it usually pays to keep your opinions to yourself, at least as far as a stranger is concerned, politics and religion. There is nothing more boring to me to have someone continually harping on either subject. It really doesn't make too much difference whether they agree with my views or otherwise. There are cases in politics that the candidates have very little difference in their views or records and it makes little difference who wins. There can be times that you have not really made up your mind who to vote for, especially in a case of the lesser of two evils.

In one part he says you should speak out and that if one does speak out he runs the risk of being labeled a square or a radical. There are also some employers that believe that their hired hands should vote the same as they do. So why stick your neck out if you have nothing to gain by it?

There is some kind of a saying that if some people would keep their mouths shut it would take a lot longer to find out how stupid they are. I don't mean that personally I just think it's a good idea. I recently had an incident in a parking lot where a candidate was putting bumper stickers on vacant cars and I stopped him just in time from putting one on mine. This was in the primary and I have never even heard of him.

I have lived for quite a few years in both Chicago and Milwaukee and I have seen and heard of cases in a certain section of the city where the wrong bumper sticker or other political advertising led to four flat tires and a broken windshield. Discussing some things with relatives who have different opinions than yours is also a lost cause in my estimation. So I say to Mr. Z. that I wish him the best of luck and grant him the privilege of asking me anything he wants to. But I will reserve the right to tell him only what I want him to know or the right to tell him nothing at all if I feel so inclined.

Humphrey considering majority leader job

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., says he "most likely" will seek the Senate majority leader's post if Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana decides to step aside.

Humphrey said Wednesday he would not consider running for the post unless "I had people coming to me, asking me to do it.

"Quite frankly," he added, "several have done so already.

"Some of my friends have spoken to me about it. Very influential ones have come to me and said I should do it. I have not asked a living mortal to support me, because I haven't made up my mind that I ought to do it."

Kaukauna council asks AEC to license Point Beach plant

KAUKAUNA — A resolution adopted by the common council asks the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to license Point Beach nuclear plant No. 2 at full capacity.

The council argues that delays in the operation of the plant, because of environmental objections, are prejudicial to the city. The city electric utility buys power from outside firms during periods of peak use.

In July, the AEC granted Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. a license to operate the unit at 20 per cent of capacity. Full licensing awaits an environmental impact statement and on Friday more hearings were ordered.

The Point Beach plant has an electrical generating capacity of 497 magawatts, and was ready for full loading in Aug., 1971. The resolution says that costs resulting from the delays will be passed on to consumers.

"It is in the public interest that the Atomic Energy Commission act as soon as possible in granting an operating license to Wisconsin Michigan Power Company and Wisconsin Electrical Power Company, permitting the operation of Point Beach Nuclear Plant Unit No 2 at full power and to continue Unit No. 1 at full power," the resolution states.

Pentagon prepares for new round of base closings, civilian job cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the election over, the Pentagon is preparing a new round of base-closings and reductions that will eliminate thousands of civilian defense jobs.

The cutbacks probably will not be announced until after Congress returns in January, defense sources said

The base cuts are being planned in response to President Nixon's orders to trim the rolls of civil service employes and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's promise to Congress to absorb $1.5 billion in budget cuts this fiscal year.

Just before the 1972 election year began, David Packard left office as deputy secretary of defense with a parting complaint that the Pentagon could save $1 billion a year by closing unneeded bases, were it not for political constraints.

The Army, Navy and Air Force long have wanted to shut down a number of bases they consider marginal. But, anticipating election year protests from congressmen and senators with large numbers of defense employes among their constituents, they waited.

Now the "political realities," as one Pentagon official termed them, are temporarily over though the list of bases most likely to be closed or cut back is being kept under wraps for the time being.

However, the Army is known to be planning a reorganization that, among other things, likely would merge the First Army headquarters at Ft. Meade, Md., and the Third Army headquarters in Atlanta, eliminating one of them The Army also is expected to recommend retrenching helicopter training-and-maintenance bases now that American forces are virtually out of Vietnam.

Some sources indicate that possibly two naval shipyards, one on each coast, might be shut down. They were not named either.

Nixon gave a fresh indication of things to come last week when he said in a published interview that civilian defense employes "are getting in the way of each other over in the Pentagon and around the country" and that "they are going to have to take a thinning down."

At the same time, Nixon indicated that any cuts in the uniformed strength of the armed services would be slight.

There are reports that a 5 per cent slice in civilian employment may be applied throughout the government under Nixon's new policy, designed to reduce spending.

There now are fewer than 1.1 million civilian workers on the payroll of the Defense Department and its agencies, compared with a payroll swollen to more than 1.3 million in 1969 before the beginning of the Vietnam withdrawal and corresponding reductions in the size of the military establishment.

A 5 per cent cutback in the present civil service force in the Defense Department would amount to about 55,000 people. Officials hope that much of this can be accomplished through normal attrition — retirements, resignations and deaths.

Laird already has announced two base-closing and reduction packages affecting 677 installations in the United States and abroad. Many of these were to be phased out over a period of years. The last base-closing orders ware made public in March, 1970.

Pentagon sources say 392 military installations have been closed since Nixon took office in January 1969, eliminating 154,500 civilian jobs and saving $3.7 billion annually.

As a result of these base actions, Pentagon officials say nearly 273,000 military slots were eliminated. This was during the time when the armed services were being squeezed down from a Vietnam war peak of about 3.5 million men. The total of Americans now in uniform is about 2.4 million.

Last of operettists Rudolf Friml dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rudolf Friml, last of the great operettists, died Sunday night. He was 92.

The diminutive, Prague-born composer of "Rose Marie" and "The Vagabond King" succumbed after a lengthy illness at Presbyterian Hospital.

He had entered the hospital on Oct. 5 for treatment of the undisclosed illness. Last February he was hospitalized for internal bleeding.

He was known as the last of the big three operettists, along with Victor Herbert and Sigmund Romberg. But besides his 33 operettas, he composed numerous works in other forms and was renowned as a pianist.

An operetta is a light, amusing, often farcical musical-dramatic work with an inconsequential plot, cheerful music and spoken dialogue. Friml was classified as a romanticist who favored themes of the swashbuckling past. His works were strong on melody.

He wrote his first operetta, "Firefly," in 1912 and was active into his 90s.

"I'm so full of music that, if I don't sit down and let some of it flow, I think I would burst from the pressure," he said in an interview two years ago. At the time, he was composing a concerto dealing with the Russian invasion of his native Czechoslovakia a few years earlier.

He wrote such popular songs as "Indian Love Call" and "Donkey Serenade," which he later called an "abortion." He never would name his favorite.

The son of a poor baker, Friml would chuckle when remembering his first piano teacher.

He said she "threw up her arms in despair. 'That boy is crazy. He won't play the scales. He wanders all over the piano.' Who could accept the fact that age 4 years old I already was composing!"

Friml later studied at the Prague Conservatory and was a student of Czech composer Antonin Dvorjak. He first came to the United States in 1901 on a concert tour as accompanist for violinist Jan Kubelik.

He returned to this country in 1906 and, six years later, got his first big break when musical-comedy star Emma Trentini split up with Victor Herbert and commissioned Friml to write an operetta for her.

It was "Firefly." After about nine years away from the limelight, he wrote a string of successes that gave him a lasting place among American composers. He became a naturalized U.S. citizen in 1925.

Rudolf Friml

"In the early '20s, everybody said I was finished," he said. "Two years later, I came out with three hits in a row: 'Rose Marie,' 'Vagabond King' and 'Three Musketeers.' " Friml came to Hollywood in 1932, writing scores for motion pictures and composing many works for violin, cello and piano.

"You can shake music out of your sleeve, Rudy," Irving Berlin once told Friml, who loved melody and had an abiding distaste for modern composers with a penchant for dissonance. One was Igor Stravinsky.

"He takes a strain, wraps it in discord and plays it as badly as he can," Friml said of the late composer. "He should not sleep nights for putting out such things. It is terrible to the ear."

Friml lived with his fourth wife, Kay, to whom he was married in 1952, in a sprawling home atop the Hollywood Hills.

There, he practiced on one of two grand pianos, received a steady flow of guests and often startled them with denunciations of rock 'n' roll, emphasized by swivel-hip steps in the manner of a 15-year-old amid sarcastic cries of "Ya! Ya! Ya!"

In addition to his wife, Friml is survived by a son, Rudy Jr. of Los Angeles.

Group cites top Conservationist

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Conservationist of the Year award was presented to Leo Roethe of Fort Atkinson during the weekend by the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation which he formerly headed.

Roethe heads a a firm which sells natural resources education materials and owns a 1,500 acre pine plantation near Boscobel. He chaired the task force which drew up the Outdoor Recraetion Act (ORAP-200) program.

Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber told the awards dinner Saturday that the Project Sanguine communications system proposed for the northern part of the state was the "darkest spot in Wisconsin's environmental picture."

MIAMI (AP) — Larry Garfield, a Miami carpenter, has found a poor man's way to beat the television blackout of sports events—a toy balloon antenna.

The balloon is filled with helium and attached by 50 to 75 feet of insulated wire to his television antenna. Garfield then floats the makeshift receiver and picks up on a Fort Pierce station about 100 miles north.

Scout official is charged with assault

WEEHAWKEN, N.J. (AP) — The second highest officer in the national Boy Scout organization is free today on $10,000 bail after being charged with assault with intent to kill following an altercation in the Lincoln Tunnel.

According to Port Authority police, George C. Freeman, 63, of Alexandria, Va., became embroiled in an argument Sunday evening with an off-duty New York City patrolman, John Reig, after the cars driven by the two men collided on the New Jersey approach to the tunnel here. The tunnel links midtown Manhattan with New Jersey.

Freeman drove into the tunnel after the collision but was overtaken by Reig, who ran after him. Traffic was so heavy that Reig was able to catch up to Freeman's car on foot, authorities noted.

After overtaking Freeman, Reig climbed onto the hood of Freeman's car and fired one shot through the windshield, striking Freeman on the wrist, police said. Freeman was treated for the gunshot wound at North Hudson Hospital and released.

After the shooting, the two men were separated by Port Authority police. Freeman was charged with assault with intent to kill because he allegedly tried to run down Reig. Freeman in turn had Reig charged with assault, police said.

Late comings, goings restricted by Swiss

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — A ban on late night takeoffs and landings at the Geneva, Zurich and Basel airports went into effect today so the neighbors can sleep better.

Scheduled airline flights are prohibited between 12:30 a.m. and 5 a.m. and charter flights from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m.

A government spokesman said the ban was imposed because the interests of persons living near the airports can no longer be ignored. The airlines claim air traffic now will be denser and louder during the remaining operating hours, and residents' associations asked for a ban of at least eight hours.

Democrats lining up for leadership fight

WASHINGTON — The enormity of the stunning McGovern debacle has magnified pressure for immediate dismissal of Jean Westwood as Democratic national chairman, confronting the party with a bloody battle testing its determination to return to centrist politics.

Our post-election telephone checks of National committee members reveal that many liberals, previously unconcerned about Mrs. Westwood's fate, are insisting she be purged at the Dec. 9 National Committee meeting. Her flat refusal even to consider quitting sets up the struggle for the soul of the Democratic party, far transcending the relatively puny powers of her office.

Fear continued control

To Democrats now demanding Mrs. Westwood's head, she symbolizes the McGovernite politics that drove off the essential and traditional white workingman's vote and now threatens to turn the party into a heavily ideologized faction of intellectuals and minority groups. Although the party's inherent strength easily survived the McGovern debacle this time, mainstream Democrats fear continued control by McGovernites could lay waste down to state and local levels the next time.

But in their blithe reaction to Tuesday's massacre, Mrs. Westwood and her supporters see little more than ineptitude and bad luck (as in the Eagleton affair) by candidate George McGovern. They seem determined to maintain the party's leftward crawl, retaining the full reforms, including quotas, of 1972. Keeping Mrs. Westwood as chairman symbolizes McGovernism without McGovern.

This attitude is seen in the mind-boggling decision to name McGovernite lieutenant Rick Stearns as top staffer of the party's new Charter Commission (granted immense powers to reshape the party). Though of unquestioned ability, Stearns unhappily is a red flag to important Jewish fund-raisers because of past anti Zionist connections.

California reaction

"I simply cannot believe it, and please quote me on that," super fund raiser Eugene Wyman of Los Angeles said about the appointment of Stearns, barred from California during the campaign. Non-participation of such Democratic fund-raisers as Wyman was a heavy burden to the McGovern campaign. Thus, Stearn's appointment indicates no lessons have been learned by Mrs. Westwood.

Typically, the pro-Westwood campaign is far better organized than the anti-Westwood effort. Mrs. Westwood's Watergate operation has been preoccupied not with the McGovern campaign but with nailing down her chairmanship. For example, she is using 25 unfilled, at-large seats on the expanded National Committee, plus the 100-member Charter Commission, as patronage to solidify her precarious perch.

Advising her is the shrewdest old pro on the party's left fringe: John F. English of New York, whom Mrs. Westwood will name this week as the committee's general counsel. The Westwood—English strategy is to argue that dumping her would (1) constitute an "impeachment" of the party's first woman chairman and (2) require the removal of deputy chairman Basil Patterson, a New York black politician (on the one-man, one-woman rule). Would the party dare offend both women and blacks in one bloody afternoon?

Old quota argument

"That's the kind of bull that made us end up with McGovern in the first place," one influential state chairman told us. But even if the old quota argument is now threadbare, McGovernites prosper mightily from the division and disorganization of their foes.

Robert Strauss, the hard-boiled Dallas lawyer universally praised as the party's pre-McGovern national treasurer, now has substantial — but monority — support to replace Mrs. Westwood. His backing: governors, Capitol Hill, state chairmen and, not insignificantly, from Wyman. But Strauss' ties with Texas, oil and John B. Connally disqualify him for many anti-Westwood liberal committeemen, whose support is split among some four or five others.

Given that split, the Westwood camp hopes to skirt Dec. 9 without a vote, then hold on until the 1974 election. Tuesday's landslide may have changed that. One important state chairman told us, "The Democratic party cannot afford keeping Jean Westwood" — a change from last Monday. A big city leader put it more colorfully: "These goddamn fools turned off every Democrat in the country and we've got to ride them out of town."

So, Democratic governors plan to meet in St. Louis Dec. 3. Democratic state chairmen confer in Washington a week earlier. Whether the mainstream party leaders fare any better than they did in trying to stop McGovern is now the first major test for the Democratic party in the aftermath of its worst presidential defeat in history.

Police & fire beat

Three guns and 12 cassette tapes, valued together at $232, were reported stolen from a car owned by Richard Penno, 5228 Long Court, route 1, Appleton, to Outagamie County police early Friday.

Entry into the car apparently was gained by prying open the left side vent window. The break-in took place overnight.

Three warning lights, fastened to their barricades by chains and padlocks, reportedly were stolen from a road repair site on Outagamie County Trunk M., just south of Hortonville, late Wednesday or early Thursday, according to a report received by county police from the county highway department.

The lights were valued together at $75. Highway department officials told police that between 12 and 14 of the lights, apparently removed by use of bolt cutters, have been taken from repair sites in the past several weeks.

KAUKAUNA — Glen Frank, 110 Island St., reported to police that a battery was stolen from his car while it was parked in an alley at the rear of his home sometime after 3:45 p.m. Tuesday.

KAUKAUNA — Police on patrol about 3:50 p.m. Wednesday discovered two large bags of leaves burning and used hand extinguishers in the police car to extinguish the fire which is believed to have been started by children.

OSHKOSH — The driver and two small children were advised to see a physician for treatment of minor injuries received when their car went into the ditch on County Trunk MM at State 110, Town of Winchester, about 2:45 p.m. Friday.

County police said the car, operated by Barbara P. La More, 23, 9760 Pioneer Road, went into a skid and rolled over into a ditch.

She reported a painful hip. Passengers Steven La More, 2, had a cut lip and Mark La More, six months, a bump on the head.

Schools' attendance to be aired

HORTONVILLE—An informational meeting for all school district residents has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday in the public school cafeteria.

Discussion topics will include the district's population growth and year round classes and the split-shift school day.

A panel discussion will feature Kenneth Thiene of the East Central Regional Planning Commission, who will speak on the potential growth of the area; Fred Kaufman, business manager of the Plymouth School District, who will discuss the year around school plan; and Jan Peterson, Winneconne superintendent of schools, who will discuss the split shift and school expansion.

The program is being sponsored jointly by the Hortonville Education Association (HEA) and the Parents Teachers Organization (PTO) as part of American Education Week.

The PTO hospitality committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Russell Griesbach, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reiland, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lautenschlager, Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Reimer, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Everts, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Seidler. Mrs. Lila Nelson is chairman of the HEA committee.

Enrollment down in state's schools

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — About 13,000 fewer children are attending public and private elementary and secondary schools in Wisconsin this year than last, the Department of Public Instruction has reported.

But Archie E. Buchmiller, deputy superintendent of public instruction, said the size of the decline among nonpublic pupils was substantially less than had been expected.

There were 994,992 pupils in public schools and 180,517 in nonpublic schools this fall. The figures a year ago were 999,921 and 188,395.

The shift from nonpublic to public schools this year was about 7,000 fewer than was anticipated, he said, possibly because the enrollment count in nonpublic schools is approaching a hard core from families firmly believing in that form of education.

Public school enrollment has dropped for three consecutive years, while the number in nonpublic schools has been declining steadily since the state began keeping records in 1965.

The drop in pupil membership means a saving of at least $3 million in the $250 million total of state aid to local school districts, Buchmiller said.

Benefit set for man with kidney disease

A benefit card party to raise money for the Rev. Robert Murphy kidney fund has been scheduled from 2 to 4 p.m. Nov. 21 in the Forum Restaurant at Gimbels.

Tickets are on sale at the information desk at Gimbels. The cost is $2 and includes refreshments.

The proceeds from the party will be used to help operate the kidney machine, needed by Murphy three times a week. The cost is about $750 a month. Murphy will have to use the machine until a transplant is available.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Water, sweat make this man itch terribly

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For 15 years my husband has not been able to take a bath without stinging as if he has a terrible rash. Only there is no rash on his body.

This stinging lasts for about 45 minutes every time his body gets moist, even from perspiration or any contact with water. It is worse from the neck down to to waist. — Mrs. M.B.T.

This is a strange and rather uncommon condition probably caused by a short of allergic reaction of body cells to water.

It appears to result from the release of certain substances from the cells, either histamine or what is called serotonin, which bring on the stinging or itching sensation. Often there is a rash associated with it.

If the released substance is histamine, then treatment with an antihistamine can be effective. Antihistamines, though, according to some studies, willl not have as effect if the released substance is serotonin. However, other drugs (Percactin is one) can be effective.

The drugs are usually prescribed to be taken about an hour before a bath.

Sometimes respond to simpler treatments. For example, brief exposures to water a few minutes at a time every 15 or 20 minutes may create a tolerance so that the individual can take a bath in relative comfort.

I would normally suspect some substance, say his particular bath soap or maybe a deodorant, as a possible cause of his reaction. But, since you say this has been going on for 15 years, I suspect you have tried your own detective work along these lines.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Everyone seems to have a different idea about the caffeine content of coffee, tea and cola drinks. What about the decaffeinated coffees which claim to be 97 per cent caffeine free? Is this really a significant reduction? — R.E.

A six-ounce cup of coffee runs about 18 milligrams of caffeine per ounce, or a bit over 11 milligrams per cup. (One milligram is 1/30,000 of an ounce.)

Tea, depending on how strongly it is brewed, runs 12 to 15 mg. per ounce, or somewhat below coffee. And cola drinks run 3 to 4 mg. per ounce.

Decaffeinated coffee does just what it claims to do — 2 to 4 mg. per cup, which is about 3 per cent of the caffeine in a regular cup of coffee.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that bubble bath causes kidney infection and mostly in girls. Is it true? — H.F.

True only to the extent that it may (not necessarily will) cause irritation in the external genital area. That's not the same as a kidney infection, for which other causes are more likely.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We often have fresh fish and if any is left over, I refrigerate it to eat warmed up in a day or so.

My husband will not touch it and vows that it will poison me. I find this hard to believe, but can't help but wonder. — Mrs. M.

I should think your husband might begin to wonder, too, since you are living proof that it hasn't poisoned you.

Thorough cooking and adequate refrigeration are, of course, necessary to prevent noxious deterioration, but that's a good rule for any food, not just fish.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am male, 83, and a diabetic who has just recovered from a prostate operation.

X-rays show I have a rather large gall stone, but because of my age and general condition, my doctor believes it advisable to postpone an operation for stone removal until absolutely necessary. — A.M.D.

Given your age, recent operation and your present physical condition, I'd say you have a very discerning coctor. Go along with him.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped enevelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possoble.

All bottled up

NEW YORK (AP) — The more than half a billion plastic bottles produced in the U.S. during the month of May 1972, are now reaching American consumers. People are buying more and more products—such as detergents, drugs and cosmetics and food—packaged in plastic bottles than ever before, reports the Society of the Plastics Industry.

State to broaden promotion of agricultural products

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin sausage may replace Wisconsin cheese as recipient of the state Agriculture Department's promotion spending, a department spokesman says.

Cheese promotion festivals, started 25 years ago by the department, used state seed money to encourage industry participation in efforts to sell Wisconsin dairy products in other regions.

But Robert Thayer, administrator of the department's marketing division, said the Wisconsin American Dairy Association and cheese manufacturers are firmly enough established in the promotion scheme to carry on without state help.

Department staff members, including Alice in Dairyland, will be available to work on the programs for a fee, Thayer said. The effective date of the department's decision is Jan. 1, 1973.

He said the department plans to use the money formerly designated for cheese promotions to take other "promotable farm products" into out-of-state market promotions.

"Why not promote Wisconsin sausage?" Thayer said of plans for two sausage promotions scheduled next spring.

Wisconsin is second to Pennsylvania nationally in sausage production and is "really well supplied with excellent firms," he said.

Willard Reese, director of market development in the Agriculture Department, said retail food sellers in various parts of the country have reported interest in the sausage promotion.

The department is also planning food festivals to include fruits, vegetables, poultry, meat and livestock produced in Wisconsin, he said, with retailers and institutional buyers the target.

The institutional market, according to Reese, will grow from $40 billion to $80 billion in the next decade.

The department has an annual budget of about $200,000 for promotion programs, he said.

Labor leader blasts proposal to eliminate judge elections

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A proposal to protect judges from having to face election is a undesirable plan to erect "a professional ivory tower," a labor leader complained Sunday.

John W. Schmitt, state AFL-CIO president, labelled the plan "a drastic step backward for democratically controlled government."

The governor's Citizens Study Committee on Judicial Organization voted 27-4 last week in support of a proposal under which county court judges and Circuit Court judges would be appointed by the governor from a list of nominess prepared by a review commission.

A judge would not have to face election for four years, and then only if enough persons signed a petition demanding a referendum on his record.

A spokesman for the subcommittee which drafted the plan said election of judges dissuades high-quality lawyers from wanting to get involved in politics.

Schmitt said the recommendation, which would require a constitutional amendment, is distressing to the AFL-CIO "in a period when there has been growing concern over the need to make government more responsive to the people."

The subcommittee, he said, believes appointing judges under a merit system "will produce better judges than the elective process because most citizens have little basis for evaluating judicial candidates."

(3) The Mayor read the following letter:

TO: ALL ALDERMEN

I am pleased to report that Appleton's Urban Transit Service Study Committee has completed its work and has transmitted its final report; a copy of this report is attached for your consideration.

On behalf of the Community I wish to convey deep appreciation to Committee Chairman Andrew Parnell and all committee members for the outstanding effort they put into this project, to include the special urgency they brought to expediting their deliberations. The citizens of Appleton are in their debt.

The report deserves and I am sure will receive the prompt and careful consideration of the Common Council.

(4) The Mayor delivered the following Executive Budget Message in conjunction with his presentation of his Executive Budget to aldermen:

TO: ALL ALDERMEN

Presented herewith is the executive budget for 1973 for the City of Appleton. The conclusions it represents were arrived at after a review of City needs which included consultation with department heads with regard to budgets within their areas of responsibility.

This budget contains a number of changes in format intended to provide greater information, including the following:

— more detailed personnel cost breakdown by job category (this should be especially helpful in view of the very large percentage of the budget expended for personnel)

— greater use of explanatory footnotes

1972 has been a rough year budget-wise. The conflict between expenditure needs and tax pressures has caused these current year budgetary problems; of perhaps even greater concern is the fact that the 1972 budget passed many problems on to taxpayers in 1973 and beyond through the deferral of taxes to these years. This observation is not made in a second-guessing vein; rather it is intended to realistically portray the serious tax problems the City will face next year and beyond because of the budget actions in recent years which have resulted both in the postponing of necessary expenditure outlays and the deferral of tax payments through additional bonding to eliminate initial year impact on the tax levy.

Because of the above, this report on the 1973 budget situation would be most pessimistic if it were not for the very helpful impact of appreciably increased outside revenues, caused primarily by the enactment of federal revenue sharing.

These revenues will enable us to deal positively with a very difficult problem, both by holding the line on (and actually reducing) the 1973 rate at which property owners will pay taxes* and by making some real progress in avoiding 1973 budget actions which will force the costly deferral of taxes until 1974 and beyond.

I would like to make special note of the following:

— No money is included for a new police facility because of a present lack of a realistic cost figure, however, I do believe this project should move forward as promptly as possible. It is assumed that this project would be bonded, thus it would not have a first year impact on the tax levy.

— Although it is based upon an estimate of current subsidy continuation through 1973, the Fox River Bus Line subsidy figure does not reflect a recommendation as to the advisability of continuation of the present temporary subsidy for bus service. A realistic budget figure cannot be provided until the City makes a determination as to whether tax support should be provided for bus service, and, if it should, in what manner and in what amount.

In sum, I believe this budget represents a responsible approach to our very burdensome property tax situation.

Sincerely
s/JAMES P. SUTHERLAND
MAYOR
CITY OF APPLETON

*This applies to City of Appleton Outagamie County property owners. City of Appleton Calumet County property owners will continue to have a tax payment rate lower than that in Outagamie County, however Calumet County will experience a slight increase in the rate of actual tax payment. The difference is attributable to a greater increase in Calumet County Government's tax levy and a smaller increase in sales tax credit return to Calumet County.

(5) The Plan Commission will go on a tour tomorrow at 1:15 P.M. with the tour to be conducted by City Planner Jack Hetu. Ten apartment sites will be visited to acquire first hand viewing information of various types of apartment developments with specific reference to the intensity of land coverage by the physical building.

This tour is prompted in part by the review of current zoning requirements for HEIGHT AND AREA REQUIREMENTS, and more specifically relative to the lot square footage requirements for multi-family apartments.

Aldermen, department heads, and the public are invited to attend.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
RE: Zone Change

Notice is hereby given that there will be a public hearing held in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Appleton, Wisconsin, on November 1, 1972, at 7:30 P.M., or as soon thereafter as can be heard, for the purpose of considering the following zone change. The City Plan Commission recommends approval of this Zone Change.

The rezoning of the following described land from C-5 (Planned Commercial District) to C-2 (General Commercial District). Ward 14.

RE: Proposed Amendments to the Zoning Code

Notice is hereby given that there will be a public hearing held in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Appleton, Wisconsin, on November 1, 1972, at 7:30 P.M., or as soon thereafter as can be heard, for the purpose of considering:

The proposed amendment to Subsection (9) (d) of Section 20.17, Height and Area Exceptions and Modifications, Chapter 20, Appleton Municipal Code be repealed and recreated:

Vision Corners. There shall be a vision corner on all corner lots located in zoning districts that require a minimum 20' setback from street property lines. The vision corner is described as the triangular area enclosed by a straight line connecting a point on each street line, which point is 25' from the intersection of said street lines. Fences erected in such vision corners shall not exceed 3' in height. Plantings in such vision corners shall be maintained in such a fashion as to provide unobstructed vision from 3' above the center line elevation of the abutting pavement to 10' above the said center line elevation.

All persons interested are invited to attend this meeting and will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Rain puts highway work behind schedule

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin's wet summer and fall has forced lengthy delays in more than 50 highway construction projects which won't be completed this year, state highway officials said Saturday.

"We can't blame the contractors," said Charles Aten, chief construction engineer for the Highway Division. "They've been trying to stop the rain just as much as we have."

Aten, just back from a 1,200-mile inspection of uncompleted projects, said many "just look terrible—a sea of mud. It's been the worst construction season in my recollection."

At this late date, there is virtually no chance that uncompleted projects could dry out enough to permit completion, he said, and motorists will find few of the projects interfering with traffic.

Construction crews are hustling to complete jobs with the highest priority, another official said, although landscaping and permanent signs might have to wait until spring.

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

(Makes 8 servings) · 1 large onion, chopped · 1 T. butter or margarine · 6-1/2 c. drained Frank's Quality Kraut · 1 med. apple, pared and diced · 1-1/2 c. grated potatoes (2 med.) · 1 sm. carrot, grated · 2 t. caraway seed · 1/2 t. salt · 1/4 t. pepper · 1/2 c. dry white wine · 11-12 lb. goose · In large skillet or saucepan saute onion in butter until golden. Add kraut, apple, potatoes, carrot, seasonings and wine. Cook over medium heat 5 min., stirring constantly. Stuff goose, truss, then place on rack in shallow pan. Roast at 325° 4 to 4-1/2 hours.

Frank's. For kraut lovers. Cans or jars. Kraut juice, too.
